BARCELONA'S DEATH THROES

Street Fighting Starts as Cruiser Radios "Fall of City Imminent"

DESTROYER TAKES BRITISH REFUGEES TO MARSEILLES

LONDON, JAN. 25.
WITH THE INSURGENT VANGUARD ALREADY ENGAGED IN STREET FIGHTING AMIDST THE RUINS OF THE FIRST HOUSES IN BARCELONA PROPER, WHICH THEY REACHED AT 10.20 P.M. ON TUESDAY NIGHT (6.20 A.M. YESTERDAY H.K.T.) THE IMMINENT FALL OF THE ENTIRE CITY NOW APPEARS CERTAIN.

Confirmation for this was given early this morning by the British cruiser Devonshire, which has wirelessed the Admiralty in London that "the fall of Barcelona is imminent."

The laconic message from the Devonshire, which is at Caldetas, contains nothing additional, except that the British Minister, Mr. R. C. S. Stevenson, still refuses to leave Barcelona, despite repeated urgings.

Socialist Appeal To Democracy

LONDON, Jan. 25.
OFFICIALS OF the Labour and Socialist International, and the International Federation of Trade Unions, including the Secretary of the French Trade Union Congress, M. Jouhaux, and the Belgian Secretary, M. Debrouckers, held a secret conference at Transport House, Westminster on Tuesday night, to consider the situation in Spain.

They sat for four hours, and then unanimously passed a resolution appealing to the Democracies of the world, even at the last moment, to rally to save the Spanish Government.

It is understood that the resolution is the strongest yet issued by the International Labour movement.

NEW YORK PARADE
Simultaneously a New York message reports that 5,000 paraded Times Square chanting "Lift the Spanish Embargo". There were no disorders, but extra police were required to control traffic, as the demonstration was held at the same time people were passing out of the theatres.—United Press.

BRITAIN SEEKS ASSURANCES
London, Jan. 25.
The British Government has instructed the acting agent in Burgos, Mr. Cecil Jeram, to convey to the insurgent Government the hope that General Franco's troops will abstain from committing acts of vengeance in the Catalan regions occupied by (Continued on Page 4.)

NEW CRISIS IMMINENT

London and Paris Lose Confidence

LONDON, Jan. 25.
SOME DIPLOMATIC sources assert that opinion is growing in well-informed circles in London and Paris, that the next crisis will occur within a month.

If Herr Hitler speaks on January 30, he will possibly reveal when, and how, the next crisis will arise.

Meanwhile confidence is apparently evaporating both in London and Paris that there will be any substantial withdrawal of Italian soldiers from Spain, if and when the Loyalists are defeated.

The British Consul-General, Mr. D. J. Rogers is also remaining at Barcelona for the present.

COMMUNICATIONS SEVERED
Meanwhile Barcelona's communications with the outside world, except for Government and military messages, were virtually cut off this morning.

The wireless and cable facilities have been taken over by the Barcelona military authorities, after which commercial and press communications were suspended.

The sole telephone line from Barcelona to France is theoretically still functioning, but with indefinite delays, indicating that it is being used almost exclusively for Government business.—United Press.

DESTROYER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

MARSEILLES, Jan. 25.
THE BRITISH destroyer Greyhound, arriving from Barcelona landed in Marseilles to-day with ten employees and their families of the British Embassy staff.

The Embassy staff has remained in Spain, and is at present in Gerona.

Regarding the situation in Barcelona, the refugees stated that the thunder of guns had been getting nearer, and conditions had become, from day to day, more critical.

Insurgent air raids had caused great damage, and several ships in the harbour had been sunk.

Even the Greyhound had had a narrow escape from bombs.

Barcelona's air defences are described as being not particularly efficient, apparently owing to lack of material and munition.

Opinion was expressed that the city would only be able to hold out for a brief period.

The destroyer also brought part of the archives of the British Embassy from Spain, which were immediately forwarded to London.—Trans-Ocean.

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
The Spanish Loyalist Ministers, with leading members of their staffs, have left Barcelona, and arrived this morning at Gerona, which is the only Catalan provincial capital not occupied by the insurgents, or within range of their guns.

Berlin, Jan. 25.
The Reichstag will meet on January 30, at 8 p.m., G.M.T.—Reuter.

The news is also regarded as significant as further evidence of the Chinese Government's determination to develop West China. Inquiries in London suggest that Chungking's announcement is slightly premature, though it is hoped that an official statement will be made in the not distant future.

Air circles point out that such arrangements generally imply a mutual concession, for example, in this case, freedom for British aeroplanes to fly into China, which had hitherto been refused to all foreign lines.—Reuter.

VICTORY ASSURED IN CHINA

—SAYS CHIANG

CHUNGKING, Jan. 25.
"CHINA WILL eventually emerge victor in the present Sino-Japanese conflict."

This dominating conviction, which forms the guiding force of the Chinese people in their supreme struggle against Japanese aggression, was once more forcefully expressed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his opening speech before the fifth plenary session of the Central Executive Committee to-day. General Chiang, in his capacity as Chief Executive of the Kuomintang, told the C.E.C. members that from purely factual grounds, he was able to foretell the eventual collapse of Japanese aggression and the final prevalence of the Chinese cause. The Generalissimo pointed out that China's only course was to strengthen her resistance for a final and decisive struggle; any suggestion of halfway compromise or submission must never be countenanced.

JAPAN'S IMPOSSIBLE TASK

From a searching study of China's history, geography, and culture and her racial spirit and economic strength, the Generalissimo said, there is an insurmountable barrier to the utter impossibility of a Japanese victory. Where it is impossible for Japan to win, it will be equally impossible for China to lose.

The Generalissimo saw in Japan a nation which has run its military, political and diplomatic courses against the rock.

Entirely unaware of the mighty Chinese racial and historical background, and without any understanding of the characteristics of China's revolutionary growth under modern conditions, Japan had twice to develop her course of her pre-determined continental policy and is now foundering in a mire of desperate opportunism.

Militarily, General Chiang declared, the strategy of the Japanese army has been one failure after another. The Generalissimo believed that the Japanese military have never been able truthfully to gauge their own strength and the strength of the Chinese. The result is a hopeless game of gambling, driving an unwieldy and ineffective machinery deeper and deeper but more and more hopelessly into hostile territory.

MANIPULATIONS OF PUPPETS

The military failure of the Japanese was pinned off by the fountaining of Japanese political agents' designs and machinations. Generalissimo Chiang pointed out. The manipulation of puppets and employment of traitors, far from achieving the desired object, tend merely to help the growth of cankers which is finding root in the Japanese military machinery and quicken its rot.

Adding to military and political failures are diplomatic difficulties which place Japan more and more in an isolated position in international politics. General Chiang said.

Generalissimo Chiang said he was convinced that the tendency of international relations (Continued on Page 4.)

JAPAN PREPARES FOR WAR AGAINST RUSSIA

TOKYO, Jan. 25.
THE POSSIBILITY of war between Japan and Soviet Russia was discussed to-day in the Japanese Diet.

One of the leading members of the Minseito Party, Mr. Yasujiro Tsutsumi, recalled, that the former deputy Minister of War, General Tojo had stated that the fundamental principle of Japanese rearmament must be the possibility of simultaneous war with China and the Soviet Union.

Mr. Tsutsumi asked the War Minister, General Itagaki, whether this was the standpoint of the army.

In reply, the War Minister pointed out that the extent of rearmament in Soviet Russia was also conditioned by the hypothesis of having to wage war simultaneously with more than one country.

He went on to say that Japan was now concentrating all her efforts on a settlement of the Chinese problem, but that the solution was closely connected with preparations for a hypothetical case of simultaneous conflict with China and the Soviet.

TWO POWER STANDARD

Mr. Tsutsumi then emphasised that agreement prevailed that Japan's rearmament must be based on a two-power standard. He added that Japan had no intention of provoking the Soviet Union, but she must be prepared to repel an aggressor in the event of unprovoked attack on herself.

General Itagaki likewise stressed that the Japanese army had no intention of making an unprovoked attack on the Soviet Union, but that it was prepared to wage off any eventual aggression on the part of Russian forces.—Trans-Ocean.

Jewish Problem Is Discussed

Berlin, Jan. 25.
Mr. George Rublee to-day resumed conversations with the German authorities on the Jewish problem in a two-hour meeting with Dr. Wohltat, specially appointed German Commissioner, who told Mr. Rublee that the Government's views were still represented by Dr. Sechsch's plan.

Accordingly Mr. Rublee and his colleagues are putting the finishing touches to a written memorandum embodying the German views and intentions, and it is expected that he will go through them, clause by clause, with Dr. Wohltat.—Reuter.

Arab Terrorists Start New Palestine Battle

JERUSALEM, Jan. 25.
A JEWISH CHAUFFEUR was shot dead in the Arab quarter of Jerusalem to-day, two Arab firing the fatal shots. Police immediately proceeded to make numerous arrests.

In addition a hand bomb exploded in the Jewish quarter, but without injuring anyone.

One Arab was shot, and several others arrested in the course of a search carried out by British troops in Tulkarm, where the police station was attacked by Arab irregulars.

According to the Arab paper "Eldjihat", 58 persons have been released from the internment camp at Bethlehem, and replaced by 60 new prisoners.—Trans-Ocean.

LONDON PARLIES
London, Jan. 25.
With a view to meeting the demands of Nashashibi, leader of the opposition Arab party, for equal representation with the Grand Mufti at the London conference, it is understood that the British Government has proposed that Nashashibi should nominate two delegates, supplemented by four or five advisers.

China Arms Case

CORRIGAN TELLS OF SHIPMENT OF "WAR" MATERIALS

LONDON, Jan. 25.
HIGH-SPOT OF the Old Bailey trial to-day, in which three men, Frederick Willing, 50, a Dutch subject and metal merchant of Tavistock Court, Tavistock Square, Bloomsbury, Denis Michael Corrigan, 46, agent, of Park-lane, W., and James Oll Herbert Willing, 24, metal merchant of Dorset House, are charged with conspiracy by which to defraud a well-known Paris firm of armament makers of £7,250, was the evidence of Corrigan.

DENIS CORRIGAN

Corrigan, in the witness box, said that a Captain John Ball introduced him to Shu, described in the earlier court hearings as the "Chinese mystery man," who was also said to have been connected with the Chinese Embassy in London, saying that Shu was in a position to place contracts for armaments and aeroplanes.

He was told that Shu was related to Dr. H. H. Kung, and that his wife was related to Madame Chiang Kai-shek. He had no reason to believe that Shu was not officially connected with the Chinese Government and Embassy.

"IN GRAVE DANGER"

Corrigan continuing, said that he arranged a shipment at Shu's request. Sometime afterwards Shu told him that the Ambassador had asked for "Hooehows" (permits). He said that certain cables had been sent to China, and he was in grave danger, not only of losing his job, but of going back to China and facing a charge.

"He said that he could not get the 'Hooehows' back from France, and that an attempt was being made to alter it for the purpose of getting this consignment of guns out of Marseilles. He also said that he had heard the goods were going to Spain instead of to China. He then said he would send a dummy cargo."

There was no intention whatever to defraud Lafitte, added Corrigan.

FIND A BUYER

Shu told him (Corrigan) that he had some guns and ammunition for sale and he asked him if he could find a buyer. He spoke to James Willing. He was not financially concerned in the contract, but he would have received the usual commission from Shu or Willing for the introduction of Shu to Willing. His usual commission was between two and a half and ten per cent. for such an introduction.

Shu told him later that he had sold some guns and ammunition to Willing.—(Continued on Page 4.)

AMERICA'S UNDECLARED WAR ON JAPAN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.

ANY DECISION by the United States to ship arms to the Government of Spain, might be met with seizures of the supplies by the Insurgents, Germany, or Italy, and might involve the United States in war, said Senator Lewis in the Senate to-day.

He denounced "outside influence attempting to terrorize Congress into repealing the embargo law", and said far from being removed, it should be tightened.

BRITAIN BLAMED

Senator Reynolds, declaring that Senator Lewis expressed his own sentiments exactly, shouted: "This country is warring with Japan at the present time. There is an undeclared war on the part of the United States against Japan."

He said that the war began the day on which the export bank authorized the $25,000,000 loan to China, and he added: "I knew that somehow or other, Great Britain would get us involved in the Orient, and now they have got us started on the way."

Senator Reynolds declared that the credits advanced to China were the result of an "agreement" with Britain, reached when Mr. Anthony Eden visited the United States.—Reuter.

Mr. John Henry Burkill Lee has been appointed to be Chief Assistant to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs as from January 18, 1939.

No Japanese Envoy For France

Tokyo, Jan. 25.
In connection with the return of the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Sugimura from Paris, the "Kokumin Shinbun" claims to know that the appointment of a new Ambassador to France is not at present under consideration.

The paper adds that owing to the continuous support of Chiang Kai-shek by France, and to the anti-Japanese attitude of the French Government, Franco-Japanese relations cannot be described as normal.—Trans-Ocean.

Countess Vanishes From West End Hotel

SCOTLAND Yard detectives recently searched the luxurious suite in Savoy's Normandy Hotel, Knightsbridge, of the Countess Mari Kargeneck, beautiful Austrian Jewess. Countess Kargeneck, wife of the old Viennese aristocracy, was missing.

Hotel officials who have known her for two years, became anxious when she did not return after leaving her room dressed in evening clothes. The countess, who is 45, rarely goes out of the hotel without leaving a message as to when she will return.

LUGGAGE UNPACKED

When several days had passed the police were told and it was found that her room had been left untouched and her luggage unpacked.

"The countess was a very wealthy woman," a friend said. "She had made her home at the Normandy Hotel for the last two years, but she was always travelling and spent considerable periods in Paris, Switzerland, and the south of France."

"When in London she took a prominent part in the social life, and was well known to a great many people in Mayfair. She was accompanied nearly always by an English society woman."

HUSBAND A NAZI

"I understand that her husband is a prominent official in Vienna under the Nazi regime and that the countess since the Anschluss has been distressed because she was Jewish and her husband Aryan."

"Despite this, she appeared to carry on her life of travel as usual, although I know she did not return to Vienna."

"I also noticed during the few days before her disappearance that she looked very worried and at times seemed almost ill."

"She was a very sentimental type of woman and spoke excellent English. During the last two years she talked constantly of her regret at the difficulties which prevented her seeing her husband more frequently."

Surgeon's Fatal Experiment

London. A verdict of death by misadventure was reached by the Coroner, Mr. Ingleby Oddie, at the Westminster inquest recently on Dr. Julian Kastellan, 23, assistant resident obstetric surgeon at Westminster Hospital, who was found dead in his bedroom at the hospital with an anguished look over his face. Dr. Solomon Kastellan, of Manor Road, Newington, said that his son had no love affair causing trouble or worry. He was very interested in science, and often conducted experiments at home. A year ago he experimented with a sun-light apparatus he had made himself. Dr. Alan Dow, house surgeon at Westminster Hospital, who discovered the tragedy, said that on a chair beside the bed was a gas apparatus and Dr. Kastellan's mouth was covered by a mask strapped to his head by an elastic harness. The apparatus was not delivering gas because the mask was not set so that unless he breathed in no gas was delivered. A dial on the apparatus showed that it had been delivering the maximum amount of nitrous oxide; no oxygen was registered, so that when the doctor breathed in he got full nitrous oxide.

Heaven In The "Fourth Dimension"

THE suggestion that Heaven may be in a fourth dimension of space was made recently by Sir Ambrose Fleming, 69-year-old scientist.

He made a vigorous defence of the Bible in a paper read on his behalf before the Victoria Institute in London.

He affirmed his belief in miracles and prophecy, claiming that the record of Christ's teaching was substantially correct, and said that the report of the Archbishop's Commission on Christian Doctrine (published last year) would emphasise differences in the Church of England.

"There is a gulf between animal and man that no evolution hypothesis has been able to bridge," said Sir Ambrose.

Defending the Bible, he said: "Although it is the custom to speak of the abode called 'Heaven' as if it were some region in our space of three dimensions, yet scientific analysis has shown that our space may be only, as it were, one section of a large four-dimensional space time continuum, and that passage from one to the other is by a movement in a fourth dimension."

"It has been more than once pointed out that the sudden appearance and disappearance of our Lord in His post-resurrection period are all consistent with such movement in a fourth dimension in space."

He Collects Christmas Cards

London. A man badly disabled as a result of the Great War collects old Christmas Cards and reconditions them as a hobby. He is Mr. Andrew Pearson, of Bessie, Morpeth, Cumberland.

Through a photographer's error, the above photograph published on Saturday, was wrongly captioned as being that of the Ladies' Night Dance held by the Cathay Lodge, No. 4373. Actually the function was the inaugural dinner of the Northumberland and Durham Association held at the Hongkong Hotel on Friday, January 13.

Hostess Of £1,000 Party May Own Home Of Queens

MRS. Nora Albertini, red-haired wife of an American millionaire and hostess of some of London's most spectacular parties, may soon have as her home of four Queens—the present King and Queen lived there after their marriage—and birthplace of the Duke of Windsor.

She is negotiating with the Commissioners of Crown Lands for the lease, given up three months ago by Viscount Lee of Fareham, King George V. granted Lord Lee a life-lease in 1926.

This year, for the first time in its 200 years' history, White Lodge came into the market.

Mrs. Albertini, a sister of Reginald Denny, the film star, is anxious to take the house on a long lease.

Her present home is in Windsor Great Park.

DAWN BREAKFAST

It was in this house nearly two years ago that Mrs. Albertini—already known as "the £1,000 party hostess"—gave a Coronation party to 600 guests, including West End stage stars, film stars, an Indian maharajah, a famous motor-racing driver and an Atlantic flier.

Her guests breakfasted on the lawn as dawn was breaking, while dance music played in the ballroom.

A year earlier Mrs. Albertini had brought a libel action after a party she gave to 500 guests at a cost of £1,000. The suit failed.

Windsor will be sorry if Mrs. Albertini moves. She has been hostess at many Christmas parties to poor children of the district. She gives generously to local charities.

She said recently: "My money is American (her husband is a grandson of William Reynolds, the American railway millionaire), and there is no obligation on me to spend it here. But I like to see people happy around me."

The Theatre Of To-day

London. GENERALLY speaking, the London Theatres are doing well. They have beaten off the cinema attack and are carrying the warfare into the provinces, where new theatres are actually being built and repertory companies are becoming like mushrooms.

Yet there is nothing very outstanding in the world of drama. Only one home-grown play appeared last year which could be called first-class—Charles Morgan's "The Flashing Stream." It also ranks as the surprise success. Being (1) a shade more than merely literate; (2) by an intellectual novelist; (3) on a serious, even profound theme, it was generally expected to lie down, and expire quietly.

Instead it has turned out a hit. The production costs were paid off in fifteen performances. The profits exceeded £5,000 before the 100th performance came along. More than 103,000 people have now seen it.

The only show with music worthy of the time and attention of anybody above the mental age of six was Herbert Farjeon's clever Little Theatre revue "Nine Sharp." It will be withdrawn on the 14th January after more than 400 performances.

Other successes so far as finance is concerned are "Dear Octopus," by Dottie Smith, Emlyn Williams' "The Corn is Green," "Spring Meeting," and "Goodness How Sad." Commendably, the year's No. 1 was "Dear Octopus," pulling in the ready-made public of the authors, John Gielgud and Marie Tempest.

American importations have been almost invariably good. The play of the year was unquestionably Robert Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight." A most emotional experience was provided by Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy."

The most delightful light evening was supplied by Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, the incomparables, in Sam Behrman's graceful, scintillatingly witty "Amphitryon 38." The only other important out-of-the-rut dramatic session was with Shaw's "Geneva"—or rather the last act of it.

Where Japan Is Vulnerable

London. THE Financial News, in a leader, states that for the Western Powers to intervene directly in China now is obviously impracticable.

"The defence of Great Britain's economic interests, however, is another matter," says the newspaper, "we are armed at all points there. Our weapons are keen and powerful and we should use them."

The leader declares markets, not capital, are Japan's Achilles Heel now, and adds: "If Britain with her present unfavourable trade balance decided to reduce the total of her imports from Japan, what could prevent her or the United States for that matter from carrying out her determination?"

"Meanwhile we can at least neglect no opportunity when 'fighting funds' or export credits are being mooted or drawing closer in our present relations with China."

The newspaper adds: "The British Government, in its new trade drive, would be reprehensibly negligent if it did not take the opportunity in collaboration with America of establishing an understanding with the Chinese Government."

Heads Of The Famous Reveal—

Roosevelt could not be a dictator. Low the cartoonist, would have done well in industry, and Sir Henry Wood might have been a painter.

These opinions, expressed by Mr. E. W. Cousins, Fellow of the British Phrenological Society, in a lecture at Kingsway Hall, London, are based on his observation of the skulls of selected "men of the moment."

"Roosevelt," said Mr. Cousins, "could not be a dictator. His love of his fellows is too strongly developed, his outlook is so broad. Dictators have narrow minds. There is nothing cruel or relentless about his head."

GRACIE'S "FORTE" Of Low he said: "He could administer, organise, plan, discipline. The organ which recognises incongruities and also the organ of individuality are strongly developed. 'The organ of caution is a little too pronounced. He is too apprehensive and hesitative. He goes through a purgatory of thought to produce his ideas.'

Sir Henry Wood's head indicated to Mr. Cousins very strong social instincts, friendship and love of children.

Gracie Field's forte is "utter self-abandon in her job, exuberance of spirit and intensity of mental and physical force."

"Acquisitiveness makes her shrewd in business affairs," said Mr. Cousins.

Wrote To Court, "I'll Commit Suicide"

Frederick James Brodribb, described as a financier, failed to appear at his public examination at Kingston recently and the Official Receiver, Mr. C. Roy Waterer, read a letter which Brodribb had sent.

This was dated October 5 and postmarked London, November 13. Part of it read:

"In order to save you and myself a great deal of trouble and time, I have decided to commit suicide, and by the time you get this note I shall be dead."

"I have had several long talks with a few friends of mine who were killed in the last war, and they have assured me I can be with them and that it is nothing to worry about."

Mr. Waterer said he could not imagine that the threat had been carried out or something would have been heard about it.

The Registrar, Mr. J. Sackville Bell: It is hardly your duty to go round to the mortuaries to see if he is there.

It was stated that Brodribb had assessed his liabilities at £70,000. The case was adjourned sine die.

Man Who Stopped The War

London. Mr. F. H. Pennington, of the Brighton Telegraph Office, who gave the "Cease Fire" signal on the Western Front retired recently from the Post Office. Judgment was also given for £75 for the father.

NEGLECTED STOMACH PAINS

may end in DANGEROUS OPERATIONS!

Many a stomach sufferer has had to submit to the surgeon's knife—because he dismissed those little twinges that came on after eating as nothing more than ordinary indigestion—and has paid the price of his neglect.

national relations is towards justice and peace with the Democracies daily strengthening their determination and resources for staging a final show-down against world brigandage.

UPHILL BATTLE

General Chiang emphasized that China has hitherto heretofore to the becoming state of international justice and righteousness and will march unflinchingly on towards her goal.
China, he promised, will stick to the last of her policy of resistance.

China, the Generalissimo declared, is fighting an uphill battle for her own preservation and for East and World peace and justice. This cause for self-preservation and world vindication must prevail in the long run.
With every assurance of victory achieved for, however, it behooves every member of the Party to strengthen his determination to fight and confidence to win, Generalissimo Chiang admonished. When every member understands himself, the enemy, and the absolute development of circumstances and state of affairs, the Generalissimo said, he would certainly clearly see the final outcome of the present war.

UNITY AND HARMONY

The Generalissimo said from now on China's efforts should be directed against the weaknesses of the enemy.
Against the concealed, systematic, disrupted and top-heavy Japanese.
China will show unity and harmony;
against the weakness of industrial Japan, China will develop her agricultural stability and spirit of thrift; into the dangers of Japan's impending social collapse China will add a catalysis by hastening her own war-time reconstruction, utilizing her climate and geographical advantages; and as a contrast to the brutal militarism of Japan China will enforce faithfully the late Party Leader's Three People's Principles.

the tremendous task of the Party as a whole and the members as in-the achievement of the supreme and them, as such acts would create a most unfavourable impression in Great Britain.

It is stated that the British acting agent received the assurance that "acts of violence and reprisals would be incompatible with the character of General Franco and with the aims pursued by him."

The British Minister in Barcelona,
Mr. Ralph Stevenson, has made a similar demarche and called the attention of the Loyalist authorities to the question of the maintenance of public order in the event of an evacuation of Barcelona by the Loyalist troops and officials, with special reference to the position of the political prisoners in that city who are estimated to number about 2,000. Mr. Stevenson was given the assurance that every possible measure would be taken to ensure the maintenance of order and the safety of the prisoners.

ter's staff who is remaining in Barcelona for the time being has been

London, Jan. 25.
A detachment of troops are at Furton, near Chorley in Lancashire to-day, to help factory police guard
the £6,000,000 Government munitions factory which is now completed
there.

An official denied that there was any truth in the rumours of trouble between the Irish employees. He said that now production was beginning it was necessary to patrol the numerous entrances.—Reuter.

FRANCO'S LORRIES LOADED WITH FOOD

Paris, Jan. 25.
Thousands of lorries loaded with food are waiting near Barcelona to follow General Franco's troops into the city, says a Burgos message.

Severe control is being exercised
to prevent a large influx of refugees
from other provinces, and only those with special passes will be allowed to enter the city. Only those with
to prevent a large influx of refugees relatives there will be allowed to stay.

As soon as possible, refugees will be sent to the provinces from where they have fled.

Civil guards will patrol the city, and the people will be ordered to resume their jobs. The banks will open immediately, and the hospitals will receive fresh equipment.

The personnel of the Town Council has already been appointed on paper, which will take to work
immediately.—Reuter.

RAIL SERVICE SUSPENDED

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
Supplies of gas, water and electric current have ceased in various parts of Barcelona, according to refugees
arriving here from the Catalan
capital.

The roads from Barcelona to the French frontier are reported to be blocked by an incessant stream of motor cars, as well as all other kinds of vehicles.

The railway service has been completely suspended.—Trans-Ocean.

LOYALISTS CUT OFF

St. Jean de Luz, Jan. 25.
Loyalist troops in the Pyrenees, in the neighbourhood of Seodergel are completely isolated from the south as a result of the insurgents' capture of Solsona, according to insurgent reports received here, which claim that this assures the ultimate collapse of the Catalan front in the Pyrenees.

General Yague's Moroccan troops have now halted on the heights of Mont Julch, on the outskirts of Barcelona, awaiting the arrival of the Navarrese troops marching down from Manresa along the River
Llobregat, via Tarrasa.

General Franco is pursuing the same tactics as he followed at Bilbao, awaiting the general encirclement of the city before taking it, and thus avoiding street fighting.—Reuter.

CITY STARVING

Burgos, Jan. 25.
Insurgent troops, advancing on Barcelona to-day, strengthened their positions along the Llobregat River, and are crossing the river, occupied
Catalan capital.

In the south, the Moroccans,
pushing along the coast, have reached the Barcelona suburbs, while three other columns are advancing on Barcelona from the direction of Hospitalat, Tarrasa and Sabadell.
Fugitives crossing the insurgents from Loyalist territory
this afternoon reported that the population of Barcelona is still estimated at more than 2,000,000, and they have had scarcely any food for the last seven days.

All executive power in the Catalan capital is now exclusively in the hands of the Loyalist military

ing, and that he was receiving £5,250.
Shu asked him to collect the money and to bring it to him.

Willington paid him £5,025 saying to Shu that there was a reduction for expenses. He gave the money to Shu and reminded Shu that he owed him
£2,000 or £2,000 on the "Hoochow" transactions.
Shu gave him £1,300.

ARMS IN BELGIUM

Council (to Corrigan): Were you told anything of the whereabouts of the actual guns and ammunition?
—Shu said that they were at Captain
Ball's place in Belgium.

Corrigan said that he paid about £350 in connection with the shipment of the dummy cargo. He expected the money back from Shu, but he never got it.

Shu told him that he distrusted the Willings, and he thought they were working with Laffie with regard to the "Hoochow." That was why Shu told him not to tell the Willings about the dummy cargo.

Asked by Council whether he trusted Captain Ball, Corrigan replied that he had no reason to distrust him.
"He was a very clever man. He may have had his own axe to grind somewhere."

Corrigan added that he thought the Willings had had a raw deal on account of Shu's suspicions, thus he paid them back £3,800.
The case was adjourned.—Reuter.

Chungking, Jan. 25.

War Resistance

Talk On Activities Of International

The activities of the War Resisters' International formed the subject of an interesting talk by Mrs. Irene Short at a meeting of the local Peace Pledge Union yesterday. Mrs. Short said in part:

The W.R.I. was founded in Bill-hoven in Holland in 1921, under the name of "Paco," by representatives of groups of war resisters in four European countries. In March, 1923, the headquarters was transferred to England and the name W.R.I. was adopted. Its pledge is: "War is a crime against humanity. We therefore are determined not to support any kind of war and to strive for the removal of all causes of war."

War is a crime against humanity, and uses human personalities for political and economic ends. Members of the W.R.I. are, therefore, actuated by an intense love for mankind, and are determined not to support, either directly, by service of any kind in the Army, Navy, or Air force, or indirectly, by making or consensually handling munitions or other war material, subscribing to war loans, or using labour for the purpose of setting others free for war service; any kind of war, aggressive or defensive, remembering that modern wars are invariably alleged to be defensive.

We are convinced that violence cannot really preserve order, defend our home, liberate the proletariat or give security to any nation. Experience has shown that in all wars order, security and liberty disappear and instead of benefiting by them, the proletariat suffers most.

Facilitators have no right to take up a merely negative position, but must recognise and strive for the removal of all the causes of war. These causes are not only the instinct of egotism and greed found in every human heart, but also all the agencies which create hatred and antagonism between groups of people.

The W.R.I. links together 54 organized movements of war resisters and individuals in 69 countries of the world, in each of the five continents. It speaks in many tongues, using 14 languages in its work. It strengthens the stand of war resisters refusing military training in conscript countries by giving publicity to their action and trying to make it understood. It supports them and their families during periods of imprisonment and works for their release through appeals and direct representation to the Government concerned. It seeks to permeate religious, educational, political, and youth movements with its principles, and is supporting the work of its Chairman, the Rt. Hon. George Lansbury in urging the need for a World Economic Conference.

Liberty Involved
War resistance may mean loss of liberty, ostracism, poverty and sometimes death. Thousands of the International's members have passed through prison and many have died there or after release. A total of 460 are known to be in prison at the present time in various countries. The International is guided by a Council which is elected for three years at the Triennial Conference which meets in a different country each time. The paid staff number three and the voluntary staff 30. The Budget is a little over $1,450 per year.

In democratic countries the movement has grown rapidly in recent years. In Denmark there are 4,000 members and in the U.S.A. there are 10,000 members in one section and many thousands in another. In Canada 2,000 have signed the P.P.U.'s Declaration, and the P.P.U. in England has affiliated with the W.R.I. and its pledge is accepted by the W.R.I.

This means the Chinese service will also operate between China and Burma and to Hongkong, while the Chinese-American C.N.A.C. will carry on the Chinese side of the programme.

"The new Sino-British undertaking is of great significance," said Mr. Kung. "Apart from the fact that the new air connections will still further Chinese-British trade interests, the new service will bring the two peoples closer together, thereby resulting in a better understanding which is essential for peace and prosperity among nations."

"There is a great romance behind the project. Centuries ago caravans and caravans crossed the deserts laden with silk, tea and other products from China to Europe, taking months and sometimes years for the journeys, which were accompanied by hazards and uncertainties."

Mr. Kung added that a new highway connects Burma with Yunnan, and these two places would now be connected by air. He hoped that Burma would shortly be connected with Yunnan by a railway.

"Imperial Airways have given much thought to operating a service from their base in India to Yunnan and Hongkong," he said. "I am happy this is now an established fact."

"I have already received authorisation from the Chinese Government to sign such an agreement."

The new service will be inaugurated immediately. The Chinese and British Governments signed the agreement and exchanged notes here at 5 p.m. yesterday at the Chinese Foreign Office. Mr. M. J. D. Greenway, in charge of the British diplomatic mission here, acted on behalf of the British Government. It is understood that the Chinese and British authorities agreed not to publish the text of the agreement at present.

The inauguration of the new service will see, for the first time, a foreign aeroplane flying over Chinese territory, for Imperial Airways machines have been given permission to fly from Burma and Hongkong to Yunnan. Similarly the China National Aviation Corporation's machines will fly from Yunnan to Burma and Hongkong.

Negotiations for through air passenger and mail traffic between China and Russia are also nearing conclusion.—Reuter.

Local Effect
It has been common knowledge in Hongkong aviation circles that both C.N.A.C. and Imperial Airways were working on a service from Rangoon to the interior of China to be run on a reciprocal basis. The route for the service will probably be Hongkong to Chungking non-stop 675 miles, Chungking to Rangoon, via Kunming, Lashio and Mandalay, 800 miles.

Whether the Imperial Airways planes now on the Bangkok-Hongkong service will be diverted to Chungking is not known, but the distances are well within the power of these types of planes.

It is known that the aviation committee of the Central Government has for a long time had under consideration the purchase of new machines, similar to those now in operation, as the present Chungking-Hongkong plane is loaded to capacity on every trip.

COULD YOU STAND DRIED CODFISH AT EVERY MEAL?

For my part I prefer aerial bombardment to shelling. Bombing does not last so long. The Madrid people hold a different view. If a Madrid person decides to visit Barcelona every effort will be made to stop him. "Barcelona is dangerous; you must not go there. It is bombarded from the air."

Madrid is badly damaged. The veteran survivor is the telephone building. That is nearing its second century of shell hits.

MADRID people take the shelling calmly. Once they used to watch the shelling from the streets and bet on which house the shells would hit. Now too many casualties have been suffered, so the majority take to their cellars.

One night I visited the trenches in the University City accompanied by a priest. A major who had been a metal worker before the war showed us round. The priest, to my surprise, was well received by both officers and men. Our visit was short, for the trenches, was reminded by telephone that the deadline he had set for the explosion of a mine under the enemy was but ten minutes hence.

The activity upon this sector is reduced to mining and counter-mining. The trench system in the University City is so strong that I believe it to be nearly impenetrable.

Also applies to the Ebro front. The original advance, in July, across the river was made by the Government to relieve pressure on Valencia. Now, according to plan, the Government forces are withdrawing to their well-prepared lines behind the river.

The only weakness in Madrid's defences is the shortage of food. While the military are well fed the civilians have been existing on a daily ration of bread and dried codfish by the name of bakelou. Beans are also produced.

DOCTORS say that the codfish has reduced the number of cases of indigestion. For my part indigestion is way ahead of bakelou. While I was in Madrid I could not stomach the bakelou, so I used to trade my portion of bakelou for more bread. My lunch and dinner diet for five days was a hunk of bread and half a bottle of the remaining supply of the Ritz Hotel champagne.

There are also complaints by the Madrid women that they lack both lipstick and powder. Much resentment is felt against the Barcelona women, who have plenty of these commodities.

Back by airplane to Barcelona was the method of my return. The woman in charge of the censor's office saw me off, with these words: "Please when you get back to England do not vote for Mr. Chamberlain, because his policy of non-intervention means that my four-year-old child is under-nourished in Madrid."

The intense cold, which has already lasted for a fortnight, is increasing the hardships of the coal strike among the poor. Strange scenes are being witnessed. Grenadier Guards and medical students carrying coal from the depots for the barracks and hospitals.

The industrial outlook is gloomy. A builders' lock-out began in the afternoon, but the number idle will not be known till Monday. Probably 150,000 will be out on strike in the course of the week.

The military and police have protected the coal vans for the hospitals, while Rugby football teams, in jersey and "shorts" are shifting coal for the hospitals, for which the strikers have refused to grant permits.

Mr. Lee Temple, the first English aviator to fly upside down, was killed while doing a spiral flight at Hendon.

The Daily Chronicle says that after the most rigorous pruning the minimum figure for the naval estimates will be £20,000,000, and new taxation is inevitable.

Members of the Cabinet think that after 1914 the naval expenditure will tend to decline, but the Journal named says there is no very hopeful prospect thereof, and meanwhile some other Department will be striven for the sake of the Navy.

CHINESE CUSTOMS

Figures for Last Year Show Decrease

Shanghai, Jan. 25.
The report of the Chinese Maritime Customs for 1938, which has just been published shows that imports were £88,000,000 compared with £93,000,000 in 1937. Exports amounted to $762,000,000 compared with $838,000,000.

The figures do not include the National Government's imports since early last summer's Japanese imports of military supplies.

Of the Chinese ports, Tientsin suffered the largest decrease of imports, and export figures showed the greatest decline in Shanghai and Tientsin. Tientsin likewise suffered a considerable decrease in foreign trade.

The National Government controlled Customs stations cleared 23 per cent. of China's total exports, but only rather less than 10 per cent. of the imports.

Shanghai maintained first place among the ports, clearing 45 per cent. foreign trade. Tientsin and Tsingtao ranked second and third respectively.

Imports decreased in practically all classes of commodities, and in exports the most marked decline took place in the volume of textile fibres and piecegoods.—Trans-Ocean.

Barcelona's Death

FRANCO'S Italian vanguard enters Barcelona and another Loyalist city is about to fall prey to foreign mercenaries.

To-day, the Insurgent holds all but Madrid of the great cities of Spain.

Granada, Seville, Cadiz, Salamanca, Burgos, Saragossa, Toledo, Malaga, Valladolid, Bilbao, San Sebastian and Oviedo have successively fallen to superior weight.

It has been superabundance of Italian and German war materials against a shortage rendered almost criminal by a one-sided non-intervention policy; a superiority of Italian mercenaries and Moorish troops, with a minority of Spaniards, against a spatter of international mercenaries, now withdrawn, and a superiority of Spaniards.

Barcelona has been truly Loyalist since the outbreak of the Civil War. The Insurrection there on July 19, 1936, lasted only ten minutes and was crushed by overwhelming odds loyal to the Government.

Barcelona became Spain's capital in October, 1936, when Madrid seemed likely to fall. Since then, the Insurgents have bombed it with grim regularity. On most days, the city's two million people have calmly sought shelter in the 1,500 bomb-proof shelters that have been built to save them from death from the sky.

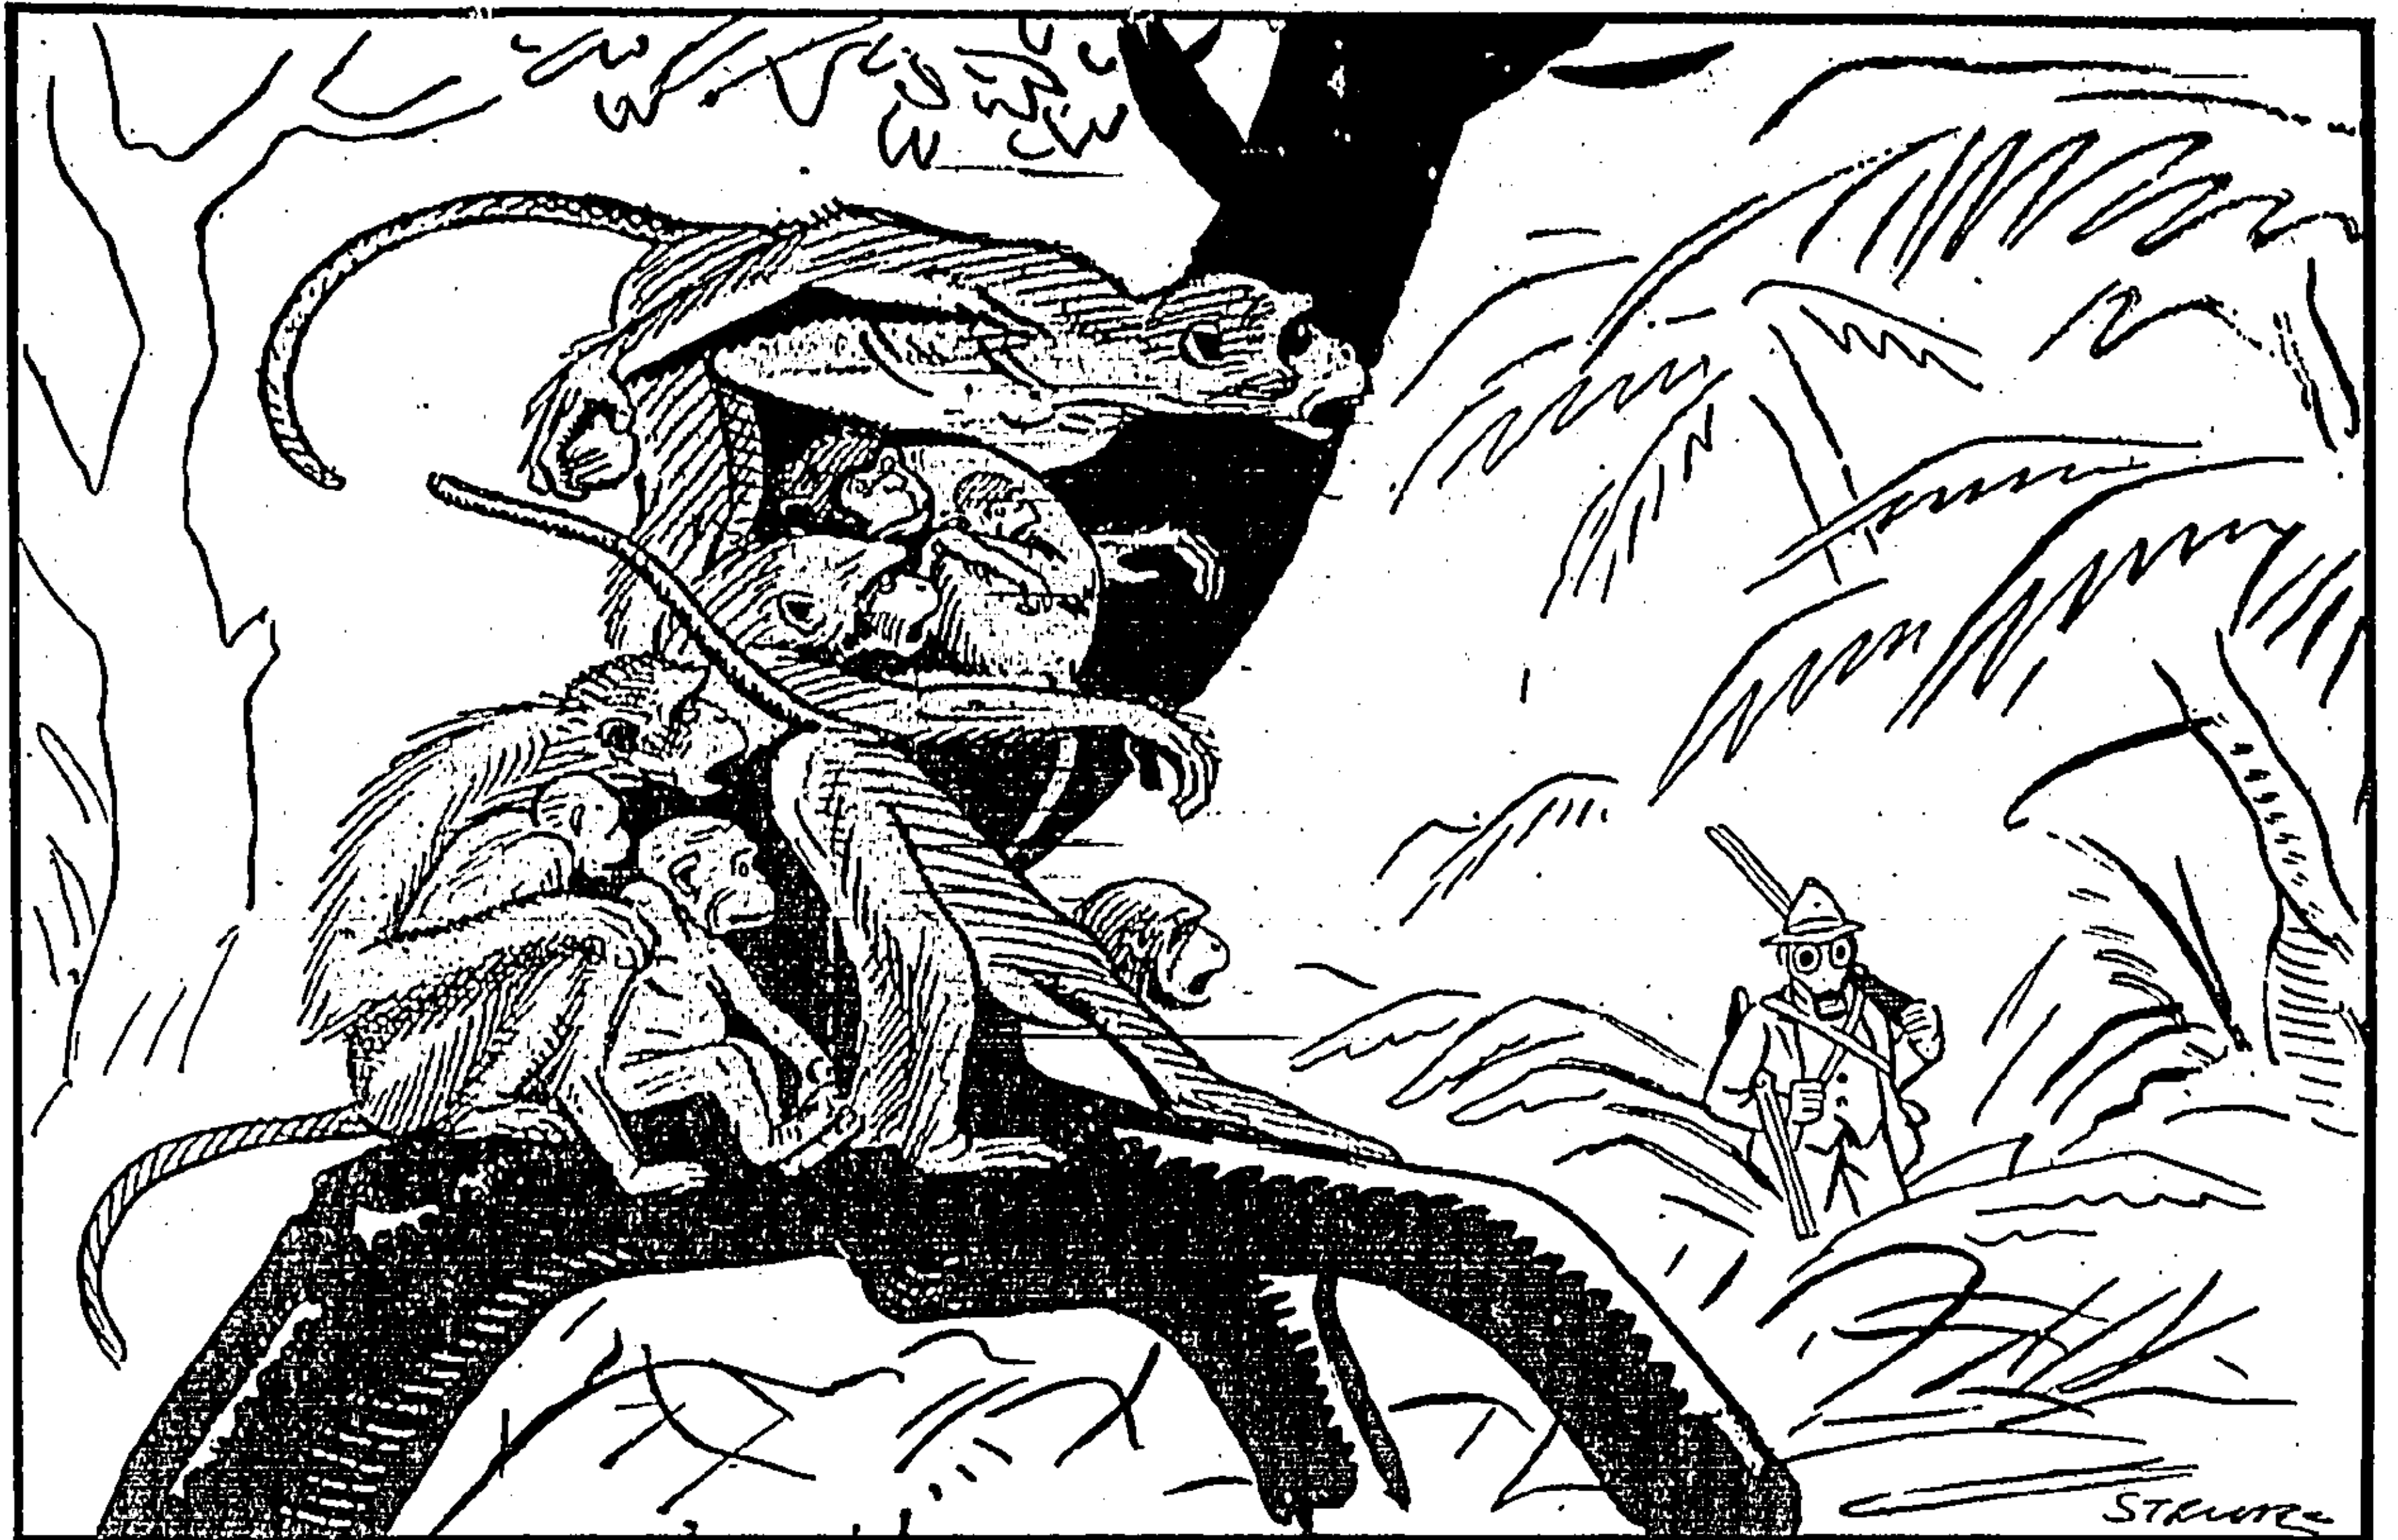

Fall Spells Danger

BARCELONA'S fall will spell danger to Europe. France may end the non-intervention farce and pour materials and men to aid Loyalist defences starved by that policy. What justification would there be for such action. None—no more justification than there is for Italian and German interference.

But proponents of intervention argue, with justice, that the criminal danger to the peace of Europe caused by intervention in the Spanish civil war has been brought about, not by threats of French intervention, but by the actuality of Italian and German interference.

Had the totalitarians let Spain fight her own battles, or had they honoured their pledge of non-intervention, the question of intervention on the side of the Loyalists would certainly not have arisen now.

Spain becomes another Czechoslovakia. Democracy, to avoid war, must again let the totalitarians ride rough-shod over liberty.

JUNGLE OPINION

—Strube in London "Daily Express"

In Barcelona they

LORD FORBES

AS the wheels of the Air France liner touched down on Barcelona's airport I wondered what kind of four days I was to spend in Government Spain.

If it is anything like insurgent propaganda would have us believe, then a visit of four days will be all too long. Well, your correspondent stayed fourteen days with no complaints.

He searched for the disorder, the murders, and the vandalism that the insurgents accuse the Spanish Government of. He found none. In Barcelona life appeared to be going on more or less undisturbed by the war. In the streets both men and women looked well dressed.

Law and order was everywhere enforced. Even at night, when there are no street lights for fear of air raids, there are no hold-ups. In the dark I walked from one end of Barcelona to the other. Not once was I molested.

The chief discomfort in Barcelona life is the lack of food. Lunch and dinner in the best hotel consist of beans, a piece of fish, or a tiny morsel of meat if you are very lucky, some figs, and a small ration of bread.

Fish is generally served after the bombardment of the port by the insurgents. The bombs exploding in the water kill the fish. These at once float to the top, and the local fishermen have an easy catch.

In Barcelona there is plenty of money, but nothing to buy with it. The Government maintain a rate of 100 pesetas to the pound, while in France 1,000 pesetas can be purchased for a pound. Workmen and Government officials are well paid.

THE Government of Dr. Negrin is of a Radical-Socialist character. It is certainly not Red. An English National Government in time of war would differ little from Negrin's Administration.

His Government has the support of the more extreme elements. They realise that now it is no longer the moment for politics, but to get together and win the war. This represents the spirit of Government Spain.

The Englishman in Spain is constantly asked one question in the politest way: "Will you please explain to us the English policy of non-intervention?" The Spaniards bitterly resent this law. They are puzzled by the apparent injustice of the policy.

There is no answer to be given. At once if an attempt at justification is made—"Look at those Italian planes that bombed us this morning. Yesterday we captured a German sergeant pilot. He told us that he had been ordered to come here by his Government. We are not allowed even to buy arms, although we are willing to pay. If we lose the war, it will be on England's head."

AFTER a week spent in Barcelona I flew to Madrid. I found Madrid remembering the grim days of two years ago, when it seemed certain that Franco and his Moors would enter the city. Mothers recollected their fears that the Moors would kill their children.

Comparisons are heard of the militia army of yesterday and the Republican army of to-day. In the early days of the war, two years ago, the defence of the city was in the hands of the trade unions and the ill-trained militia. Disorder was rife. It was as likely as not that your own side would shoot you by mistake.

Murders which in fact were based on personal hate were made in the name of the Republic. It was a hardy man who ventured into the streets in the early days of the war, especially after dark.

The trenches on the Madrid front were amateurish affairs. They were not deep enough to provide adequate cover. The army had no officers.

To-day in Madrid there is law and order. The Government are strong. The offender against the law is punished. The streets are clean. Life goes on as normally as possible under siege conditions. The shops are open, the tramways run. Wherever it has been possible the Government have attempted to restore the results of vandalism done in the early days of the war.

They are also taking steps to preserve the statues of the city against shelling and bombardment. Even the statue of the ex-King's father has been provided with an air raid shelter. There is no wanton wreckage going on now in this city. This war is too severe for anything but a constructive regime.

While in Madrid I stayed at the Ritz Hotel. This was once a hospital, but has now been returned to its former owners. My room possessed all Ritz Hotel dignity except glass in the windows and hot water in the bathroom. An inspection of the facade outside my window indicated the reason for the lack of glass.

THE night of my arrival in the nation's capital the insurgents presented us with a two-hour shell session. Shells fell over a large area of the city. Most of them were directed at Madrid's Oxford-street, the Gran Via, now known as the Street of Death. The shelling of Madrid has no military significance. It is directed purely at civil population.

Snow Causes Postponement Of Soccer Ties

Chester Hold Wednesday Again In F.A. Cup Game

London, Jan. 25. Snow caused the postponement of several matches in to-day's soccer programme, and in one match, between Leeds and Huddersfield, snow and bad light forced the game to be abandoned after 61 minutes' play.

In the Fourth Round replays in the F.A. Cup, Newcastle beat Cardiff 4-1, but Chester and Sheffield Wednesday were unable to arrive at a definite result though extra time was played.

The game between Tottenham and West Ham was not played owing to snow. The greatest surprise in the Scottish Cup replays was the home defeat of Partick Thistle at the hands of Cowdenbeath, who won by the odd goal in three.

Well-known Cricketer Dies At 74

London, Jan. 7. Albert Ward, one of the most distinguished cricketers of his day, died at his home in Bolton yesterday in his seventy-fourth year.

He recalls memories of days when matches in this country meant so much more than Test Matches. He was essentially a stalwart of Lancashire, for whom he played for 11 seasons, and in the course of his career he made 14,698 runs for an average of 30.95.

He, indeed, was the first professional to score 1,000 runs in a single season for Lancashire. His highest score was 210 against South Australia, and his best for Lancashire 185 against Kent in 1901. A Yorkshireman by birth, and known when he first appeared as "Rothwell Colly", Ward played a few innings in 1899 for his native county, but did little, and three years later, having qualified for Lancashire by residence, he began a most successful career for that county.

In 1893 he appeared for England against Australia at the Oval and Manchester, and in the autumn of 1894 formed one of the team taken out to Australia by A. E. Stoddart.

WONDERFUL STAND

That was the side which won the first Test Match in spite of an Australian total of 586, and the rubber by three games to two. In the last match England had 297 runs to make and lost two wickets for 28, but then came a wonderful stand by Ward and a crowd, of Yorkshire, who put on 210 runs, and so practically decided the issue. Brown made 140 and Ward 93.

Altogether during the tour Ward scored 916 runs with an average of 41. Ward in all played in seven Test Matches against Australia.

Standing 6ft. high, possessing a big reach, plenty of power and sound judgment, as well as being a fine outfielder, Ward remained a source of strength to Lancashire until he retired, and it will be as a cricketer when men spoke in terms of counties rather than countries that he will be best remembered.

LABOUR EXPULSION

Sir Stafford Cripps To Leave Party

London, Jan. 25. The National Executive of the Labour Party has decided to expel Sir Stafford Cripps, following his action in circulating branches of the Party to refrain from co-operation with Labour and Liberal opponents of the Government with a view to creation of a popular front. The vast majority of Labourites headed by Mr. C. R. Attlee and the Trade Union Council, rejected the idea. —Reuter Special.

Prospects Of British Tennis Team For South Africa Not Promising

London, Dec. 29. Mrs. R. D. McKelvie, chaperone to the British mixed lawn tennis team which leaves Waterloo to-day for a tour of South Africa, will be an official active playing member. Said a Lawn Tennis Association official last night: "Mrs. McKelvie will be entitled to play in any match, even the Tests, if she is playing better than any of the other three girls, Valerie Scott, Rosemary Thomas and Jean Saunders."

Expenses of the team of six—D. W. Butler (playing manager), R. O. Shays and Eric Filby are the men—will be paid by the South African Lawn Tennis Union, but the L.T.A. will meet Mrs. McKelvie's expenses. The team is due at Capetown on the 12th January, and the ten weeks' tour includes Tests at Durban, Johannesburg and Capetown. Some people think they may not be lucky in their match results. When players like Miss Kay Stammers, Miss Marjory Lamb, Miss Peggy Scriven and Miss Mary Harwick were unable to go, it was thought South Africa would cancel the tour. They professed themselves well satisfied. The team has been criticised by English tennis people.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

Among those who are not very optimistic about the chances in South Africa is Pat Hughes, who captained the previous British "mixed" team to four South Africa in 1932-33. "I captained one of the strongest teams that have ever represented Great Britain—F. J. Perry, H. G. N. Lee, Mrs. Fearnley Whitlingstall, Miss Betty Nuthall and Miss Mary Healey—and when I remember how we fared I cannot be optimistic about this team," Hughes said.

"South Africa, represented mainly by Mrs. Heine-Miller, Farquharson and Kirby, playing in their own conditions, could then have defeated most teams in the world. R. O. Shays, who looks so good superficially, is a disappointment, and it is difficult to see him beating the leading South Africans. E. Filby has also been an enigma, his anxiety to attack all the time giving him poor results on hard courts. A lot will depend on the women, who are young and promising, but, after seeing the South African girls in England this year, I fear the chances of the British side are not bright."

On the other hand, glad to get away from the so-called seasonable weather, and determined not to treat this trip as a joy ride.—Our Own Correspondent.

Royal Scots Draw With 30th Battery

On the military ground yesterday 30th Battery managed to hold the Royal Scots to a draw, each side scoring three times. The Scots equalised in the last few minutes and can count themselves lucky to have obtained even one point, as their carelessness might easily have cost them the game.

For the first quarter of an hour the Scots forwards played very clever football and several times came very near scoring. Garrie and Crawford being especially dangerous. Woodfin in the R.A. goal brought off many fine saves and fully earned the repeated applause of the crowd. The Gunners soon came into prominence, however, and pressed heavily and it was only Parnaby's brilliant tuckling and clearing that saved the Scots goal. Bailey was easily the cleverest footballer on the field, and made many good openings for his centre forward, who, against the lusty R.A. defence, could make little headway. The Battery opened the scoring through Guy, their hard working centre half, who after a grand run beat McDougall with a well placed drive.

Immediately on the resumption Garrie took the ball down the field and passed to Bailey who gave Woodfin no chance at all. The Scots were pressing heavily and forced a corner. Crawford placed the ball well into the goalmouth and Garrie had little difficulty in heading through. This reverse spurred on the R.A. and they were soon storming the opposing goal and McDougall had his work cut out to defend his goal. During a scrummage Flanders cleverly beat Naysmith and placed the ball well out of McDougall's reach. At this point the Scots were definitely outplayed and the R.A. took the lead from a well directed shot by Downes. The same player nearly scored again when his drive beat McDougall and hit the crossbar. The Scots right wing made some very spectacular runs and his centres deceived for better results. He was rewarded just before the end when he centred the ball to Bailey, the inside left, who placed the ball into the back of the net with Woodfin well out of position.

Scots: McDougall; Naysmith, Parnaby, Gibson, Fraser, Dignam; Crawford, Kane, Garrie, Bailey and Masterton. 30th Battery: Woodfin; Gullie, Hole; Yearling, Guy, Roberts; Tuckley, Downes, Elliott, Cook and Flanders.

DON'T READ THIS LETTER UNLESS YOU'RE INTERESTED IN FUN! KING'S THEATRE

PRODUCTION, CHINA ENTERTAINMENT & LAND INVESTMENT CO. LTD. QUEEN'S ROAD, CENTRAL HONG KONG

Hongkong 24th January, 1939.

Dear Patrons,
Since the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture "Love Finds Andy Hardy" was released it has become the surprise picture of the year 1939, and wherever it has already been shown people have stormed the theatres to see it.
"Love Finds Andy Hardy" makes no claim to pretentiousness. No fabulous sum was incurred in its production. No seemingly great names appear in its cast—though word has just reached us that Mickey Rooney's performance in this production has skyrocketed him into stardom at the M. G. M. Studios. Yet, by its essence of excellent entertainment and good clean fun it has already carved a niche for itself in the hall of good pictures. It will give you more enjoyment and entertainment than "Smart Girls" or "It Happened One Night", both of which you will remember were also surprise pictures.
"Love Finds Andy Hardy" is a picture which the whole family will enjoy, and talk about for days after.
We have taken this unusual method to publicize this picture because we feel that we have to employ some novel means with which to tell you that "Love Finds Andy Hardy" is really excellent entertainment.

REFUGEES' MUI-TSAI One Defendant Sleeping In the Streets

Lee Choi, 40, widow, and her daughter-in-law, Chan Ha-nel, 21, were both bound over in a sum of $10 when they appeared before Mr. J. A. Macfarlane at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, charged with keeping an unregistered mui-tsal. Chan Mut 12, on January 23. Both defendants admitted the offence, but added that the girl was not treated as a mui-tsal. She was given the work of an ordinary servant, they claimed.

Mr. H. W. Fraser, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, said that the girl was brought to the Shamshuipo Police Station on January 23 by the principal tenant of the house in which second defendant lived. First defendant had been seen striking the girl with a piece of firewood. In the presence of both defendants at the station, the girl alleged that she had been handed over as security for the sum of $100, which her father had borrowed from first defendant in Canton. She stayed with first defendant until three months ago, when she was brought to the Colony and placed with the second defendant.

In convicting both defendants, the magistrate said that since first defendant was a street sleeper, it was doubtful whether she knew anything about mui-tsal regulations. Second defendant, should have known better, having been in the Colony for some time. It was not right for a human being to be placed for a long time in view of the fact that both defendants were refugees and not in possession of any money. The usual work which was expected of a mui-tsal. She received sufficient food, but was not sent to school. On January 23, first defendant visited her daughter-in-law and for no reason whatever, as alleged by the girl, struck her with a piece of firewood. The girl had been very well treated by the second defendant, whose husband worked in a store in Yumait at a monthly wage of $12.

IT'S SWEET AND SAUCY

—but it adds extra flavour to puddings & cakes

Hot chocolate sauce gives a touch of luxury to fairy cakes and buns, as well as oolais.

YOU can add a luxury touch to a plain steamed pudding by serving it with a simple sweet sauce, such as banana or chocolate, two favourite flavours with the younger members of the family.

Father, who's very partial to marmalade puddings, will like it with a sauce of that name, while Mother and the grown-up daughter will find the flavour of vanilla in hard Alpine sauce very tempting.

Today, on this is the season of warmed puddings, I am giving recipes for sweet sauces. Just two rules first.

To be successful, sauce must be smooth and creamy (no hard lumps, please), and—be sparing with the flavouring. An over-flavoured sauce is worse than a tasteless one, you will agree.

Chocolate Favourite

Now to start with something everyone likes—chocolate sauce. It's as delicious with a plain steamed pudding, as with a chocolate one.

Ingredients: 1/2 lb. unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 lb. butter, 1/2 lb. flour, 1/2 lb. water, 1/2 lb. sugar, 1/2 lb. vanilla essence, 1/2 lb. salt, a pinch of salt.

Break up the chocolate, add not quite half the water and dissolve over a gentle heat. Blend the cornflour with a little of the water, add the salt, and boil the rest of the water.

Pour on to the cornflour, stir, and return to saucepan. Add butter, chocolate and sugar, and boil and stir for 6 minutes, then add vanilla.

Party Finish

The warm chocolate sauce used for icing eclairs will make party affairs out of little fairy cakes if a spoonful is spread on the top, and silver hundreds and thousands sprinkled over. The recipe is easy.

Dissolve a bar of chocolate in a basin over boiling water. Meanwhile, boil 2oz. loaf sugar and half a teaspoonful of water together for five minutes. Stir into the melted chocolate until this is a good coating consistency, then add two or three drops of vanilla essence. Use at once.

Coconut Surprise

For a change coconut sauce is sure to make a hit.

Ingredients: 1/2 lb. butter, 1/2 lb. flour, 1/2 lb. water, 1/2 lb. sugar, 1/2 lb. vanilla essence, 1/2 lb. salt, a pinch of salt.

Melt butter in a small pan, add flour and pinch of salt, and cook for a minute. Stir in milk gradually and bring to boil. Boil for 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Cool, stir in the egg yolk, coconut, and add two or three drops of vanilla essence. Use at once.

Alpine Sauce

A deliciously flavoured sauce, thick and creamy.

Ingredients: 1/2 lb. margarine, 1/2 lb. sugar, 1/2 lb. vanilla essence, 1/2 lb. salt, a pinch of salt.

Melt the margarine and sugar together in a saucepan until margarine is melted. Cool the mixture to blood heat and beat with a fork to mix thoroughly.

Pour it into a cream machine and syringe it through steadily, with a quick, hard stroke, raising the handle as high as possible.

The cream should be thick and even as it comes through the machine. If it begins to run through too quickly, and is too thin, warm the mixture slightly, stir well again, and pump harder.

Cream the 1/2 lb. margarine, add the sugar gradually, then the cream and mix well. Beat the egg white with a pinch of salt until stiff, and fold into the mixture. Flavour with vanilla.

Fine Feathers

Fine feathers make fine millinery, the feathered hat being in vogue. This one has an exaggerated height on a very small, flat hat which, please note, is worn over a snood.

USING UP COLD SUET PUDDING

THERE are several ways of using up cold suet pudding. If it is quite unsweetened it can be cut into slices and roasted with a joint of mutton or beef in the same way as potatoes. For this purpose the slices should be rather thick.

Another way is to slice the pudding thinly, stamp fancy shapes out of the slices, and fry them in butter. Sprinkled with sugar, and a little lemon juice if liked, and served very hot, they make a delicious and unusual sweet.

A simpler and plainer way is to crumble up the pudding as finely as possible, add a little milk, and press it into a buttered cup. Steam it for about half an hour and serve with jam or golden syrup.

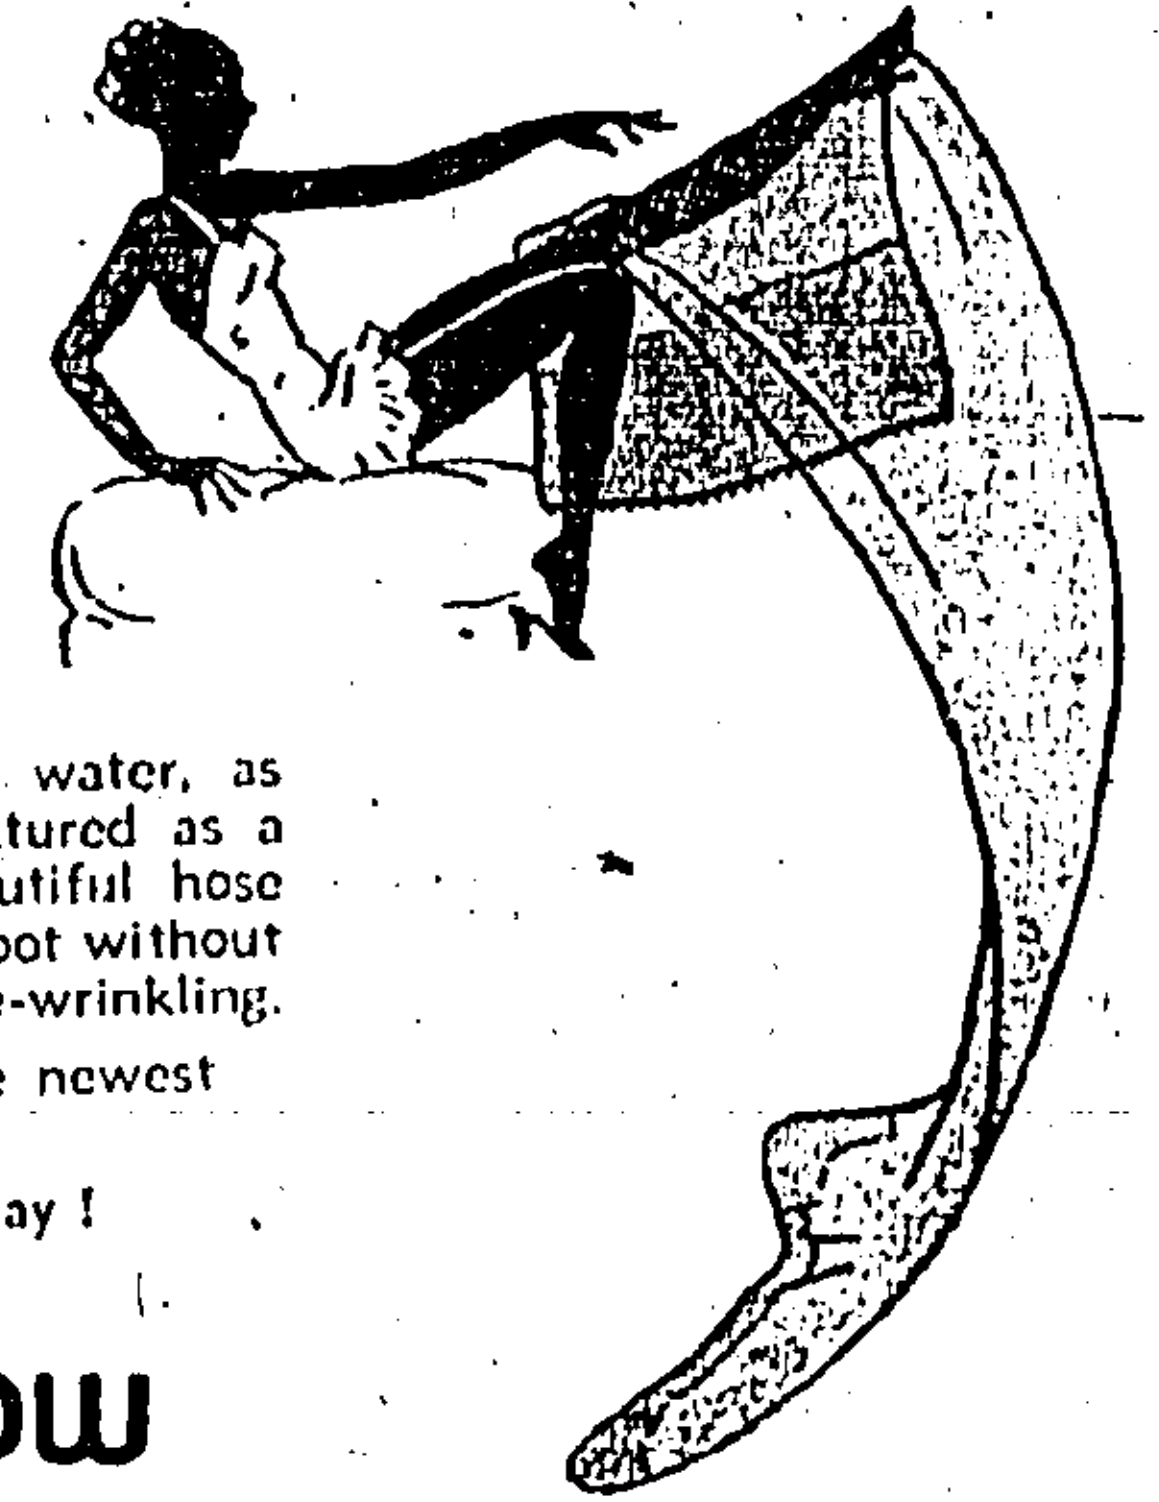

A suet pudding with fruit in can be treated in the same way, but served with custard or white sauce instead of jam. This method makes it much nicer than when it is reheated over a pan of water.

While Great Britain is pushing her factories night and day to prepare a vast airplane fleet, she also looks to her undersea forces. Here are spectators watching the launching of the new submarine Trident, at Birkenhead, Cheshire, England. It is the second of two recently launched there, and was christened by the wife of Rear Admiral R. H. T. Rakkes.

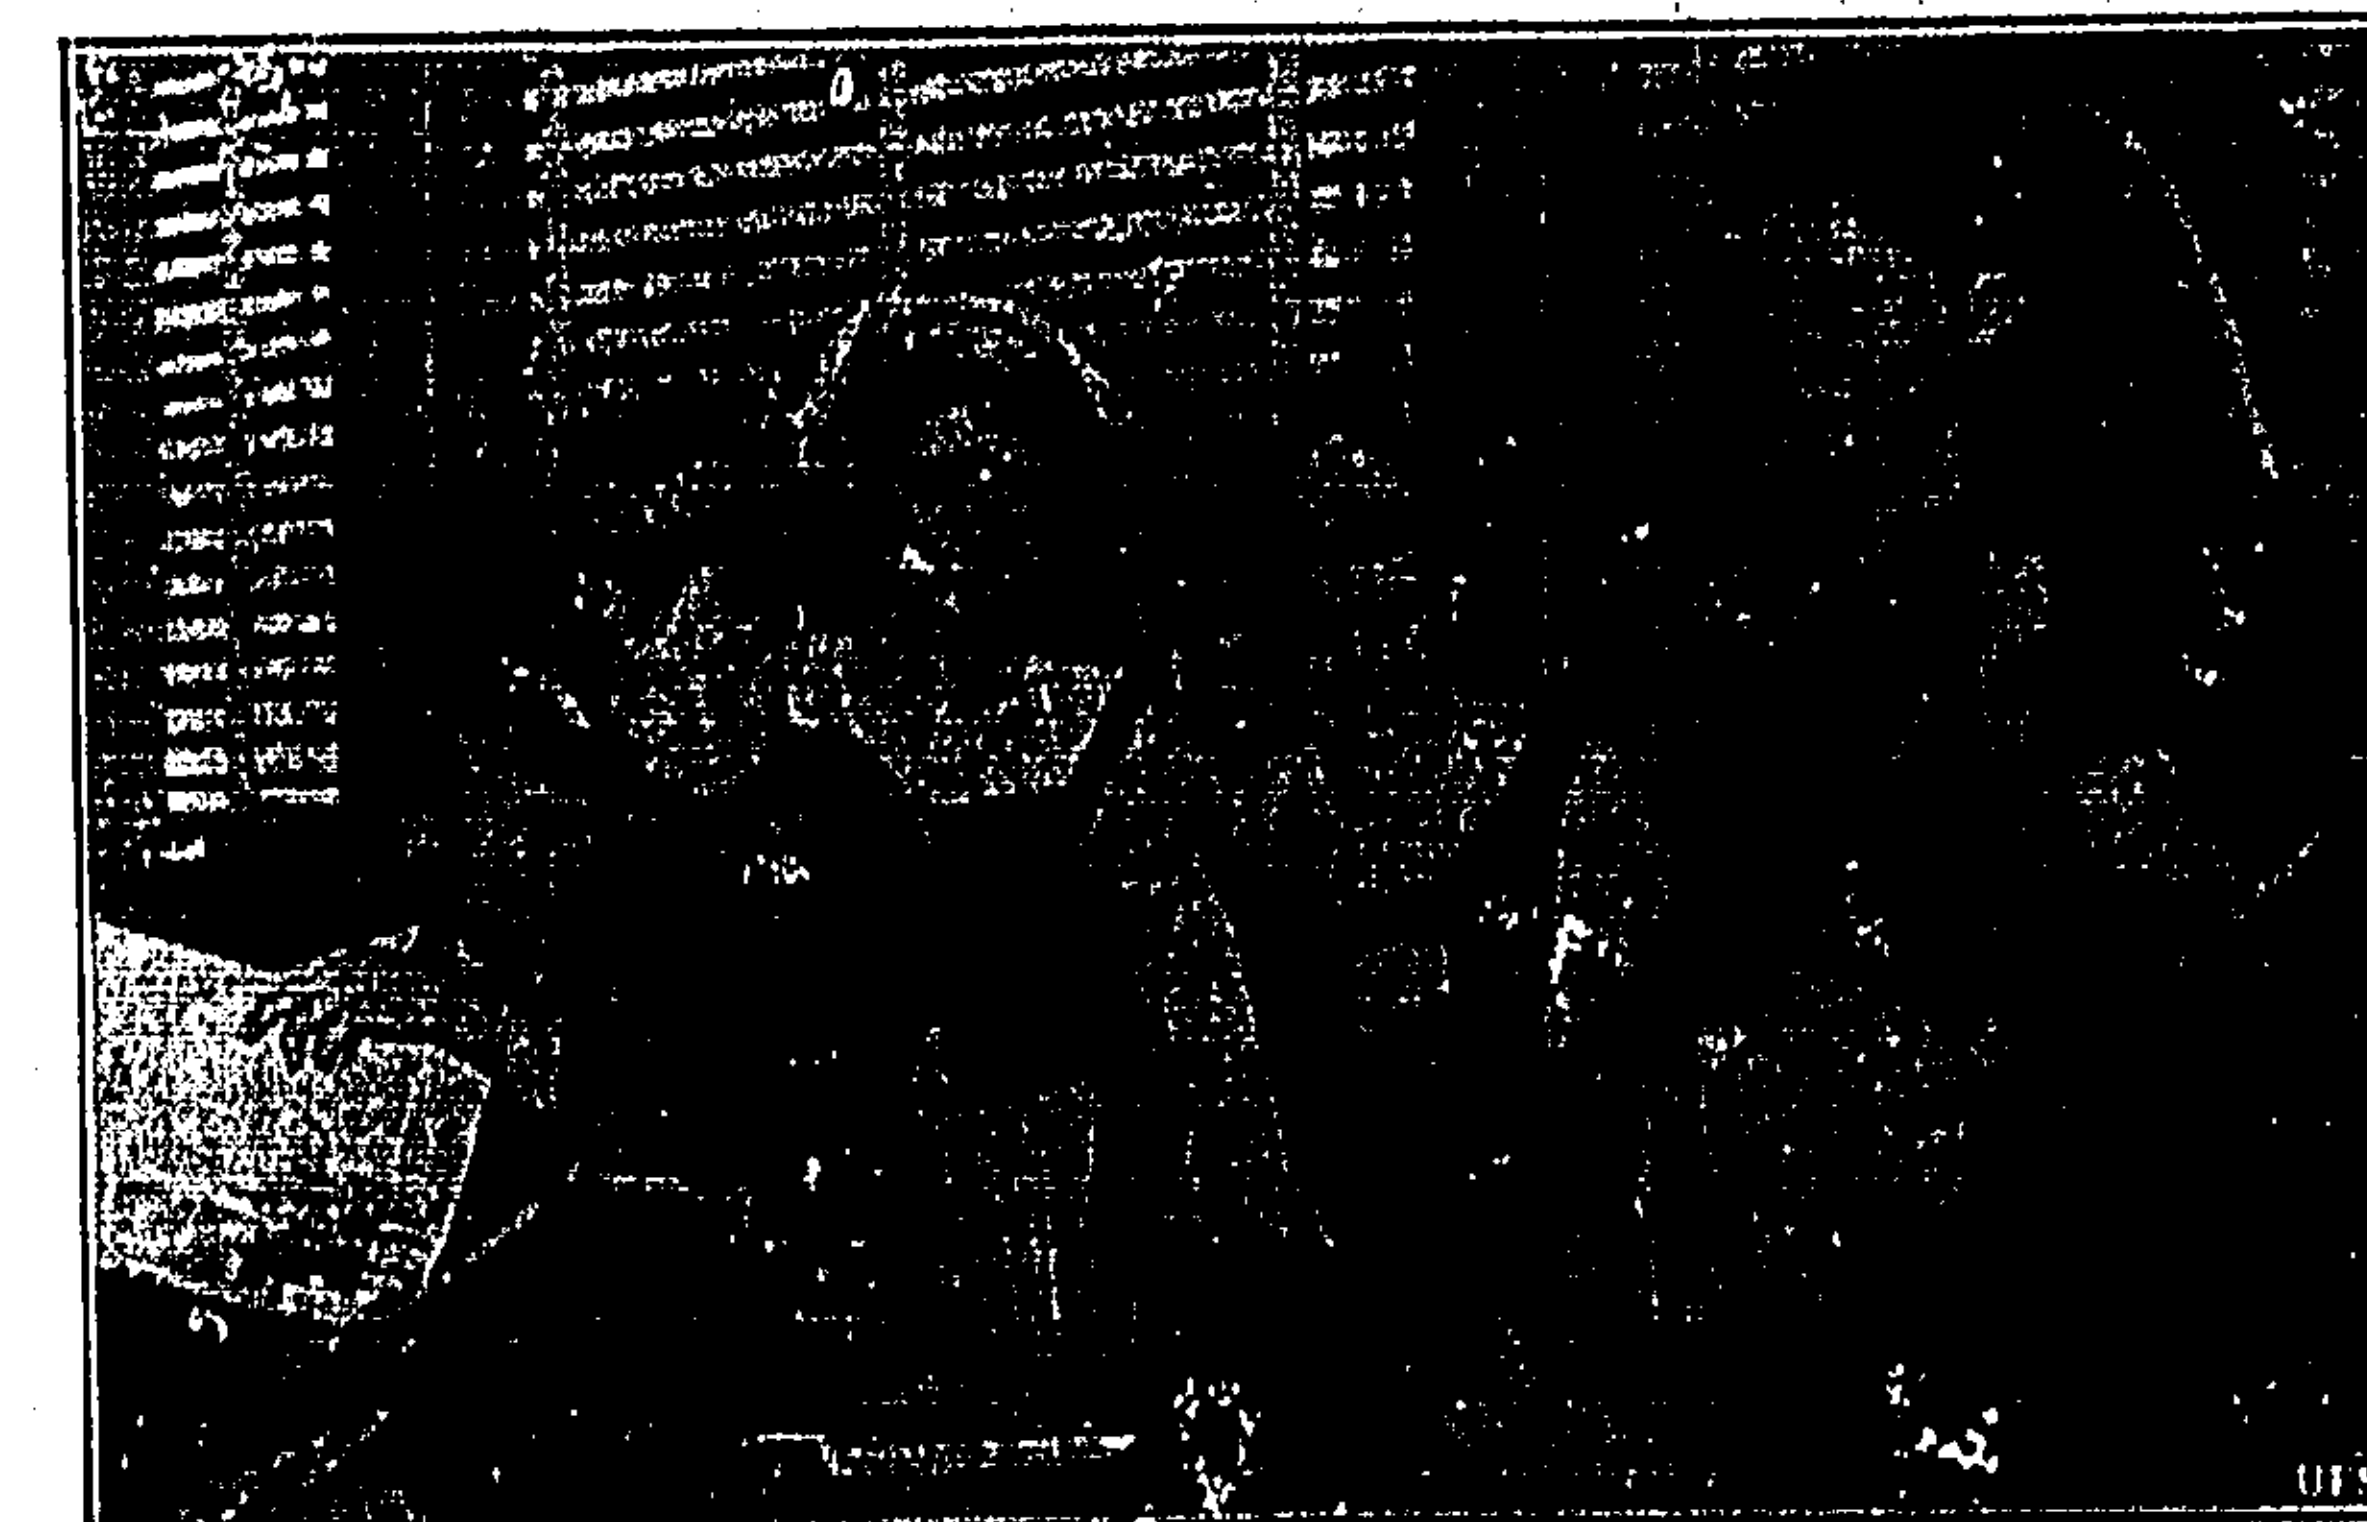

Diplomatic courtesy was extended in New York to Dr. Fernando Sirgo, Cuban Ambassador to Spain, when the State Department had the envoy and his wife taken from the Chaplain by special cutter to board the Cuban liner Orient, for Havana. They are shown above. Senora Sirgo is the daughter of Cuban Secretary of State Juan J. Ramos.

VIOLENCE - ALLEGED

Peculiar Affair in Hut At Repulse Bay

After partaking of hospitality offered them by a man named Chan Tong, two unemployed men, Wong Wah, 40, and Wong Fu, 44, are alleged to have attempted to rob their host, and to have used violence in doing so. They were resisted and arrested, and appeared before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday, charged with robbery with violence at Repulse Bay on January 9.

Both men were committed for trial at the February Sessions. Detective-Sub-Inspector W. N. Darkin prosecuted, and said that Chan was asleep in his hut, which is situated on the hillside above Mr. Eu Tong-sen's residence, with his wife, who occupied a separate cubicle, when he was awakened towards daylight by someone knocking on his front door. On opening it, he saw the defendants, both of whom said they were craving for opium, and asked if Chan could spare them some. Chan gave the second defendant two pipes of opium, and while he was smoking it, the first defendant left the hut, and shortly afterwards re-entered, holding a stick in his hand.

Both men made to leave the hut, and Chan asked back for his opium pipe. The men then went up to him and asked for a loan of money, which Chan said he did not possess. First defendant then produced a dagger from his girdle, and handed it to second defendant, who threatened Chan with it. Chan again protested he had no money, and sticking the dagger into a table second defendant as well as first defendant proceeded to bind Chan with a cord.

Chan shouted for help, and his wife ran out of the hut. Second defendant went after her, and returned five minutes later. During his absence, Chan struggled with first defendant, and was struck on the thighs with a stick. First defendant also picked up a meat chopper and threatened Chan with it. On his return, second defendant continued his search of the hut, and picked up the opium pipe, which he stuck into his girdle. Both defendants then left.

Chan chased them, and they had nearly reached the main road when first defendant threw the chopper into a nullah. On the main road, Chan caught sight of Mak Tang-kwong, an employee of the Repulse Bay Hotel, and shouted to Mak to help him. Both men ran after the defendants, and caught second defendant, whom they took back to the Hotel Garage. Chan's nephew, Chan Kwan, then came on the scene, and on being informed of what had happened, went to look for first defendant, and later returned to the garage with him in his custody. The police were then called.

When Chan's wife ran out of the hut with second defendant after her, she called for help. Second defendant caught up with her, and picking up a large piece of stone, struck her with it. He also pushed her into the nullah, where she was later found and taken back to the hut by Chan Kwan. Corroborative evidence was given by Chan, his wife, nephew and Mak, after which defendants were committed. Both declined to give evidence or make statements.

JAPAN'S PROTEST TO SINGAPORE

London, Jan. 25. Domei correspondent in London reports that the Japanese Ambassador to London, Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, acting on instructions from his home Government, on Wednesday afternoon lodged a protest with the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, regarding the detention of Japanese residents in Singapore. Ambassador Shigemitsu, the correspondent further reports, pointed out in his protest that the residences of Japanese residents in Singapore were strictly searched and that a number of Japanese nationals were forcibly placed under detention.

The Japanese protest further asserted that great restrictions were imposed by the authorities of the Straits Settlements on the travel and residence of Japanese nationals on suspicion of alleged espionage. The British Charge d'Affaires to the Loyalist Government, Mr. Ralph Stevenson, together with the entire staff of the British Embassy, as well as a few British subjects who were still in the Catalan capital, left Barcelona this evening aboard the British cruiser Devonshire, for the French frontier town of Marseilles. Mr. Stevenson for the time being will stay on board the Devonshire, according to well-informed quarters. The British cruiser Greyhound, after taking British subjects from Barcelona to Marseilles, has returned to Barcelona, waiting to take on board Mr. D. J. Rogers, the British Consul-General, who will leave the capital immediately after his fall.—Trans-Ocean.

SCENE IN COLOMBO French Seamen Jeer At Italians

London, Jan. 25. The Daily Express Colombo correspondent reports that when the Italian liner Conte Rosso berthed alongside the French liner Marechal Joffre there last Tuesday, the crews of both vessels massed at the stern and fore-castle and shouted taunts and gibes.

The Frenchmen yelled references to Mussolini and jeers at Italian claims to Tunis. The Italians retaliated with the chorus "Tunisia." They attempted to board the Marechal Joffre, but were repulsed with buckets of water.

Corsica members of the crew of the Marechal Joffre jumped into harbour boats and rowed to the Conte Rosso, but they were also repulsed. The harbour police were called in and restored order. Pilots have been instructed not to land Italian and French boats side by side. The Captains of both liners agreed that none of the crew would be allowed ashore.

The Italian and French Consuls exchanged visits and apologies for the disorder. It is reported that the Italian Consul has indicated his unwillingness to attend the Governor's reception and Rotarian conferences of delegates from India if the French Consul is invited.—United Press.

Only Buffalo Bills and Klondike Kates and other popular Western characters will be admitted. It is stated that "ordinary" folk will be thrown out, as they would have been in the old "saloon" days! Among the attractions for the evening are side shows, tombola, fortune telling, dancing, Hubilly shows, hot-dogs, Mexican baked beans and "cawfee," so that a most enjoyable and novel evening's entertainment is promised.

BARCELONA'S DEATH THROES

Street Fighting Starts as Cruiser Radios "Fall of City Imminent"

DESTROYER TAKES BRITISH REFUGEES TO MARSEILLES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Copyright by United Press Association. Telecommunications Ordinance, 1936. Received 7.45 a.m. Published 12.15 p.m.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
WITH THE INSURGENT VANGUARD ALREADY ENGAGED IN STREET FIGHTING AMIDST THE RUINS OF THE FIRST HOUSES IN BARCELONA PROPER, WHICH THEY REACHED AT 10.20 P.M. ON TUESDAY NIGHT (6.20 A.M. YESTERDAY H.K.T.) THE IMMINENT FALL OF THE ENTIRE CITY NOW APPEARS CERTAIN.

Confirmation for this was given early this morning by the British cruiser Devonshire, which has wirelessly the Admiralty in London that "the fall of Barcelona is imminent."

The laconic message from the Devonshire, which is at Caldetas, contains nothing additional, except that the British Minister, Mr. R. C. S. Stevenson, still refuses to leave Barcelona, despite repeated urgings.

INSURGENT BOMBER'S CRASH IN FRANCE

Three German Pilots Were Aboard

PARIS, Jan. 25.
DURING A snowstorm this morning, a Spanish insurgent bomber crashed on French territory, near Arrens in the Pyrenees. The crew of two officers and three men were killed.

Three of them had tried to land with parachutes, which failed to open in the storm.

The machine was a German made three-engined Heinkel plane, armed with two machine guns.—Trans-Ocean.

PILOTS HAD PLANS OF PYRENEES

Paris, Jan. 25.
A coded notebook, with a complete plan of the Pyrenees, marked in German was found among the wreckage of the insurgent bomber which crashed at Arrens.

Papers found on four of the five victims suggested that they were three Germans and one Spaniard. They were wearing insurgent uniforms.

The plane was a German Heinkel, and it is thought to be one which was engaged in a fight last night with a Loyalist plane near the French village of Formiguera, 15 miles north of the Spanish frontier.—Reuter Special.

NEW CRISIS IMMINENT

London and Paris Lose Confidence

LONDON, Jan. 25.
SOME DIPLOMATIC sources assert that opinion is growing in well-informed circles in London and Paris, that the next crisis will occur within a month.

If Herr Hitler speaks on January 30, he will possibly reveal when, and how, the next crisis will arise. Meanwhile confidence is apparently evaporating both in London and Paris that there will be any substantial withdrawal of Italian soldiers from Spain, if and when the Loyalists are defeated.

According to one report circulating in diplomatic quarters, a few thousand Italian troops would be withdrawn, but a few thousand Germans would replace them. From the French provinces, as well as from Paris, reports make it clear that opinion is hardening against any concessions while Mussolini uses his present methods.—United Press.

The British Consul-General, Mr. D. J. Rogers is also remaining at Barcelona for the present.

Meanwhile Barcelona's communications with the outside world, except for Government and military messages, were virtually cut off this morning.

The wireless and cable facilities have been taken over by the Barcelona military authorities, after which commercial and press communications were suspended.

The sole telephone line from Barcelona to France is theoretically still functioning, but with indefinite delays, indicating that it is being used almost exclusively for Government business.—United Press.

DESTROYER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

MARSEILLES, Jan. 25.
THE BRITISH destroyer Greyhound, arriving from Barcelona, landed in Marseilles to-day with ten employees and their families of the British Embassy staff.

The Embassy staff has remained in Spain, and is at present in Girona.

Regarding the situation in Barcelona, the refugees stated that the thunder of guns had been getting nearer, and conditions had become, from day to day, more critical.

Insurgent air raids had caused great damage, and several ships in the harbour had been sunk.

Even the Greyhound had had a narrow escape from bombs. Barcelona's air defences are described as being not particularly efficient, apparently owing to lack of material and munition.

Opinion was expressed that the city would only be able to hold out for a brief period.

The destroyer also brought part of the archives of the British Embassy from Spain, which were immediately forwarded to London.—Trans-Ocean.

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
The Spanish Loyalist Ministers, with leading members of their staffs have left Barcelona, and arrived this morning at Gerona, which is the only Catalan provincial capital not occupied by the Insurgents, or within range of their guns.

Sino-British Air Service

London Interested In Reports

LONDON, Jan. 25.
AIR CIRCLES are very interested by the report from Chungking that a "through-service" between China and Europe has been arranged via Yunnan and Burma.

Dr. Chang Peng-chun, who arrived last week, took nine days from Chungking to England via Yunnan and Hanoi, and the more direct route from Chungking to Rangoon should reduce the time to a little over five days.

The news is also regarded as significant as further evidence of the Chinese Government's determination to develop West China. Inquiries in London suggest that Chungking's announcement is slightly premature, though it is hoped that an official statement will be made in the not distant future.

Air circles point out that such arrangements generally imply a mutual concession, for example, in this case, freedom for British aeroplanes to fly into China, which had hitherto been refused to all foreign lines.—Reuter.

REICHSTAG TO MEET

The Reichstag will meet on January 30, at 8 p.m., G.M.T.—Reuter.

REFUGEES ARRIVING TO-MORROW

Jews To Hold Special Synagogue Service

THE TIDE OF Jewish immigration to the Far East will rise to-morrow with the arrival in Hongkong of a further large batch of refugees from Austria. Only a few of the refugees will disembark in Hongkong. The majority will proceed on to Shanghai, where they hope to find some means of employment.

Included in the refugees arriving to-morrow are many women and children forced to flee from the homes by Nazi persecution.

Jewish residents of Hongkong will attend a Special Service at the 'Ohe Leah' Synagogue at 11 a.m. on Sunday, when prayers will be offered on behalf of stranded Jewish refugees on the German-Polish frontier.

Similar services are being held on Sunday throughout the British Empire. The thousands of Jews encamped on the German-Polish frontier were expelled from Germany, but were not allowed to enter Poland.

They are now in a sort of "No Man's Land"—unwanted by either country. They are camped in the open, in bitter winter weather, with no means of obtaining adequate food or shelter.

A "Trans-Ocean" message this morning stated that an exchange of notes has taken place between Germany and Poland concerning these unfortunate refugees.

The German Government has informed Poland that it does not see its way clear to rescind the decree of expulsion, but is prepared to allow those Jews already expelled to return to Germany for a short period, in order to wind up their affairs.

They will be authorised to take only their movable property with them when they return to Poland. Money at their credit in German banks and real estate must remain in Germany.

The arrangement will not remain valid after July 31.

Prague, Jan. 25.
Further mass expulsions from the district of Teschen, which formerly belonged to Czechoslovakia, but is now Polish, took place to-day, according to reports in the "Ceske Slovo".

This time, however, the expulsions included people who had resided permanently in the district, and even those who formerly attended the Polish university and schools.

The notice given for leaving the country, which hitherto had always been 24 hours, was this time reduced to five hours, and in a few cases only one hour was allowed for the people to leave.

The Moravian authorities at Ostrau have built 16 shelters for the expelled, which number altogether 3,000.

The Polish authorities explain this new expatriation by reference to the new frontier incident near Michal-kovice, but the Czechoslovak police authorities assert that the reason why this frontier incident occurred was because Polish terrorists crossed the border and fired on the Czechs.—Trans-Ocean.

JAPAN PREPARES FOR WAR AGAINST RUSSIA

TOKYO, Jan. 25.
THE POSSIBILITY of war between Japan and Soviet Russia was discussed to-day in the Japanese Diet.

One of the leading members of the Minseitō Party, Mr. Yasujiro Tsutsumi, recalled that the former deputy Minister of War, General Tojo had stated that the fundamental principle of Japanese re-armament must be the possibility of simultaneous war with China and the Soviet Union.

Mr. Tsutsumi asked the War Minister, General Itagaki, whether this was the standpoint of the army.

In reply, the War Minister pointed out that the extent of re-armament in Soviet Russia was also condition by the hypothesis of having to wage war simultaneously with more than one country.

He went on to say that Japan was now concentrating all her efforts on a settlement of the Chinese problem, but that the solution was closely connected with preparations for a hypothetical case of simultaneous conflict with China and the Soviet.

TWO POWER STANDARD

Mr. Tsutsumi then emphasised that agreement prevailed that Japan's re-armament must be based on a two-power standard. He added that Japan had no intention of provoking the Soviet Union, but she must be prepared to repel an aggressor in the event of unprovoked attack on herself.

General Itagaki likewise stressed that the Japanese army had no intention of making an unprovoked attack on the Soviet Union, but that it was prepared to ward off any eventual aggression on the part of Russian forces.—Trans-Ocean.

Arab Terrorists Start New Palestine Battle

JERUSALEM, Jan. 25.
A JEWISH CHAUFFEUR was shot dead in the Arab quarter of Jerusalem to-day, two Arab firing the fatal shots.

Police immediately proceeded to make numerous arrests.

In addition a hand bomb exploded in the Jewish quarter, but without injuring anyone.

One Arab was shot, and several others arrested in the course of a search carried out by British troops in Tulkarem, where the police station was attacked by Arab irregulars.

According to the Arab paper "Al-Jihad", 88 persons have been released from the internment camp at Bethlehem, and replaced by 60 new prisoners.—Trans-Ocean.

Chilean Earthquake

DEATH ROLL IN GREAT DISASTER REACHES 10,000

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 25.
IT HAS BEEN confirmed that no less than 10,000 people have been killed in the earthquake which rocked nearly the whole of Chile.—Reuter.

Frightful Damage

The Government reports that hundreds are known to be dead early this morning as a result of the earthquake disaster.

The intensity of the quake can be gathered from the reports pouring in from all over the country, indicating frightful material damage, and tragic loss of life.

By telephone reports have arrived that some small towns have been destroyed, while fires are burning in other cities. A "United Press" correspondent at Concepcion, flashing a message by naval radio, reported that the central part of the city was nearly destroyed, and that a big fire was raging. However accurate details of the effect were not yet possible.

Southern Chile was stricken to-day by a violent earthquake, but the extent of the damage and the casualties were not officially calculated by midday to-day.

However, the authorities deprecated the report that there had been 2,000 deaths in Concepcion alone. It was stated to be nearer 60.

APPEAL FOR AID

Nevertheless, the Concepcion authorities have radiated that conditions are terrible and have appealed for sanitary supplies.

The Government has rushed aid to the devastated areas by aeroplane, special trains, and automobiles, which are carrying food and physicians.

Although it is impossible to compute the casualties in Concepcion, it is asserted that the central portion of the city has been destroyed. Concepcion is Chile's third largest city, with a population of 80,000.

Some towns are reported to have been almost destroyed, while fires are burning in many towns, including Concepcion.

Six provinces—Talca, Maule, Nuble, Concepcion, Biobio and Cautin—with a total population of over 1,000,000 lay in the earthquake zone, covering an area 400 miles long and 100 miles wide in South and Central Chile along the Pacific.

STATE OF SIEGE

The Talcahuano zone, 250 miles south of Santiago has been placed in a state of siege as one-fourth of the city of Talca is reported to have been destroyed, while the naval base has been badly damaged.

Squadrons of military bombers were the first relief agencies to start south, followed by trains, one of which carried President Aguirre-Cedra, 40 doctors, 70 nurses, and medical supplies.

Aeroplanes hopped off at frequent intervals, while the destroyer Riquelme sailed from Valparaiso at midday with medical supplies for Talcahuano. The Government has asked amateur radio fans to co-operate in furnishing Cedra, 40 doctors, 70 nurses, and curacy was essential.—United Press.

PARIS, Jan. 25.

The army committee of the Chamber to-day unanimously adopted the report on the Government's new Bill providing for a continuance of the two-years military service scheme.—Reuter Special.

LOUIS WINS IN FIRST ROUND

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.
JOE LOUIS remains the heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

At Madison Square Gardens to-night, in the first heavyweight title fight between two coloured boxers ever staged, he had no difficulty in retaining his title. He battered his opponent, John Henry Lewis, the light-heavyweight champion, to a technical knockout in the first round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

Louis was a 7-1 odds on favourite to win.—United Press.

LATEST LEWIS DOWN THRICE

New York, Jan. 25.
Joe Louis started his fight with Henry Lewis with a murderous attack reminiscent of his historic fight with Schmeling.

He flashed out a right in the first few seconds and felled Lewis for a count of two.

Following up with a barrage of blows, he knocked Lewis through the ropes, though the light-heavyweight champion immediately clambered back into the ring.

However, Louis gave him no quarter and immediately felled him with a right to the head.

Lewis went down to the boards with a bleeding mouth, and Referee Donovan stopped the fight after Lewis had taken a count of five.

The scrap lasted only two minutes and 20 seconds.—United Press.

Brutal Attack On Woman

A BRUTAL ATTACK on a 58-year-old woman in Tai Wan Road by three men will have a sequel in Court to-day when a man, alleged to be one of the participants in the attack, will appear in Court.

The victim of the outrage was Mrs. Fang Yiu, residing at Tai Wal Street.

The attack occurred in broad daylight yesterday afternoon, as Mrs. Fang was returning to her home from the Kowloon office of the China Light and Power Company.

As she was walking down the street, a man ran up suddenly behind her and knocked her over.

When she fell, the man sat on her to prevent her from rising again. As she struggled two other men came up and systematically but quickly robbed her of all her valuables, which included a purse containing $50 in banknotes.

The three men then decamped. Struggling to her feet, Mrs. Fang ran after the men. A large crowd of Chinese, attracted by the cries, also took up the chase and a man was captured near the Green Island cement works by a lorry driver. Mrs. Fang subsequently identified the man, who has been arrested, as one of her assailants.

Royal Tour In Canada Absence Of Six Weeks

IT was officially announced from Buckingham Palace recently that the King and Queen will spend four days—June 8 to 11—in the United States of America this summer.

The visit is at the invitation of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and will make a break in their Majesties' tour of Canada.

On their way home from Canada they will call at Newfoundland on June 17—the first visit by a reigning sovereign to the oldest British colony.

In all, the King and Queen will be absent from Britain for six weeks and three days. They will leave Portsmouth in H.M.S. Repulse on May 8 and arrive back at Portsmouth on June 22.

The official statement from the Palace reads:—

The King and Queen will leave Portsmouth in H.M.S. Repulse on May 8, arriving at Quebec on May 15. Their Majesties will spend one night at Quebec; after a day in Montreal they will stay for three nights at Government House, Ottawa. The King will then cross Canada by train, visiting successively Kingston, Toronto, Port Arthur, Port William, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Banff, Vancouver, and Victoria.

On their eastward journey, their Majesties will visit Jasper Park, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Sudbury, the Muskoka Lakes District, London, Hamilton, and Niagara Falls. At Banff, Victoria, and Jasper Park their Majesties will have periods of complete rest.

After four days in the United States of America their Majesties will resume their tour of Canada, visiting Sherbrooke, Montreal, Fredericton, Saint John, and Halifax, whence they will leave in H.M.S. Repulse for Newfoundland on June 15. Having spent June 17 at St.

John's, Newfoundland, their Majesties will sail for England that evening, reaching Portsmouth on June 22.

In pursuance of the invitation which the King and Queen have been happy to accept from the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, their Majesties will spend June 8, 9, 10, and 11 in the United States of America.

Though the King's visit to Newfoundland will be the first paid by a reigning Sovereign to the oldest British Colony, it will not be his Majesty's first visit, because he went there during his period of service as a naval officer.

The King will celebrate his official birthday at Ottawa on Saturday, May 20, and, as already announced, he will broadcast to the Empire on Empire Day, May 24. Though definite dates are not given in the official announcement, indications are that the Royal party will be at Winnipeg on this day, and that the King will broadcast from there.

In all the King and Queen will spend 28 days in the Dominion of Canada, and dates for their United States visit were chosen at the beginning of June in order to enable them to return to Canada to complete their tour and thus leave for home from Canadian soil.

It has already been announced that the official celebrations in Britain of the King's birthday will be held early in June.

Property worth £36,020 (n.p. £31,250) was left by Lady Kathleen M. A. M. Swinerton Pilkington, of Chesham, Chesham, wife of Sir Thomas E. M. Swinerton Pilkington, and daughter of the fourth Earl of Dorset. Her bequests included:—An annuity of £200 to Marjorie Nixey, wife of Dr. E. H. Nixey, of London, S.W. Among the legacies of Dr. Nixey, Philippa Middlemore, of Kent-terrace, Regent's Park, N.W., physician and surgeon (daughter of the late Sir John Thompson Middlemore, of Woodside, Worcester), who left £15,951 (n.p. £15,649), were:—£1,000 to the Institute of Psycho-analysis, London, W.1. £500 to Dr. Barbara Walk, or if dead equally between her children. £300 to Dr. Joan Maitland, desiring that she should go on skating until I make a shot at winning my greatest ambition—the Olympic skating title," she said. "Then I shall give up skating and go in for something else—motor racing, perhaps."

£200 to Ruby Constance, of The Thorns, Aldeburgh, if still living with her at the time of her decease. Dr. Vaughan Bateson, of Sonoma, Manchester-road, Bradford, in authority on the works of Kipling, of whom he was an intimate friend, left £19,201 (n.p. £18,870).

TRIBUTE TO STEPSONS

Personal estate valued at £63,229 was left by Lady Chance, of Nulmore, Milltown, Dublin, widow of Sir Arthur Chance. Probate has been granted to her stepsons, Norman Albert Chance and Dr. Arthur Chance.

4-Year Secret

MRS. ALEXANDER McKINLEY SMYTH, young widow of the Glasgow University student who was found accidentally shot in his uncle's office at Glasgow, told recently of her wedding at Gretna Green which was kept secret for nearly four years.

Mrs. McKinley Smyth has known two tragedies in four days. After the death of her husband her mother-in-law, grieving for her son, died from heart failure. She said: "My husband and I first met at the Ayr racetrack in 1933. We were attracted by each other, and two years later—January 2, 1935—we were married at Gretna Green."

"Only my mother and his mother knew. They witnessed the registration at Dumfries after the Gretna ceremony."

"It was the wish of my mother-in-law that we should not live together at first as my husband was studying for a medical degree."

"On September 17, 1938 we had a benediction of the civil marriage in St. Bridge's Church, Glasgow. After that we revealed our secret."

No Coffee In Berlin Shops

Berlin. Germany's method of trading with foreign countries, attacked recently in the House of Commons, by the Secretary for Overseas Trade, are beginning to be reflected in the refusal of certain states to supply goods on Nazi terms.

They are refusing, even if they have no other market for them. A recent example was Holland with last season sent little or no supplies of her excellent cauliflower and tomatoes to Germany.

Now the trade quarrel with Brazil has resulted in such a serious shortage of coffee that in Berlin alone numbers of shops selling coffee, tea and cocoa are closing down their branches.

It is officially announced to-night that the amount of coffee to be roasted in Germany for the first quarter of this year will be restricted to 75 per cent. of the average over the 18 months up to June, 1938.

Coffee being the German what tea is to the West Indian, or whisky to the Scotsman, the unpopularity of the measure can be guessed.

Its immediate result has been hoarding by a large section. Two of Berlin's oldest newspapers, the "Berliner Tageblatt" and its "Volkzeitung" edition, the "Berliner Volkszeitung," are to cease separate publication at the end of this month. They are to be amalgamated with the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung."

Grimsby. Rockings on a special stretcher, sometimes at the rate of 12 a minute, saved the life of a local nine-year-old boy suffering from infantile paralysis.

This method of arresting the dread disease, which was successfully carried out at Grimsby Corporation Hospital, has caused considerable discussion in the medical world.

The boy concerned, Gordon Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bennett, of Wellington-street, Grimsby, was stricken with the disease and lay encased in plaster of Paris.

The disease approached a crisis, and the paralysis threatened the lungs. It was necessary to keep the lungs functioning, and there was no iron lung available at the vital time.

The medical staff at the hospital provided a substitute. The boy was placed on a stretcher with means for tilting it backwards and forwards.

OPERATED BY LEVERS Operated by levers, the head of the stretcher was alternately raised and lowered. In effect, the boy was stood on his head and heels as he lay on the stretcher.

The boy made rapid progress, and was able to receive other treatment. He is now in a stage of convalescence and his complete recovery is expected.

"Our hearts were very full," said Mr. Bennett. "It was really a great experience, and we were torn with anxiety."

"Everyone at the hospital was very good. After the first three days we were not so much engaged in working the apparatus as others, and it was a tremendous relief when the doctors told us that we were winning."

It was really an amazing experience. We were relieved at night by ambulance men, porters at the hospital, and others, who kept the boy rocking continuously."

There is a consensus of opinion among doctors and the hospital staff that in this particular case the tilting stretcher was more effective than an iron lung might have proved.

Family Hear Of Reprieve Over Radio

"The Home Secretary has recommended a reprieve for Sydney George Paul, 46-year-old salesman, sentenced to death at the Old Bailey on December 1 for the murder of his wife at their villa in Rosebury Vale, Rutland, Middlesex."

PAUL's relatives, listening in recently, heard this announcement by the B.B.C.

"We were very hopeful that the petition which was prepared would result in a reprieve, but we did not expect to hear the news in such a dramatic manner," a friend of the family said.

"Even now the four children have not been told of the happenings of the past two months. They know, however, that their mother is dead."

Sixpence Does Duty As Stamp

Sydney.

A LETTER which arrived here by an Australian sixpenny bit family glued to the right-hand top corner, instead of the usual stamp, was duly delivered.

"The letter was addressed: 'Miss D. Jones, Lamsrook Avenue 28, Dondi Sydney.'"

It was posted in Batavia, presumably by some person who was unable to catch the regular mail and who, in desperation, glued sixpence on to the envelope in lieu of stamps, hoping it would be delivered.

The letter was not included with "The family decided to await the result of the petition to the Home Secretary before deciding how the children should be told."

Paul was found guilty after a trial lasting four days. Asked if he had anything to say, Paul held out in his hand a rosary and replied, "I am not guilty."

When sentenced he made the sign of the Cross.

Mrs. Paul, who was 38, was found with severe head injuries on the verandah of the villa where she lived with her husband and two of their four children.

Paul declared that he and his wife were attacked by a stranger and that £150 was missing from the house.

the rest of the bill, but carefully guarding by the driver's crew, and, on arrival here, handed over to K. N. L. M. officials, who forwarded it to the post office.

Megan Taylor Wears Engagement Ring

BRITISH ice ace 18-years-old Megan Taylor has said not a word to British ice ace 18-years-old Cecilia Colledge about the ring she recently slipped on her engagement finger.

Recently, while they practised at Wembley ice rink, they cut figures on the ice—and cut each other.

It was when practising was finished that Megan slipped on her engagement finger a ring set with a white pearl, a black pearl, and diamonds.

"I won't confirm or deny whether I'm engaged," she said when challenged.

"I won't explain the mystery. I've promised to keep it a secret. But he's not an Englishman, and he's nothing to do with skating."

"An American? I won't tell you. I've promised. No—it hasn't happened long. On my holidays in fact."

ALWAYS AMATEUR She said that she does not intend ever to become a professional. "If I propose to go on skating until I make a shot at winning my greatest ambition—the Olympic skating title," she said. "Then I shall give up skating and go in for something else—motor racing, perhaps."

CENTRAL CLEAN COMFORTABLE

Countess Vanishes

From West End Hotel

SCOTLAND Yard detectives recently searched the luxurious suite in Savoy's Normandie Hotel, Knightsbridge, of the Countess Mari Kugeneck, beautiful Austrian Jewess, wife of the old Viennese aristocracy, was missing.

Hotel officials who have known her for two years became anxious when she did not return after leaving her room dressed in town clothes. The countess, who is 45, rarely goes out of the hotel without leaving a message as to when she will return.

LUGGAGE UNPACKED

When several days had passed the police were told it was found that her room had been left untouched and her luggage unpacked.

"The countess was a very wealthy woman," a friend said. "She had made her home at the Normandie Hotel for the last two years, but she was always travelling and spent considerable periods in Paris, Switzerland, and the south of France."

HUSBAND A NAZI

"I understand that her husband is a prominent official in Vienna under the Nazi regime and that the countess since the Anschluss has been distressed because she was Jewish and her husband Aryan."

"Despite this, she appeared to carry on her life of travel as usual, although I know she did not return to Vienna."

"I also noticed during the few days before her disappearance that she looked very worried and at times seemed almost ill. She was a very sentimental type of woman and spoke excellent English. During the last two years she talked constantly of her regret at the difficulties which prevented her seeing her husband more frequently."

Surgeon's Fatal Experiment

London.

A verdict of death by misadventure was recorded by the Coroner, Mr. Ingleby Oddie, at the Westminster inquest recently on Dr. Julian Kastellan, 23, assistant resident obstetric surgeon at Westminster Hospital, who was found dead in his bedroom at the hospital with an anaesthetic mask over his face. Dr. Solomon Kastellan, of Kings Road, Newington, said that his son had no love affair causing trouble or worry. He was very interested in science, and often conducted experiments at home. A year ago he experimented with a sun-light apparatus he had made himself. Dr. Alan Dods, house surgeon at Westminster Hospital, who discovered the tragedy, said that on a chair beside the bed was a gas apparatus and Dr. Kastellan's mouth was covered by a mask strapped to his head by an elastic harness. The apparatus was not delivering gas because the gasolene device was so set that unless he breathed in no gas was delivered. A dial on the apparatus showed that it had been delivering the maximum amount of nitrous oxide; no oxygen was registered, so that when the doctor breathed in he got full nitrous oxide.

Heaven In The "Fourth Dimension"

THE suggestion that Heaven may be in a fourth dimension of space was made recently by Sir Ambrose Fleming, 80-year-old scientist.

He made a vigorous defence of the Bible in a paper read on his behalf before the Victoria Institute in London.

He affirmed his belief in miracles and prophecy, claimed that the record of Christ's teaching was substantially correct, and said that the report of the Archbishop's Commission on Christian Doctrine (published last year) would emphasise differences in the Church of England.

"There is a gulf between animal and man that no evolution hypothesis has been able to bridge," said Sir Ambrose.

Defending the Bible, he said:—"Although it is the custom to speak of the abode called 'Heaven' as if it were some region in our space of three dimensions, yet scientific analysis has shown that our space may be only, as it were, one section of a large four-dimensional space time continuum, and that passage from one to the other is by a movement in a fourth dimension."

"It has been more than once pointed out that the sudden appearance and disappearance of our Lord in His post-resurrection period are all consistent with such movement in a four dimension in space."

He Collects Christmas Cards

London.

A man badly disabled as a result of the Great War collects old Christmas Cards and remembrances them as an old to a living. He is Mr. Andrew Davidson, of Brimsley, Morpeth, Northumberland.

Through a photographer's error, the above photograph published on Saturday, was wrongly captioned as being that of the Ladies' Night Dance held by the Cathay Lodge, No. 4373. Actually the function was the inaugural dinner of the Northumberland and Durham Association held at the Hongkong Hotel on Friday, January 13.

Hostess Of £1,000 Party May Own Home Of Queens

MRS. Nora Albertini, red-haired wife of an American millionaire and hostess of some of London's most spectacular parties, may soon have as her home of four Queens—the present King and Queen lived there after their marriage—and birthplace of the Duke of Windsor.

She is negotiating with the Commissioners of Crown Lands for the lease, given up three months ago by Viscount Lee of Fareham, King George V. granted Lord Lee a life-lease in 1926.

—This year, for the first time in its 200 years' history, White Lodge came into the market.

Mrs. Albertini, a sister of Reginald Denny, the film star, is anxious to take the house on a long lease.

Her present home is in Windsor Great Park.

DAWN BREAKFAST

It was in this house nearly two years ago that Mrs. Albertini—already known as "the £1,000 party hostess"—gave a Coronation party to 600 guests, including West End stage stars, film stars, an Indian maharajah, a famous motor-racing driver and an Atlantic flier.

Her guests breakfasted on the lawn as dawn was breaking, while dance music played in the ballroom.

A year earlier Mrs. Albertini had brought a libel action after a party she gave to 500 guests at a cost of £1,000. The suit failed.

Windsor will be sorry if Mrs. Albertini moves. She has been hostess at many Christmas parties to poor children of the district. She gives generously to local charities.

She said recently: "My money is American (her husband is a grandson of William Reynolds, the American railway millionaire), and there is no obligation on me to spend it here. But I like to see people happy around me."

The Theatre Of To-day

London. GENERALLY speaking, the London Theatres are doing well. They have beaten off the Cinema attack and are carrying the warfare into the provinces, where new theatres are actually being built and repertory companies are becoming like mushrooms.

Yet there is nothing very outstanding in the world of drama. Only one home-grown play appeared last year which could be called first-class—Charles Morgan's "The Flashing Stream." It also ranks as the surprise success. Being (1) a shade more than merely literary, (2) by an intellectual novelist, (3) on a serious, even profound theme, it was generally expected to lie down and expire quietly.

Instead it has turned out a hit. The production costs were paid off in fifteen performances. The profits exceeded £5,000 before the 100th performance came along. More than 100,000 people have now seen it.

The only show with music worthy of the time and attention of anybody above the mental age of six was Herbert Farjeon's clever Little Theatre revue "Nine Sharp." It will be withdrawn on the 14th January after more than 400 performances.

Other successes so far as finance is concerned are "Dear Octopus" by Dodie Smith, Emylin Williams' "The Corn is Green"; "Spring Meeting," and "Goodness How Sad." Commercially, the year's No. 1 was "Dear Octopus," pulling in the ready-made public of the authors, John Gielgud and Marie Tempest.

American importations have been almost invariably good. The play of the year was unquestionably Robert Sherwood's "Idiot's Delight." A most emotional experience was provided by Clifford Odets's "Golden Boy."

The most delightful light evening was supplied by Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, the incomparables, in Sam Behrman's graceful, scintillatingly witty "Amphitryon 38." The only other important out-of-the-rut dramatic session was with Shaw's "Geneva"—or rather the last act of it.

Where Japan Is Vulnerable

London.

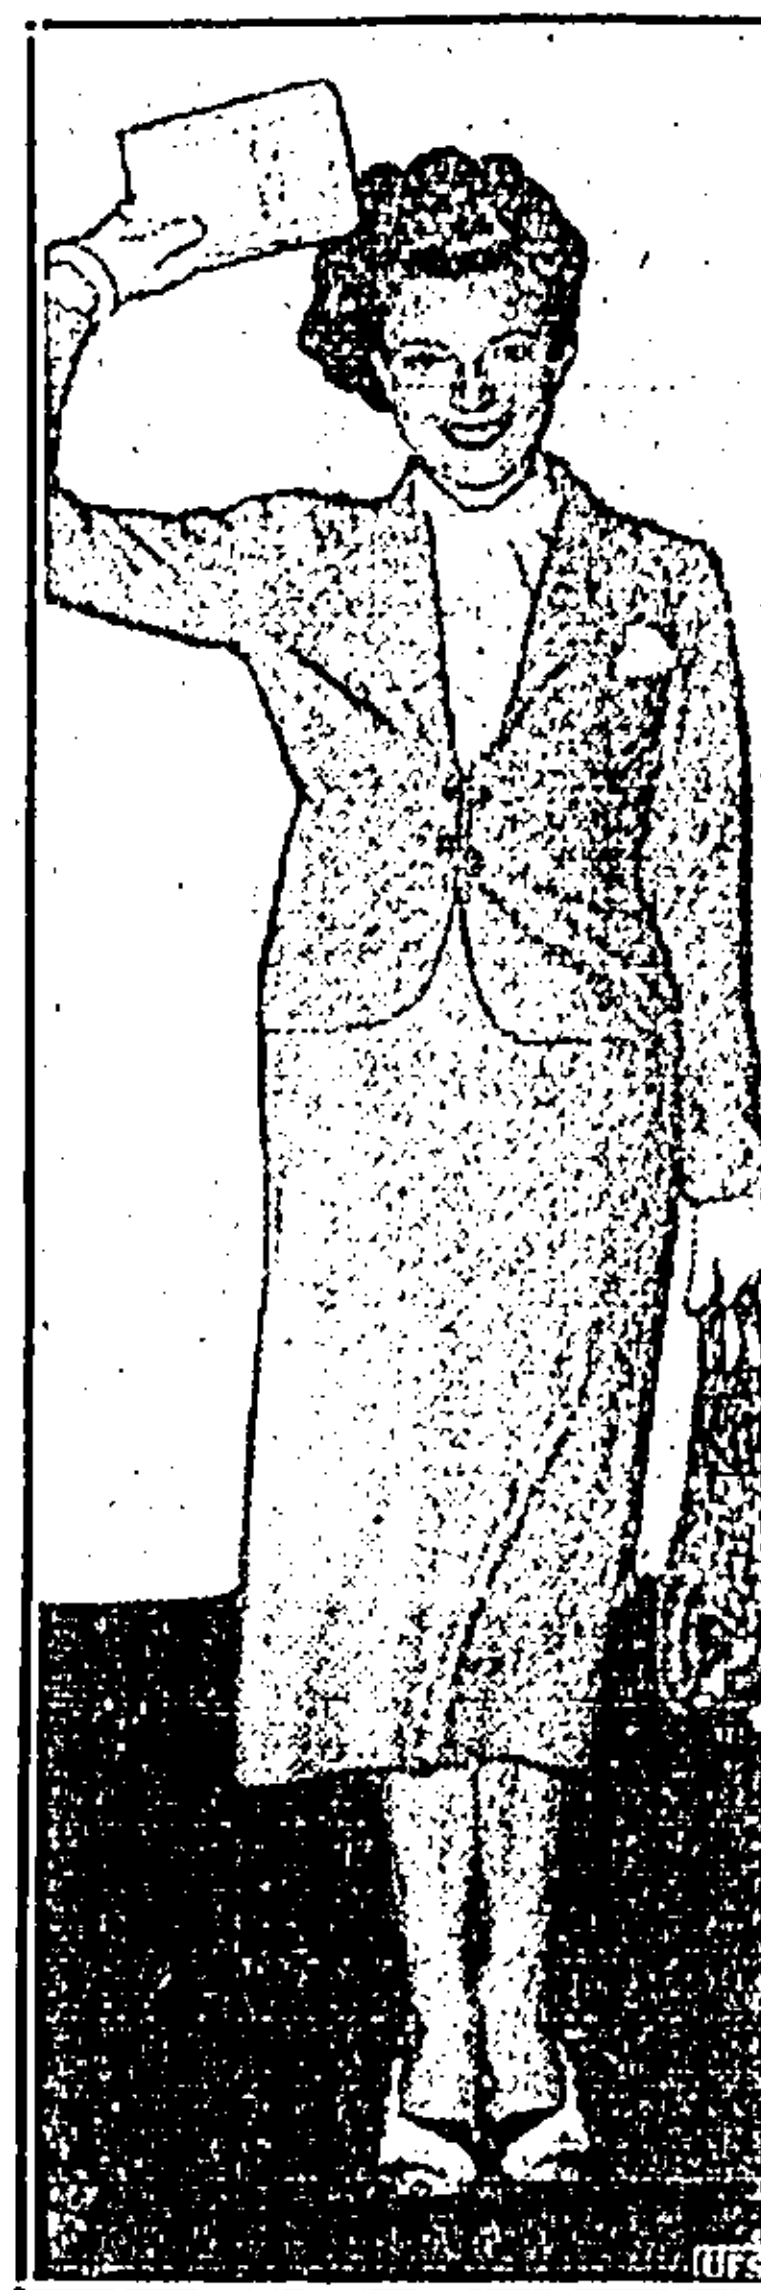

THE Financial News, in a leader, states that for the Western Powers to intervene directly in China now is obviously impracticable.

"The defence of Great Britain's economic interests, however, is another matter," says the newspaper, "we are armed at all points there. Our weapons are keen and powerful and we should use them."

The leader declares markets, not capital, are Japan's Achilles Heel now, and adds: "If Britain with her present unfavourable trade balance decided to reduce the total of her imports from Japan, what could prevent her or the United States for that matter from carrying out her determination?"

"Meanwhile we can at least neglect no opportunity when 'fighting funds' or export credits are being floated of drawing closer in our present relations with China."

Annabella, French movie star, as she arrived by Brazilian clipper at the International airport at Miami, Fla. She was returning from a South American trip, having arrived in Rio de Janeiro at the time Tyrone Power, American film star, visited the Brazilian capital.

Heads Of The Famous Reveal—

Roosevelt could not be a dictator: Low the cartoonist, would have done well in industry; and Sir Henry Wood might have been a painter.

These opinions, expressed by Mr. E. W. Cousins, Fellow of the British Phenological Society, in a lecture at Kingsway Hall, London, are based on his observation of the skulls of selected "men of the moment."

"Roosevelt," said Mr. Cousins, "could not be a dictator. His love of his fellows is too strongly developed, his outlook is so broad. Dictators have narrow minds. There is nothing cruel or relentless about his head."

GRACIE'S "FORTE" Of Low, he said: "He could administer, organise, plan, discipline. The organ which recognises incongruities and also the organ of individuality are strongly developed."

"The organ of caution is a little too pronounced. He is too apprehensive and hesitative. He goes through a purgatory of thought to produce his ideas."

Sir Henry Wood's head indicated to Mr. Cousins very strong social instincts, friendship and love of children.

Gracie Field's forte is "utter self-abandon in her job, exuberance of spirit and intensity of mental and physical force."

"Acquaintances makes her shrewd in business affairs," said Mr. Cousins.

Wrote To Court, "I'll Commit Suicide"

Frederick James Brodribb, described as a financier, failed to appear at his public examination at Kingston recently and the Official Receiver, Mr. C. Roy Waterer, read a letter which Brodribb had sent.

This was dated October 5 and postmarked London, November 13. Part of it read:

"In order to save you and myself a great deal of trouble and time, I have decided to commit suicide, and by the time you get this note I shall be dead."

"I have had several long talks with a few friends of mine who were killed in the last war, and they have assured me I can be with them and that it is nothing to worry about."

Mr. Waterer said he could not imagine that the threat had been carried out or something would have been heard about it.

The Registrar, Mr. J. Sackville Bell: It is hardly your duty to go round to the mortuaries to see if he is there.

It was stated that Brodribb had assessed his liabilities at £70,000. The case was adjourned sine die.

London.

Mr. F. H. Pennington, of the Brighton Telegraph Office, who gave the "Cease Fire" signal on the Western Front retired recently from the Post Office. As a telegraphist in the Corps of Signals he was at his post shortly before 11 o'clock on November 11, 1918, when an officer handed him a telegram announcing the Armistice, which he flashed to other parts of the line.

here, President Azana, the deputy ministers for foreign affairs are not among the refugees in Gerona.

The Foreign Minister, Senor
Alvarez Del Vayo, who was accom-
Tuesday night, and is expected to reach Gerona some time to-day.—

FRANCO'S LORRIES LOADED WITH FOOD

Paris, Jan. 25.
Thousands of lorries loaded with food are waiting near Barcelona to follow General Franco's troops into
the city, says a Burgos message.

Severe control is being exercised
to prevent a large influx of refugees
from other provinces, and only those
with special passes will be allowed
to enter the city. Only those with
to prevent a large influx of refugees relatives there will be allowed to stay.

As soon as possible, refugees will be sent to the provinces from where they have fled.

Civil guards will patrol the city,
and the people will be ordered to resume their jobs. The banks will open immediately, and the hospital
will receive fresh equipment.

The personnel of the Town Council has already been appointed on paper, which will take to work
immediately.—Reuter.

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
Supplies of gas, water and electric current have ceased in various parts
of Barcelona, according to refugees
arriving here from the Catalan
capital.

The roads from Barcelona to the French frontier are reported to be blocked by an incessant stream of motor cars, as well as all other kinds
of vehicles.

The railway service has been completely suspended.—Trans-Ocean.

LOYALISTS CUT OFF

St. Jean de Luz, Jan. 25.
Loyalist troops in the Pyrenees, in the neighbourhood of Sodegaur, are completely isolated from the south as a result of the insurgents' capture of Solsona, according to insurgent reports received here, which claim that
this assures the ultimate collapse of
the Catalan front in the Pyrenees.
General Yague's Moroccan troops
have now halted on the heights of Mont Juch, on the outskirts of Barcelona, awaiting the arrival of the Navarrese troops marching down
from Manresa along the River
Llobregat, via Tarrasa.

General Franco is pursuing the
same tactics as he followed at Bilbao, awaiting the general encirclement of the city before taking it, and thus avoiding street fighting.—Reuter.

CITY STARVING

Burgos, Jan. 25.
Insurgent troops, advancing on Barcelona to-day, strengthened their positions along the Llobregat River,
and after crossing the river, occupied Castellvital.

In the south, the Moroccans,
pushing along the coast, have reached
the Barcelona suburbs, while three other columns are advancing on
Hospital, Tarrasa and Sabadell.

Fugitives crossing over to the insurgents from Loyalist territory
this afternoon reported that the population of Barcelona is still estimated at more than 2,000,000, and they have had scarcely any food for
the last seven days.

All executive power in the Catalan
capital is now exclusively in the
command.—Trans-Ocean.

BRITISH EMBASSY STAFF DEPARTS

London, Jan. 25.
The British Charge d'Affaires to the Loyalist Government, Mr. Ralph Stevenson, together with the entire staff of the British Embassy, as well as a few British subjects who were still in the Catalan capital, left Barcelona this evening aboard the British cruiser Devonshire, for the French frontier town of Vendres.

Mr. Stevenson for the time being will stay on board the Devonshire, according to well-informed quarters.

The British cruiser Greyhound, after taking British subjects from Barcelona to Marseilles, has returned to Barcelona, waiting to take on board
Mr. D. J. Rogers, the British Consul-General, who will leave the capital immediately after its fall.—Trans-Ocean.

COMMONS TO DISCUSS SPAIN SITUATION

London, Jan. 25.
The position in Spain, and international affairs generally will be debated when the House of Commons re-assembles on January 31.
The business provisionally car-marked for the day has been postponed.—Reuter.

LAST TRAIN ARRIVES

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
The last train from Barcelona reached the frontier to-day carrying over 200 women and children, who had eaten nothing for two days.
Another train tried to leave
Barcelona this morning, but the line was so heavily bombed that it had to return.

While the refugee train was waiting at the frontier station, four Savola planes flew over. The refugees, who nerves shattered by days of starvation and strain, fled for the shelter of the darkened subway.

Insurgent aircraft was very active to-day flying all over the roads and railways, bombing and machine-gunning the congestions of traffic.

Crawlers with flaming milliamen are reported to be arriving at different points on the French coast, and being saturated by the gendarmes.—

Joy Ride Sequel In Court Martial

Signalman F. N. Gordon has been sentenced to 14 days detention and ordered to pay the costs of damage to two cars as a result of a Court Martial held last week.

Gordon pleaded guilty to improperly taking and using two Austin cars of the Hongkong Signal Company on New Year's Day and causing damage to them estimated at £5. 6s.
8d. and £45 13s. 0d. respectively, besides losing various tools.

Accused said he went for a joy ride in the course of which he collided with a post and damaged the first car. Afterwards he took another car and picked up two privates of the Royal Scots and took them to Stanley, the car overturning on the way.

A.D.C. Producing Another Play

The Hongkong A.D.C. announce that they have decided to present
"The Shining Hour" at the China
Pier Club on March 22, 23, 24 and 25. The cast has not yet been decided.

The "Telegraph" understands that casting difficulties, coupled with the sudden illness of one of the players already chosen, was responsible for the decision not to proceed with the intention to produce "I Killed the Count," which was to have been shown early next month.

Tokyo, Jan. 25.
In connection with the return of the Japanese Ambassador, Mr.
Sugimura from Paris, the "Kokumin Shimbun" claims to know that the appointment of a new Ambassador to France is not at present under consideration.

The paper adds that owing to the continuous support of Chiang Kai-shek by France, and to the anti-
Japanese attitude of the French Government, Franco-Japanese relations cannot be described as normal.

Troops Guard New Lancashire Works

London, Jan. 25.
A detachment of troops arrived at Euxton, near Chorley in Lancashire to-day, to help factory police guard
the £6,000,000 Government munitions
factory which is now completed
there.

An official denied that there was any truth in the rumours of trouble
between the Irish employees. He said that new production was beginning it was necessary to patrol the
numerous entrances.—Reuter.

Trans-Jordan Affairs Discussed

London, Jan. 25.
Teufic Pasha about El Houda, chief Minister of Trans-Jordan, and "Trans-jordanian representative for the Palestine discussions" paid a further visit to Mr. Malcolm Macdonald at the Colonial Office this afternoon. The conversation turned on the internal affairs of Trans-Jordan and its relation with the British Government.—British Wire-

China Arms Case

CORRIGAN TELLS OF SHIPMENT OF "WAR" MATERIALS

LONDON, Jan. 25.

HIGH-SPOT OF the Old Bailey trial to-day, in which three men, Frederick Willing, 50, a Dutch subject and metal merchant of Tavistock Court, Tavistock Square, Bloomsbury, Denis Michael Corrigan, 46, agent, of Park-lane, W., and James Oll Herbert Willing, 24, metal merchant of Dorset House, are charged with conspiracy by which to defraud a well-known Paris firm of armament makers of £7,250, was the evidence of Corrigan.

Corrigan, in the witness box, said that a Captain John Ball introduced him to Shu, described in the earlier court hearings as the "Chinese mystery man," who was also said to have been connected with the Chinese Embassy in London, saying that Shu was in a position to place contracts for armaments and aeroplanes.

He was told that Shu was related to Dr. H. H. Kung, and that his wife was related to Madame Chiang Kai-shek. He had no reason to believe that Shu was not officially connected with the Chinese Government and Embassy.

"IN GRAVE DANGER"

Corrigan continuing, said that he arranged a shipment of Shu's request. Sometime afterwards Shu told him that the Ambassador had asked for "Hoochow" (permits). He said that certain cables had been sent to China, and he was in grave danger, not only of losing his job, but of going back to China and facing a charge.

"He said that he could not get the 'Hoochow' back from France, and that an attempt was being made to alter it for the purpose of getting this consignment of guns out of Marseilles. He also said that he had heard the goods were going to Spain instead of to China. He then said he would send a dummy cargo."

There was no intention whatever to defraud Lafitte, added Corrigan.

FIND A BUYER

Shu told him (Corrigan) that he had some guns and ammunition for sale and he asked him if he could find a buyer. He was not financially concerned in the contract, but he would have received the usual commission from Shu or Willing for the introduction of Shu to Willing. His usual commission was between two and a half and ten per cent. for such an introduction.

Shu told him later that he had sold some guns and ammunition to Willing, and that he was receiving £2,250. Shu asked him to collect the money and to bring it to him.

Willing paid him £5,025 saying to Shu that there was a reduction for expenses. He gave the money to Shu and reminded Shu that he owed him £2,000 or £2,300 on the "Hoochow" transactions.

Shu gave him £1,300.

ARMS IN BELGIUM

Counsel (to Corrigan): Were you told anything of the whereabouts of the actual guns and ammunition?

Shu said that they were at Captain Ball's place in Belgium.

Corrigan said that he paid about £350 in connection with the shipment of the dummy cargo. He expected the money back from Shu, but he never got it.

Shu told him that he distrusted the Willings, and he thought they were working with Lafitte with regard to the "Hoochow." That was why Shu told him not to tell the Willings about the dummy cargo.

Asked by Counsel whether he trusted Captain Ball, Corrigan replied that he had no reason to distrust him. "He was a very clever man. He may have had his own axe to grind somewhere."

Corrigan added that he thought the Willings had had a raw deal on account of Shu's suspicions, thus he paid them back £3,000.

The case was adjourned.—Reuter.

Paris, Jan. 25.

M. Edouard Daladier presided at a meeting of the permanent committee for National Defence, attended by Ministers of the Navy and Air, and the chiefs of staff of the forces.

COULD YOU STAND DRIED CODFISH AT EVERY MEAL?

For my part I prefer aerial bombardment to shelling. Bombing does not last so long. The Madrid people hold a different view. If a Madrid person decides to visit Barcelona every effort will be made to stop him. "Barcelona is dangerous, you must not go there. It is bombarded from the air".

Madrid is badly damaged. The veteran survivor is the telephone building. That is nearing its second century of shell hits.

MADRID people take the shelling calmly. Once they used to watch the shelling from the streets and bet on which house the shells would hit. Now too many casualties have been suffered, so the majority take to their cellars.

One night I visited the trenches in the University City accompanied by a priest. A major who had been a metal worker before the war showed us round. The priest, to my surprise, was well received by both officers and men. Our visit was short, for the officer, while showing us the trenches, was reminded by telephone that the deadline he had set for the explosion of a mine under the enemy was but ten minutes hence.

The activity upon this sector is reduced to mining and counter-mining. The trench system in the University City is so strong that I believe it to be nearly impregnable.

This also applies to the Ebro front. The original advance, in July, across the river was made by the Government to relieve pressure on Valencia. Now, according to plan, the Government forces are withdrawing to their well-prepared lines behind the river.

The only weakness in Madrid's defences is the shortage of food. While the military are well fed the civilians have been existing on a daily ration of bread and dried codfish by the name of bakelou. Beans are also produced.

DOCTORS say that the codfish has reduced the number of cases of indigestion. For my part indigestion is way ahead of bakelou. While I was in Madrid I could not stomach the bakelou, so I used to trade my portion of bakelou for more bread. My lunch and dinner diet for five days was a hunk of bread and half a bottle of the remaining supply of the Ritz Hotel champagne.

There are also complaints by the Madrid women that they lack both lipstick and powder. Much resentment is felt against the Barcelona women, who have plenty of these commodities.

Back by airplane to Barcelona was the method of my return. The woman in charge of the censor's office saw me off, with these words: "Please when you get back to England do not vote for Mr. Chamberlain, because his policy of non-intervention means that my four-year-old child is under-nourished in Madrid."

evacuation of Barcelona by the Loyalist troops and officials, with special reference to the position of the political prisoners in that city who are estimated to number about 2,000. Mr. Stevenson was given the assurance that every possible measure would be taken to ensure the maintenance of order and the safety of the prisoners.

The personnel of the British Minister's staff who are remaining in Barcelona for the time being has been reduced to a minimum.—Trans-Ocean.

The intense cold, which has already lasted for a fortnight, is increasing the hardships of the coal strike among the poor. Strange scenes are being witnessed. Grenadier Guards and medical students carting coal from the depots for the barracks and hospitals.

The industrial outlook is gloomy. A builders' lock-out began in the afternoon, but the number idle will not be known till Monday. Probably 150,000 will be out on strike in the course of the week.

The military and police have protected the coal vans for the hospitals, while the football teams in jerseys and "shorts" are shifting coal for the hospitals, for which the strikers have refused to grant permits.

Mr. Lee Temple, the first English aviator to fly upside down, was killed while doing a spiral dip at Hendon.

The Daily Chronicle says that after the most thorough pruning the minimum figure for the naval estimates will be £53,000,000, and new taxation is inevitable.

Members of the Cabinet think that after 1914 the naval expenditure will tend to decline, but the journal named says there is no very hopeful prospect thereof, as meanwhile, none other Department will be starved for the sake of the Navy.

Kowloon met Staff and Departments at Happy Valley in the Second League on Saturday the result being a win for Kowloon.

CHINESE CUSTOMS

Figures for Last Year Show Decrease

Shanghai, Jan. 25.
The report of the Chinese Maritime Customs for 1938, which has just been published shows that imports were £886,000,000 compared with $953,000,000 in 1937. Exports amounted to $762,000,000 compared with $938,000,000.

The figures do not include the National Government's imports since early last summer or Japanese imports of military supplies.

Of the Chinese ports, Tientsin suffered the largest decrease of imports, and export figures showed the greatest decline in Shanghai and Tientsin. Tientsin likewise suffered a considerable decrease in foreign trade.

The National Government controlled Customs stations cleared 23 per cent. of China's total exports, but only rather less than 10 per cent. of the imports.

Shanghai maintained first place among the ports, clearing 45 per cent. foreign trade. Tientsin and Tientsin ranked second and third respectively.

Imports decreased in practically all classes of commodities, and in exports the most marked decline took place in the volume of textile fibres and piecegoods.—Trans-Ocean.

Barcelona's Death

FRANCO'S Italian vanguard enters Barcelona and another Loyalist city is about to fall prey to foreign mercenaries.

To-day, the Insurgent holds all but Madrid of the great cities of Spain.

Granada, Seville, Cadiz, Salamanca, Burgos, Saragossa, Toledo, Malaga, Valladolid, Bilbao, San Sebastian and Oviedo have successively fallen to superior weight.

It has been superabundance of Italian and German war materials against a shortage rendered almost criminal by a one-sided non-intervention policy; a superiority of Italian mercenaries and Moorish troops, with a minority of Spaniards, against a spatter of international mercenaries, now withdrawn, and a superiority of Spaniards.

Barcelona has been truly Loyalist since the outbreak of the Civil War. The Insurrection there on July 19, 1936, lasted only ten minutes and was crushed by overwhelming odds loyal to the Government.

Barcelona became Spain's capital in October, 1936, when Madrid seemed likely to fall. Since then, the Insurgents have bombed it with grim regularity. On most days, the city's two million people have calmly sought shelter in the 1,500 bomb-proof shelters that have been built to save them from death from the sky.

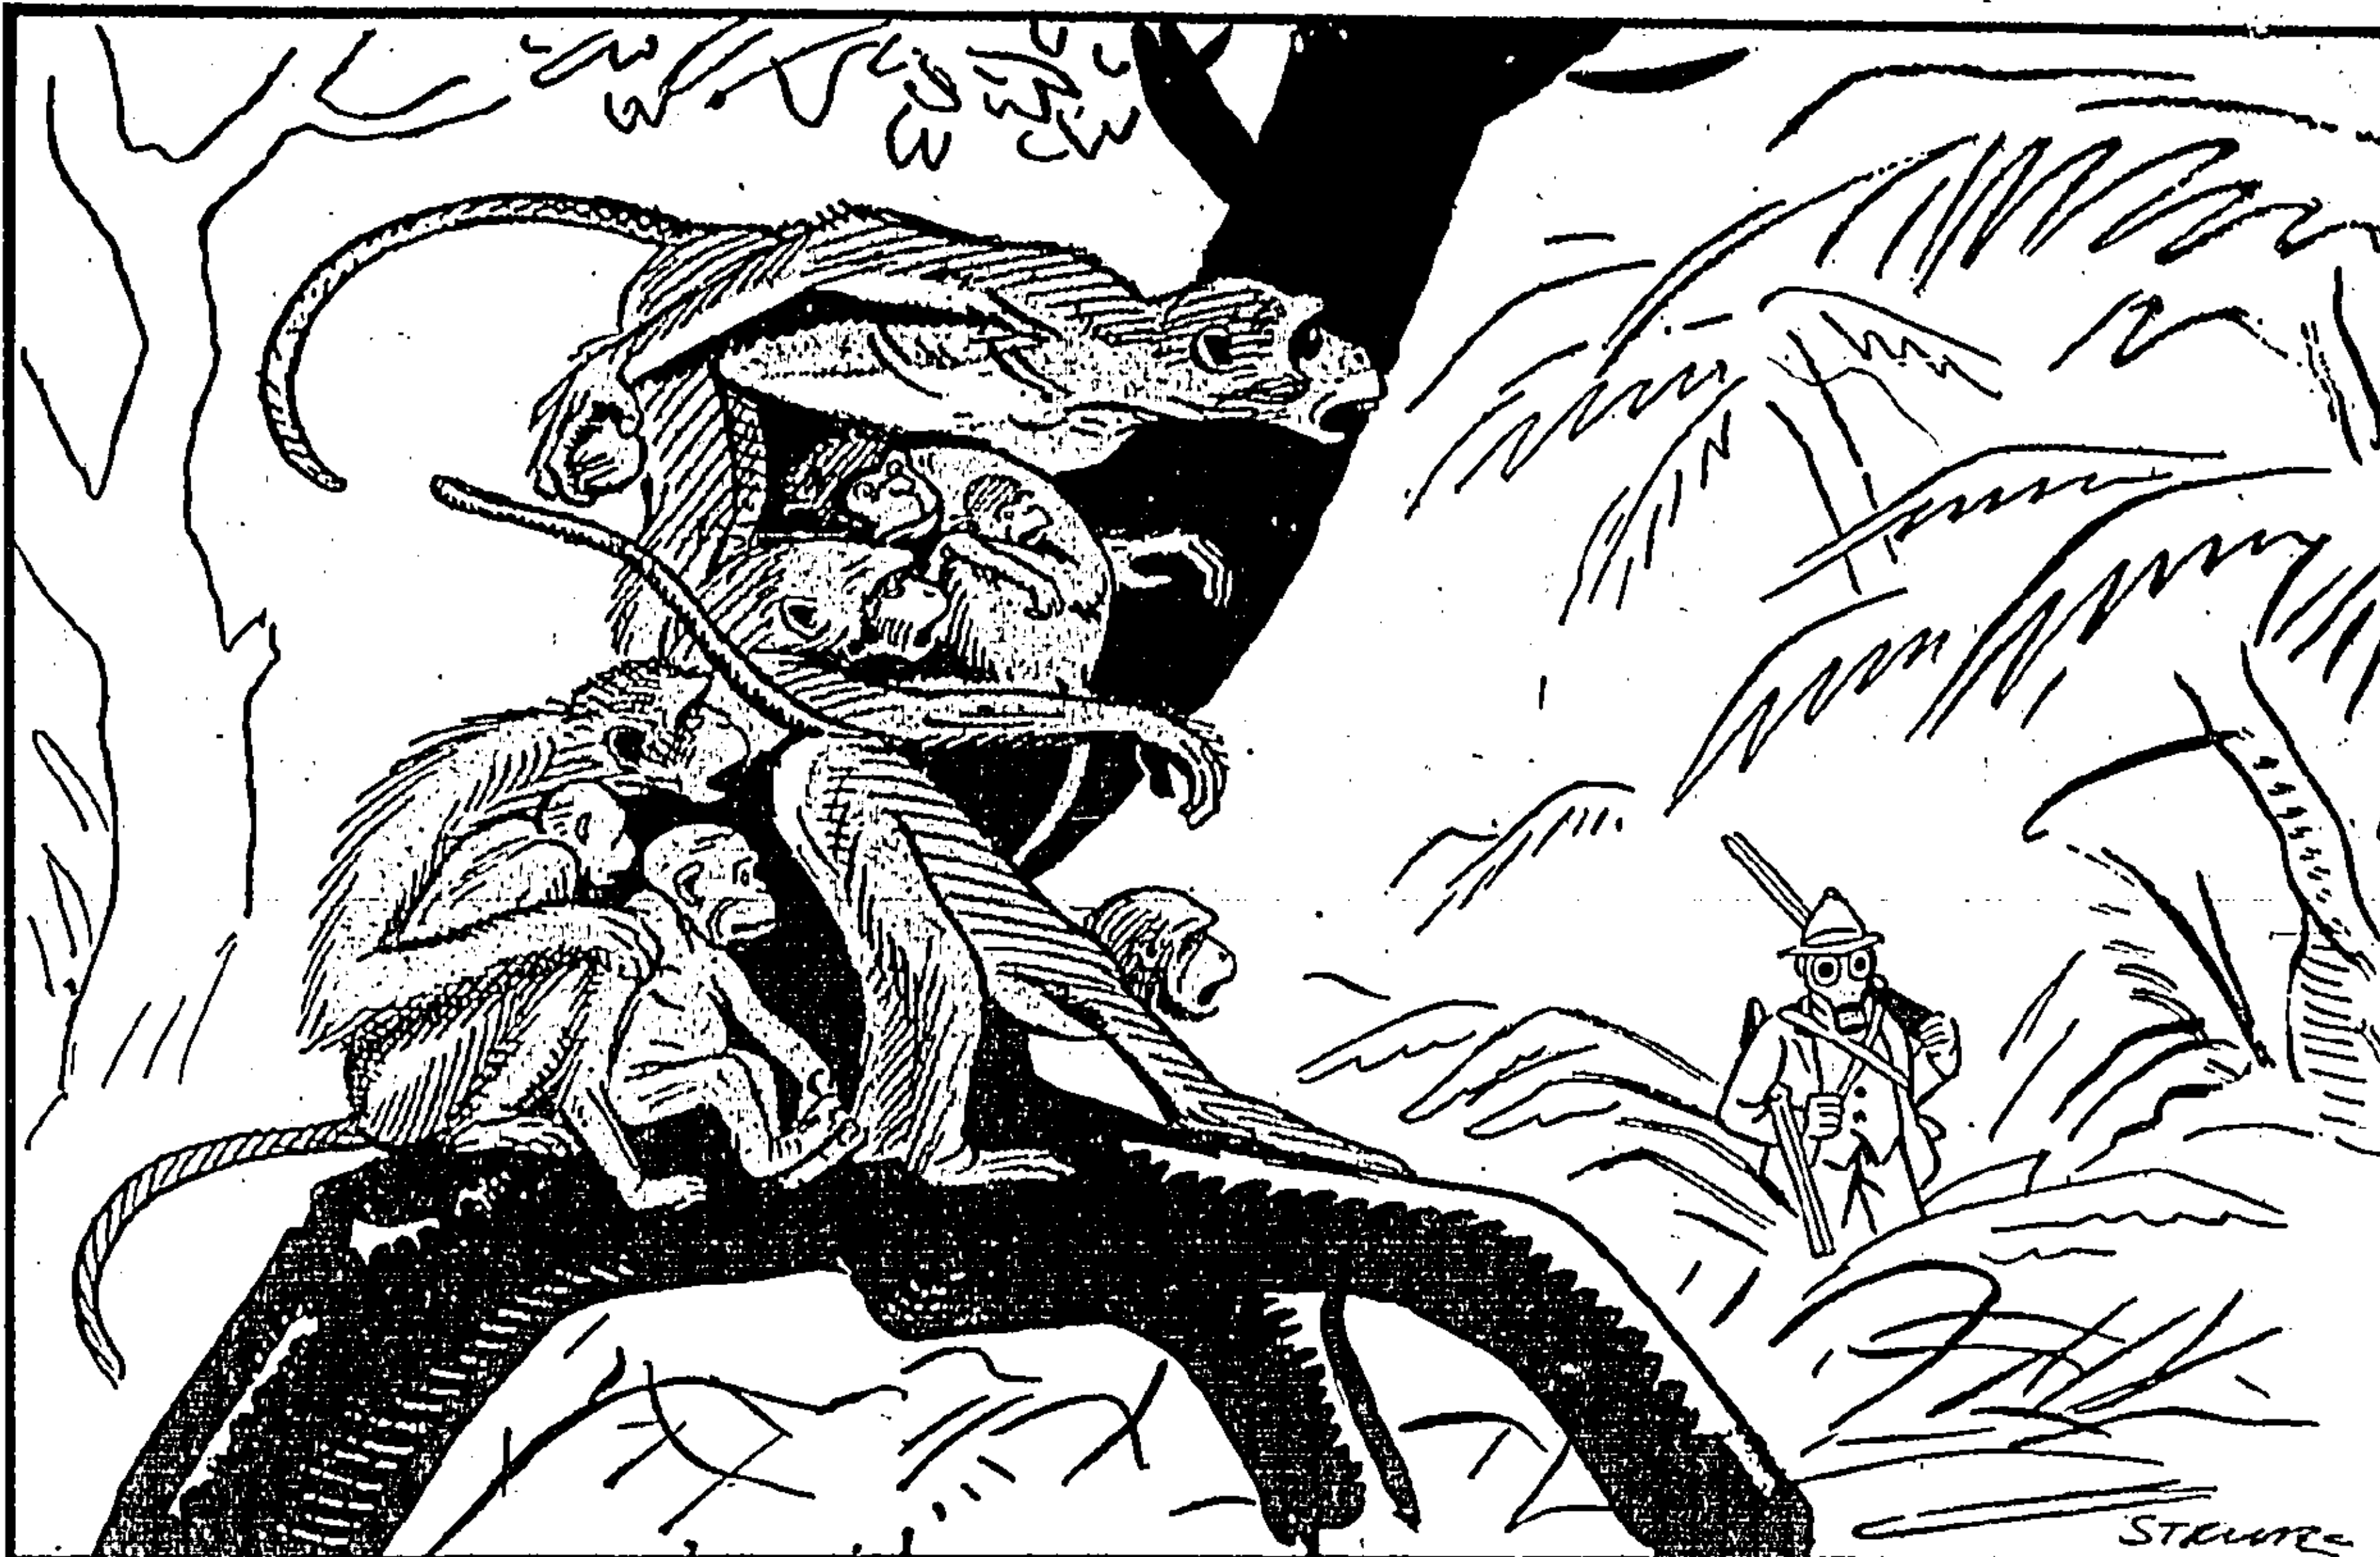

Fall Spells Danger

BARCELONA'S fall will spell danger to Europe. France may end the non-intervention farce and pour materials and men to aid Loyalist defences starved by that policy. What justification would there be for such action. None—no more justification than there is for Italian and German interference.

But proponents of intervention argue, with justice, that the criminal danger to the peace of Europe caused by intervention in the Spanish civil war has been brought about, not by threats of French intervention, but by the actuality of Italian and German interference.

Had the totalitarians let Spain fight her own battles, or had they honoured their pledge of non-intervention, the question of intervention on the side of the Loyalists would certainly not have arisen now.

Spain becomes another Czechoslovakia. Democracy, to avoid war, must again let the totalitarians ride rough-shod over liberty.

LORD FORBES

AS the wheels of the Air France liner touched down on Barcelona's airport I wondered what kind of four days I was to spend in Government Spain.

If it is anything like insurgent propaganda would have us believe, then a visit of four days will be all too long. Well, your correspondent stayed fourteen days with no complaints.

He searched for the disorder, the murders, and the vandalism that the insurgents accuse the Spanish Government of. He found none. In Barcelona life appeared to be going on more or less undisturbed by the war. In the streets both men and women looked well dressed.

Law and order was everywhere enforced. Even at night, when there are no street lights for fear of air raids, there are no hold-ups. In the dark I walked from one end of Barcelona to the other. Not once was I molested.

The chief discomfort in Barcelona life is the lack of food. Lunch and dinner in the best hotel consist of beans, a piece of fish, or a tiny morsel of meat if you are very lucky, some figs, and a small ration of bread.

Fish is generally served after the bombardment of the port by the insurgents. The bombs exploding in the water kill the fish. These at once float to the top, and the local fishermen have an easy catch.

In Barcelona there is plenty of money, but nothing to buy with it. The Government maintain a rate of 100 pesetas to the pound, while in France 1,000 pesetas can be purchased for a pound. Workmen and Government officials are well paid.

THE Government of Dr. Negrin is of a Radical Socialist character. It is certainly not Red. An English National Government in time of war would differ little from Negrin's Administration.

His Government has the support of the more extreme elements. They realise that now it is no longer the moment for politics, but to get together and win

the war. This represents the spirit of Government Spain.

The Englishman in Spain is constantly asked one question in the politest way: "Will you please explain to us the English policy of non-intervention?" The Spaniards bitterly resent this law. They are puzzled by the apparent injustice of the policy.

There is no answer to be given. At once if an attempt at justification is made—"Look at the Italian planes that bombed us this morning. Yesterday we captured a German sergeant pilot. He told us that he had been ordered to come here by his Government. We are not allowed even to buy arms, although we are willing to pay. If we lose the war, it will be on England's head."

AFTER a week spent in Barcelona I flew to Madrid. I found Madrid reminding me of the grim days of two years ago, when it seemed certain that Franco and his Moors would enter the city. Mothers recollected their fears that the Moors would kill their children.

Comparisons are heard of the militia army of yesterday and the Republican army of to-day. In the early days of the war, two years ago, the defence of the city was in the hands of the trade unions and the ill-trained militia. Disorder was rife. It was as likely as not that your own side would shoot you by mistake.

Murders which in fact were based on personal hate were made in the name of the Republic. It was a hardy man who ventured into the streets in the early days of the war, especially after dark.

The trenches on the Madrid front were amateurish affairs. They were not deep enough to provide adequate cover. The army had no officers.

To-day in Madrid there is law and order. The Government are strong. The offender against the law is punished. The streets are clean. Life goes on as normally as possible under siege conditions. The shops are open, the tramways run. Wherever it has been possible the Government have attempted to restore the results of vandalism done in the early days of the war.

They are also taking steps to preserve the statues of the city against shelling and bombardment. Even the statue of the ex-King's father has been provided with an air raid shelter. There is no wanton wreckage going on now in this city. This war is too severe for anything but a constructive regime.

While in Madrid I stayed at the Ritz Hotel. This was once a hospital, but has now been returned to its former owners. My room possessed all Ritz Hotel dignity except glass in the windows and hot water in the bathroom. An inspection of the facade outside my window indicated the reason for the lack of glass.

THE night of my arrival in the nation's capital the insurgents presented us with a two-hour shell session. Shells fell over a large area of the city. Most of them were directed at Madrid's Oxford-street, the Gran Via, now known as the Street of Death. The shelling of Madrid has no military significance. It is directed purely at civil population.

In Memory of Burns

Countrymen Gather To Pay Homage To Scotland's Poet

Common esteem for the imperishable verse of Scotaman Robert Burns brought 245 men together in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel last night. The occasion was the annual dinner in celebration of the great poet's birth.

The conviviality of the occasion demonstrated how strong a link between Scotsmen—in fact, between all true verse lovers—this love of Burns has become. The programme of the evening very fittingly bore this printed protest:

Wha says that Robbie Burns is dead?

Wha says he lies below the weed,

A pickle stoor, baith heart and held,

This hummer year?

Deil blast the loons! but they hae lee'd,

For Robin's here.

The fare was Scotch and simple—though no humble Scotch cottage ever saw such luxurious service. "Scotch Broth" led up to "Herrin" and "Tatties." Then followed the "Haggis," ceremoniously played in, and next came "Honest John" and "Black and White." "Apple Dumpling" rounded off the dinner and the evening became lively "Wi' merry sangs an' friendly cracks" in which all gladly joined.

The Immortal Memory

The toast of the "Immortal Memory of Robert Burns" was proposed by the Colonial Secretary, Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith. He said: "Having heard this toast proposed last year and the year before by two successive Governors, I feel rather overawed by the gravity of the task that has been imposed upon me to-night. I must confess, however, that I accepted the Chief Clerk's invitation without much hesitation as I admit that I have been for the best part of my life something of a Burns 'fan.' By this I do not mean to suggest that I have read all his poems, and I frequently stall my engine over his broader examples of the Doric. But in my schooldays I came under the influence of Thomas Carlyle's little book about 'Heroes and Hero-worship' and so naturally grew up with something like an ingrained belief that Robert Burns has certain claims to be included among the world's great men.

Now you may say that a person who was born and bred, as Carlyle was, in a place called Ecclefechan would be liable to a certain amount of racial prejudice or even local prejudice. But this is not at all borne out by the other names in his list of 'Heroes'—Cromwell and Napoleon, Martin Luther and John Knox, Dante and Shakespeare and Samuel Johnson—in addition, of course, to Robert Burns himself. And one is at once impelled to ask on what grounds could it be right to select this Scottish peasant for a place in such a team of stars. I suppose it would at first sight seem paradoxical to apply the word 'lucky' to a man who was born to grinding poverty and hard manual toil; who suffered all his life from grievous ill-health; who spent his days dodging creditors and duns and bailiffs; and who finally died quite some time before his fortieth birthday. But I think it is justifiable to say that in certain respects Burns was lucky—or perhaps it would be more proper to say that the world was lucky in certain of Burns' circumstances.

In the first place it was lucky that Burns flourished in that is the appropriate word right on the crest of that amazing tidal wave that we call the "New Romance" which started, I suppose, with Rousseau and a few others and swept clean through Europe in the last years of the eighteenth century. In literature, in music, and above all in politics men for some reason suddenly started to throw out their chests and breathe the pure air of reality and simplicity and sincerity after centuries of imprisonment in the chains of the classical tradition.

Contrast with Dryden

Take a simple process like falling in love. Here is how Dryden, only a few years earlier, would manage it:

"I attempt from love's sickness to fly in vain.
Since I am myself my own fever and pain."
Very beautiful and very elegant, no doubt; but about as passionate as a cross-word puzzle.

Burns on the other hand very wisely starts by falling violently in love, and then when he can restrain himself no longer he bursts out: "As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in love am I,
And I will love thee still, my dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry,
Till a' the rocks gang dry,
And the sands of life shall run.
And I will love thee still, my dear,
While the sands of life shall run.
It is true that he did not always wait for the rocks to melt before transferring his eternal devotion to some other bonnie lass, but one can have little doubt that when he wrote those lines he meant and felt every word of them.

It was Wordsworth who said that the best poetry should consist of "emotion recollected in tranquillity" and it was, I think, just in this respect that Burns and the other Romantics blazed a completely new trail.

Secondly Burns was lucky in being brought up in what was, until the days of wireless and cheap newspapers, probably the most cultured peasantry that the world has ever seen. We may laugh at their interminable disputations about predestination and free-will and so forth; but we should not do well, I think, to laugh at that picture of low living and high thinking which is portrayed in the "Cottar's Saturday Night."

There is a true story which illustrates this point. The old schoolmaster who had taught Robbie and was a good friend of the family was enabled near the end of his life to visit London in order to meet the intellectuals of that city. Now if you know your Boswell you will realise that there was some good conversation in London about then—Goldsmith and Burke and Garrick and Adam Smith and Reynolds and the rest, besides Johnson and Boswell themselves. It is not recorded which of any of these intellectual giants the old dominie met; but it is recorded that when he got back to his Lowland home he gave his considered opinion that London had nothing to offer compared with the talk that he had for years been hearing in the Burns farmhouse.

It is to be wondered at that the outstanding figure of such a peasantry, when his ploughshare turned up a field-mouse, instead of letting out an "explosive like an ordinary yokel, should go home and immortalize that 'seekit beastie' in lines that have rung through the civilized world?

Silence and Solitude
And that leads me to the third point in which I think Burns was lucky—I mean his early employment. Joseph Conrad in one of his novels talks of the effect on a man's mind of living in a sailing ship—"the inestimable benefits of silence and solitude" are his words; and I should think that ploughing in a field on an early spring morning is the nearest equivalent that the dry land can offer in the way of silence and solitude. It is an undoubted fact that many of Burns' early poems were composed actually at the tail of the plough, and throughout his life we can surely see the traces of that early apprenticeship.

You all know his weaknesses. He drank too much, especially towards the end of his life. He let his head be turned too easily by his sudden rise to fame. And he no more attempted to resist any of the "lassies" or than he tried to interfere with the green growth of the "rashes."

I am tempted to quote what another poet wrote about yet another poet: "Such stains there are—as when a Grace
Sprinkles another's laughing face Withectar and runs on."
Very improper, to splash another lady's face—but after all she was a Grace, and after all it was nectar. So, may one not say—after all it was Robbie Burns, and after all we did get the nectar of those heavenly love-songs of his?

It is not altogether easy at this distance of time to understand the reasons for the immense and immediate "rage" for Burns and his poems. I have suggested that his sincerity and his simplicity and his hatred of hypocrisy were something quite new in those days. Those Duchesses in Edinburgh had never come across just that sort of ploughman before and they naturally tumbled like ninopins. And at the other end of the social scale there is an interesting sidelight in a chance remark made by Lockhart, the biographer of Scott, who says that when Burns on his travels came to an inn at night it was usual for even the waiters and ostlers to jump out of bed and dress hurriedly so as to miss nothing of his wonderful conversation.

Well we are used to something of this sort nowadays—not so much poets as film-stars and aviators and the like. But how are we to explain a personality which manages to survive even after death?

Personally Survives
If you go to certain obscure club-houses in Scotland you will still find preserved there a creak or a putter or even a ball that has had the privilege of being used by another young Scot who died too soon. Freddie Tait was not the greatest golfer of all time any more than Robbie Burns was the greatest poet of all time, but they both seem to have had that little something that lasts beyond the grave. It is barely 40 years since Freddie Tait was killed in South Africa, and Robbie Burns is already about a hundred years ahead of that.

"Immortal" is a big word to use, but I have personally little doubt that a century hence, unless some totalitarian has meanwhile put all persons of Scottish race into international camps, men will still be gathering all over the world as we are to-night to celebrate this twenty-fifth of January. And that is about as far ahead as most of us dare to look these days.

Gentlemen, I give you the Immortal Memory of Robert Burns.

Toast of "The Lassies"

In a refreshing speech that was often interrupted by delighted laughter, Mr. H. L. Mackenzie proposed the toast of "The Lassies." He began with the quotation:

"Auld Nature swears the lovely dears."

Her noblest word she classes, o'

Her 'prentice hand she tried on man

And then she made the Lassies, o'

These may be hackneyed lines, but, nevertheless, has ever a finer compliment been paid to womanhood?

"Her 'prentice hand she tried on man"

And then she made the Lassies, o'

That, however, is only one of the many compliments which Burns paid to women. And the great charm of these compliments, as indeed of all Burns' poetry, is their simplicity.

The poet Browning on being asked to interpret a difficult passage in one of his poems said: "When I wrote that, only myself and God knew what it meant. Now, God only knows." But the compliments of Burns to the Lassies are unlike this: they are simple and sincere.

Indeed Burns is the only national poet who never maligned women. Take a glance at the opinions on women from other national representatives. "Frailty, thy name is woman," said Shakespeare; and again: "God hath given you one face and man will give you another." From Russia we have Tolstoy's pronouncement: "Women are a necessary unpleasantness in social life."

The Spanish poet says: "Woman's chief weapon is her tongue; therefore she takes good care that it doesn't rust."

But why pursue this unsavoury opinion of mankind? Surely it is to say that Burns' native Scottish gallantry made it impossible for him to think of woman in those cynical terms.

For Burns owes as much to the lassies, as they owe to him. It is undeniable that the best of Burns' poetry could not have been written if "twere not for the lassies, o'."

He knew all kinds the lovely Mary Morrison, the cultured Clarinda the delicate Highland Mary, and the honest Jean Armour. He knew also:

"The sulky, sullen dame,
Gathering her brows like gathering storm,
Nursing her wrath to keep it warm;
And who could bully her husband so that

"He must to her his dear friends' secrets tell,
And dreads a certain lecture worse than hell."

"The Lassies" in History

So it is but fitting to remember the lassies on occasions such as this, and as a Burns supper assumes a national character, it is also fitting to remember the part which "The Lassies" have played in Scottish History.

We are all acquainted with Deldre Catherine "Bonnie Mary, Queen of Scots, and Flora MacDonald. But what of the Lassies that remain "unwept, unhonoured, and unsung?"

There is, for example, the immortal Jenny Geddes who flung a stool at the minister in St. Giles Cathedral, and thus set ablaze the smouldering Scottish discontent at English religious interference. Now, Jenny has never been given her due. Indeed, some have tried to rob the lassies of the reflected glory by declaring that Jenny was a man in woman's clothing.

That theory, however, is argument derided by the irrefutable fact that Jenny was a woman. The man the stool would have hit, and not missed, the minister. On the other hand, it is urged that the officiating clergyman was a married man, and thus an expert through long practice in avoiding missiles.

But the flower of all Scottish heroines "the Star that shines above them all" remains anonymous. She led no armies, and won no wars. But "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war" and this lassie's victory was indeed a most peaceful one. Yet she did what all the intelligentists of London dared not do. She answered back the great Dr. Johnson, and "mildly dicty" left him without a word to say. The famous lexicographer had arrived in Scotland full of his anti-Scottish prejudice. (You know the sort of things: "Much may be made of a Scotsman—if he be caught young.") At his first breakfast over the border he was served with good old Scottish parritch—a dish, as you know, in those days not known in England. The guildwife of the house rather kindly enquired how he had liked it, and Johnson, with characteristic politeness, replied: "Good enough for the dogs." Softly, yet instantly, came the answer: "Then, sir, let me give you some more."

And so it is with a deep sense of gratitude to the lassies for what they have done for Scotland and for Burns that I ask you all to be upstanding and drink to the health of "the Lassies."

"We've faults and failings—granted clearly,
We're frail, backsliding mortals
Fretful—lonnie squad, priests wyte them sheerly,
For our grand fa'
But still, but still, I love them dearly
God bless them a'!"

Mr. J. Moodie made an able response on behalf of "The Lassies."

WATER CUT OFF

Landlord's Action When Tenants Do Not Pay

Said to be the first summons of its kind taken out since the issue of the recent emergency regulations for the control of water in the Colony, a summons was brought against Li Shiu-fai, of 57 Robinson Road, before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for causing or permitting to be altered, a service connected to the Waterworks, at No. 24 Russell Street, Wanchai.

Mr. A. I. Cash, Waterworks overseer, said that towards the end of last year, the majority of landlords in the Colony were informed by the Water Authority that they would be responsible for the water supply in their houses. The defendant, landlord of No. 24 Russell Street, was so informed, and he in turn notified his tenants that they were responsible for the water, the used. He also demanded $5 from the tenant of each floor as a charge for the water supply. The tenants refused to pay this, and defendant accordingly hired a street plumber and instructed the man to cut a section of the water pipe and thus disconnect the water supply to the flats. He had no authority to do this.

The defendant was fined $100.

NUISANCE CREATED

Water Supply to Upper Storeys Impeded

Mr. H. H. Rose, an overseer of the Water Office, P.W.D., was the complainant in a case before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfarlane at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, when Ho Pong-tung, of 232 Shanghai Street, was fined $25 on a summons for having permitted the inside water services of his premises to be altered without the approval of the Water Authority, on December 25.

Mr. Rose stated that in consequence of complaints from tenants of the upper storeys of the premises, he visited the defendant's floor on January 3 and found that two stop-cocks had been fitted to the water pipes in such a manner as to impede the water from running to the floors above.

The magistrate remarked that the offence was more in the nature of a nuisance to the occupiers of the other floors. Mr. Rose agreed, and said that the P.W.D. had also been given some inconvenience, for as a result of the reports they had to send workmen to the premises and thus much time had been wasted. The matter had now been rectified.

In imposing the fine, the magistrate said that he could fine defendant anything up to $250, which was the maximum penalty.

CLOTHES LINE AERIAL

Fine Imposed for Having Unlicensed Radio

A fine of $10 was imposed on a woman, Lam Mui, of 15 Lan Kwai Fong, by Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for being in possession of a radio set without a licence. She pleaded guilty, and said the set had been given her by a man who had left the Colony.

Mr. J. Key, Inspector of Wireless, said that the set was found on information received. A clothes line on the roof was used as an aerial, and was so cleverly disguised that it was difficult to detect. No owner for the set could be found, so a summons was taken out against the principal tenant, in this case the defendant.

The woman, he added, took out a licence for the set a few days after its discovery, but there was reason to believe that the set did not belong to her but to someone who had used her name to take out the licence.

An application for confiscation of the set was not granted.

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

The lecture entitled "A Short Outline of Buddhism," scheduled to be delivered to-day by the Ven. Bhadda Choe Hoi, has been cancelled owing to the lecturer's unavoidable departure from Hongkong. Instead, the Manuk Lodge of the Theosophical Society will hold a social tea and question and answer meeting, to which all friends of the Lodge are welcome.

THOUSANDS KILLED IN 'QUAKE

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 24.
A strong earthquake hit Santiago to-day. The epicentre is reported to have been between Copihue and North Hemuco. The shock was strong at Talca, north of Copihue.

It is reported that some houses collapsed at Valparaiso and Curico, terrorising the inhabitants who gathered at the Plaza Victoria while the Cathedral lower hung dangerously with pieces of masonry falling into the streets.

Many windows in the business centre were broken and communication with Santiago was stopped.—United Press.

Two Thousand Dead

Santiago de Chile, Jan. 25.
A radio report from an amateur at Concepcion, intercepted here, estimates that 2,000 are dead in the city and at least 40 per cent. of homes destroyed.

The Minister of the Interior announces that a state of siege has been proclaimed at Talcahuano where 14 are said to be dead, including four ratings from the naval base, and 67 wounded, while one-quarter of the town has been destroyed.

Government reports indicate that at least 100 persons are known to be dead. Many communities have not been heard from. Government departments worked all night trying to establish the casualties and damage and organise relief measures.

Reports which have filtered by means of radio indicate many wounded and heavy property damage including the razing of several towns. It was the strongest earthquake felt in recent years. The centre of it was in a region extending south from Talca to Traiguen and west from Cordillera to the coastal city of Concepcion.

The Chile Telephone Company reports that the towns of Angol, Parí, Pichahueque and Traiguen were seriously damaged.

Fires are raging in Concepcion, Chile's third largest city with more than 77,000 inhabitants, and the naval base of Talcahuano four miles north.

Talca reported that eight dead were carried into the morgue including a 64-year-old woman who died in hospital. It is also unconfirmedly reported that when the walls of Talca gasol collapsed, the prisoners escaped and the guards opened fire, killing 10.

There were three strong tremors. The first lasting three minutes began at 11.30 p.m. and the others were of shorter duration. It is feared that the death toll may be large owing to the late hour when most people in the stricken area were sleeping.—United Press.

EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

Tokyo, Jan. 25.
Fairly strong earthquake shocks were experienced over a wide area in the north-eastern and eastern districts of Japan proper at 1.02 p.m. on Tuesday.

The tremors were strong enough in Fukushima and Ibaraki Prefectures to stop clocks and send frightened people out of doors. No casualties are reported yet.

The epicentre is described as being at a point about 30 kilometres off the eastern coast of Fukushima Prefecture in the Pacific.—Domei.

"Pilgrim" Says—

IMPORTANCE OF
ABUSED BY EXPONENTSNavy Still Unable To Get GoingBeaten By Club In Triangular Tourney

(By "The Pilgrim").

The Royal Navy are still unable to touch the vein of success and again suffered defeat yesterday in the Triangular Hockey Tournament, losing to the Club at King's Park by 4-3. They provided the officials with their second win in the Tournament.

It was a hard and fast game, and though the Navy made a fight of it, the finer phases of combination always came from the Club attack where S. Fowler, T. Whitley and B. I. Dickford were in the limelight.

Ten minutes after the start, Withworth sent Woods through to score for an early lead for the Navy, but eleven minutes later, during an inspired Club attack, Dickford equalized with a grand goal.

The Club attack maintained the pressure and though the Navy halves were in the fettle, especially Fifth, the pivot, further goals were added through S. Fowler and Pontius. Club did most of the attacking at this stage and kept their 3-1 lead up to the interval.

In the second half, Navy started with a rush and within three minutes, Medd reduced the deficit. The Navy forwards still continued their virile play and Miller a few minutes later brought the teams on level terms when he exacted Love and Schindler by sheer speed down the left wing.

WINNING GOAL

The Club in turn made several vigorous attacks and from a territorial point of view seemed to be enjoying the best of the exchanges. W. A. Reed, at centre-half, well supported by N. Whitley on his left, displayed tireless energy in assisting the attack, and with only ten minutes to go, Dickford found the net with a first-timer off a pass from T. Whitley.

Medd, Woods and Miller during the closing stages made prize-worthy efforts to equalise, but E. V. Reed and Schindler responded with sound defensive service. Clayton, at right half, with Steele-Perkins behind him, did the bulk of the Navy's defensive work, but the forwards were never able to get the better of the home defence.

CIVILIAN
COMMITTEE

(By "The Pilgrim").

On investigation I was surprised to learn last Sunday that there is no Civilian Representative on the Selection Committee.

Mr. G. T. Palmer was originally chosen by the Association, but resigned on transfer to Canton. A civilian should have been nominated to take his place at the last meeting which was held on January 5, but for some reason unknown to me, this was not done.

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Hockey Association is a civilian, but he acts as ex-officio and therefore a civilian representative is necessary under the rules.

I hope the Secretary will on Sunday co-opt a second civilian to assist him on the Selection Committee. Players will be more satisfied if this is done.

More Attention Should
Be Paid To The Matter

The Obstruction Rule is one of the most important Rules governing the game of hockey and is often abused by players. The laxity of umpires in dealing with it has, to a certain extent, contributed towards the failure of local players to play the best type of game.

The Rule reads: "A player shall not obstruct by running in between an opponent and the ball... nor shall he interpose himself, or his stick, in any way as an obstruction to an opponent... nor attack from an opponent's left unless he touch the ball before he touch the stick or person of his opponent. There shall be no charging, kicking, shoving, tripping, or striking at, or holding an opponent by any means whatsoever."

The rule is perfectly clear, and if you think it over, you will find that it can be summarised as follows:—"Obstruction means depriving your opponent, by the unfair use of your person, of an equal chance of hitting the ball."

That is the essence and spirit of the whole rule. It can be put in another way:—

"A player must not gain an advantage by the unfair use of his body, foot, hand or stick."

If players would only read the rule or seriously consider the summaries or seriously consider the summaries would improve and they would not be liable to commit this great fault of obstruction.

NEVER ELIMINATED
It has been said that "obstruction" will never be completely eliminated from our game because of the "human element," but much can be done to obviate it. Players often accuse an umpire because he is strict and blame him for spoiling the play, but isn't it the other way round? Aren't the players themselves to blame?

By their ignorance or willfulness, they create breaches of the rules which the dutiful umpire must penalise. Those umpires who have had a good deal of experience will tell you that rough games develop from obstruction.

READ THE RULE
Read this rule through carefully once again and do not try to look innocent next time you are penalised. Watch other teams playing and you will find that obstruction is often caused by:—

1. Over eagerness to get the ball.

2. Going for it unnecessarily hard.

3. Doing anything to get the ball.

4. Doing anything to prevent an opponent getting to it.

GOAL-KEEPERS' FAULTS
The goal-keeper can be just as guilty of obstruction as any other player, and he must be penalised like the rest of the players. However, he often "gets away" with the following:—

1. Charging roughly into an attacking forward.

2. Running out between an attacker and the ball and so preventing the attacker from reaching it before it crosses the goal-line.

3. Running out to meet an attacker and then opening his legs and letting the ball go through.

REVERSE STICK PLAY

Dribbling the ball on the left side with the reverse stick often leads to obstruction. This is a common fault with left wingers. It is very difficult to tackle a player of this type from the right side because he is often guilty of obstruction, i.e. placing his body between his opponent and the ball.

Players running towards the side-line with the ball should watch out that they do not place their bodies between the ball and the opponent who is tackling. In a roll-in, if players find themselves facing the goal they are defending then there is every likelihood of their obstructing an opponent.

1. Must not run in between his opponent and the ball.

2. Must touch the ball before he makes contact or touches the other player in any way at all (Note: This form of tackling can only be done satisfactorily by using the left hand, using the right hand nearly always causes obstruction.)

3. Must not charge into his dispossessed opponent. I would like to remind readers that "obstruction" does not necessarily depend on the distance of the players from the ball, and "tackling on the ball" does not constitute a breach unless an opponent has thereby been obstructed in an attempt to play the ball.

HERE AND THERE WITH "PILGRIM"

THERE was something lacking in both teams when the C.B.A. drew with the Hongkong Ladies last Saturday. The forwards Mrs. White, Miss M. Booker and Miss J. Ewing, did most of the attacking for the C.B.A., but their positional play was faulty and that probably prevented them from scoring. Miss I. Woolley, the skipper, was not her usual self at centre-half and had the opposing attack been more accurate with their passing, I am positive the C.B.A. would have suffered defeat.

MISS Whitley, at left back, did very well in the first half but fell away to a great extent in the second period. Miss Moss, in goal, did some useful work, but the C.B.A. ladies showed poor teamwork.

HONGKONG Ladies were no better and were really very fortunate in getting a point. Again most of the older members enjoyed the honours of the day and it was due to the brilliant work of those stalwarts, Miss Pope, Miss E. M. Grey and Mrs. Lanson, that the visitors were able to stem the tide. Miss Purvis' speed on the right wing was noticeable but her centres were very erratic. The rest of the attack, especially Mrs. Dalziel, worked tirelessly but were too individualistic in their methods. The Hongkong Ladies looked to me as if they needed some good practice and, possibly, coaching.

TAKING into consideration that Ribeiro, J. Gonsalves, W. A. Reed and R. Marques had turned out for the Interport trial in the morning, the Recreio accomplished a good performance when they defeated the youthful Nomads 2-1 last Sunday. The Recreio forwards started well and their half-backs, by clever passing and dribbling, enabled them to take the lead. J. Gonsalves, on the left-wing and later at inside left, played a useful game indeed, and so did A. M. Rodrigues at inside right. It was a good-hard-fought game while it lasted.

CREDIT must be given to the Nomads for the fine fight they put up against their more experienced opponents. B. Xavier equalised in the second half with a nice goal and it looked for a moment as if the Nomads were going to spring a surprise. But towards the end, the defence, with the exception of R. J. Reed and R. Xavier, went completely to pieces, and had it not been for excellent goal-keeping by E. A. Alves, Recreio would have doubled their score.

H. GUBBAY and R. da Silva worked hard in the attack for the Nomads, but obviously they did not relish the bumpy surface. From what I have seen of the Nomads' last two performances, it seems to me that they are shaping into a fast and very useful combination.

What Last Sunday's
Hockey Trial Taught
Selection Committee
"Pilgrim" Picks A Team To
Meet Macao Next Month

The first Interport hockey trial, which took place last Sunday, proved to be fast, well-played and of great help to the Selection Committee. Amongst those who had the opportunity of showing what they could do were Ribeiro, Kempton, D. Smith, Taylor and R. Marques.

Though these players did not, on this one trial, justify their inclusion in the Hongkong team, they did well enough to satisfy the most critics that their chances will come later on. In the second half, the Colours were naturally supposed to be the stronger XI, but it was really the fine opportune play of W. A. Reed, at centre-half, and Lieut. Hook, at right half, which gave them the victory.

Malik, who seems destined to fill the left-half position in the Colony team once again, was far from outstanding; he is not showing the same form and does not seem to possess the same stamina as he did last year. I don't condemn his play for a moment, but there is another player as good as, if not better than, Malik. His name is Norman Whitley, the Club and C.B.A. left-half.

This young player has shown consistently good form since his return from Home leave, and I would like to see him given a trial next Sunday.

THE FULL BACKS

V. Bond and G. Sommer formed a fine pair of backs for the Whites in the first half, but the latter was rather slow with his recovery and had the inclination to use his hand when stopping the ball—a very dangerous practice against a fast-moving attack.

I would suggest that J. Gonsalves, who also gave a sound display for the Colours, partner Bond in the next trial. Bond would probably be better at left back, with Gonsalves at right. They are both young, fast and untiring in their play.

A TICKLISH PROBLEM

In the first half, what seemed the Interport attack was opposed to the Interport defence. They were S. Fowler, Pritam Nath, Kennedy, Neraln Singh and Partab. The result was a goalless draw. I am of the opinion that the attack could be better equipped and more penetrative in its power. This does not apply to the flanks where abundant speed, dash and resource was revealed, but to the centre position, which was not very satisfactory. Kennedy, as a leader, did well only in the second period, and the reason was that he had the probable defence behind him. He was too often tackled when in possession. Neither did Pritam Nath shine at inside right. Kennedy did quite well, but he was inclined

INTERPORT SIDE FOR GAME AGAINST
MALAYA TEAMShip Movements Deprive
Colony Of Many Players

(By "Fly-Half").

In trial games, it is always difficult to write a detailed word for word story of play and in my opinion these games serve only as a try-out for a probable team, giving the players a chance to play together. Hence I will not criticise yesterday's play but rather the players.

D. H. Taylor of the Police proved to be yesterday's big surprise. He has not played rugby for the last two seasons and yet was always capable of beating his man. A pleasing thing about his play was the fact that he was very seldom tackled in possession.

Stewart, the other wing three, performed creditably and certainly went hard for the corner flag. Grieve was not so active as usual. Askwith displayed his usual nippiness and generally instigated attacking movements. Talbot and Henderson both played well at scrum-half although Elliot was not nearly so happy playing with Henderson as with Talbot. MacGrath was the better of the full-backs. His tackling was very effective.

Anderson played a good all-round game amongst the forwards and it is a pity that he will be out of port during the Colony v. Malaya match. Talbot and Darling will also be away and the Colony side will be the poorer.

Cuthbertson, Crawford, Watson, Redman and Griffiths were other forwards to show up well.

SIDE CHOSEN
The Colony side has now been picked and is as follows:

Stevens (Navy); Bidwell (Club), Grieve (Club), Askwith (Navy), Stewart (Club), Elliot (Navy) and Henderson (Club); Cuthbertson (Army), Salter (Club), Watson (Club), Peers (Club), Walkden (Club), Griffiths (Navy), Taylor (Club) and Crawford (Army).

Very little criticism can be made of this team under the circumstances. It is to be regretted that movements of H.M. Ships have deprived the side of some very strong players.

IT'S SWEET AND SAUCY

—but it adds extra flavour to puddings & cakes

When you've eaten the ginger, use the syrup to flavour the sauce.

YOU can add a luxury touch to a plain steamed pudding by serving it with a simple sweet sauce, such as banana or chocolate, two favourite flavours with the younger members of the family.

Father, who's very partial to marmalade pudding, will like it with a sauce of that name, while Mother and the grown-up daughter will find the flavour of vanilla in hard Alpine sauce very tempting.

To-day, as this is the season of warm puddings, I am giving recipes for sweet sauces. Just two rules first.

To be successful, sauce must be smooth and creamy (no hard lumps, please!), and—be sparing with the flavouring. An over-flavoured sauce is worse than a tasteless one, you will agree.

Chocolate Favourite

Now to start with something everyone likes—chocolate sauce. It's as delicious with a plain steamed pudding as with a chocolate one.

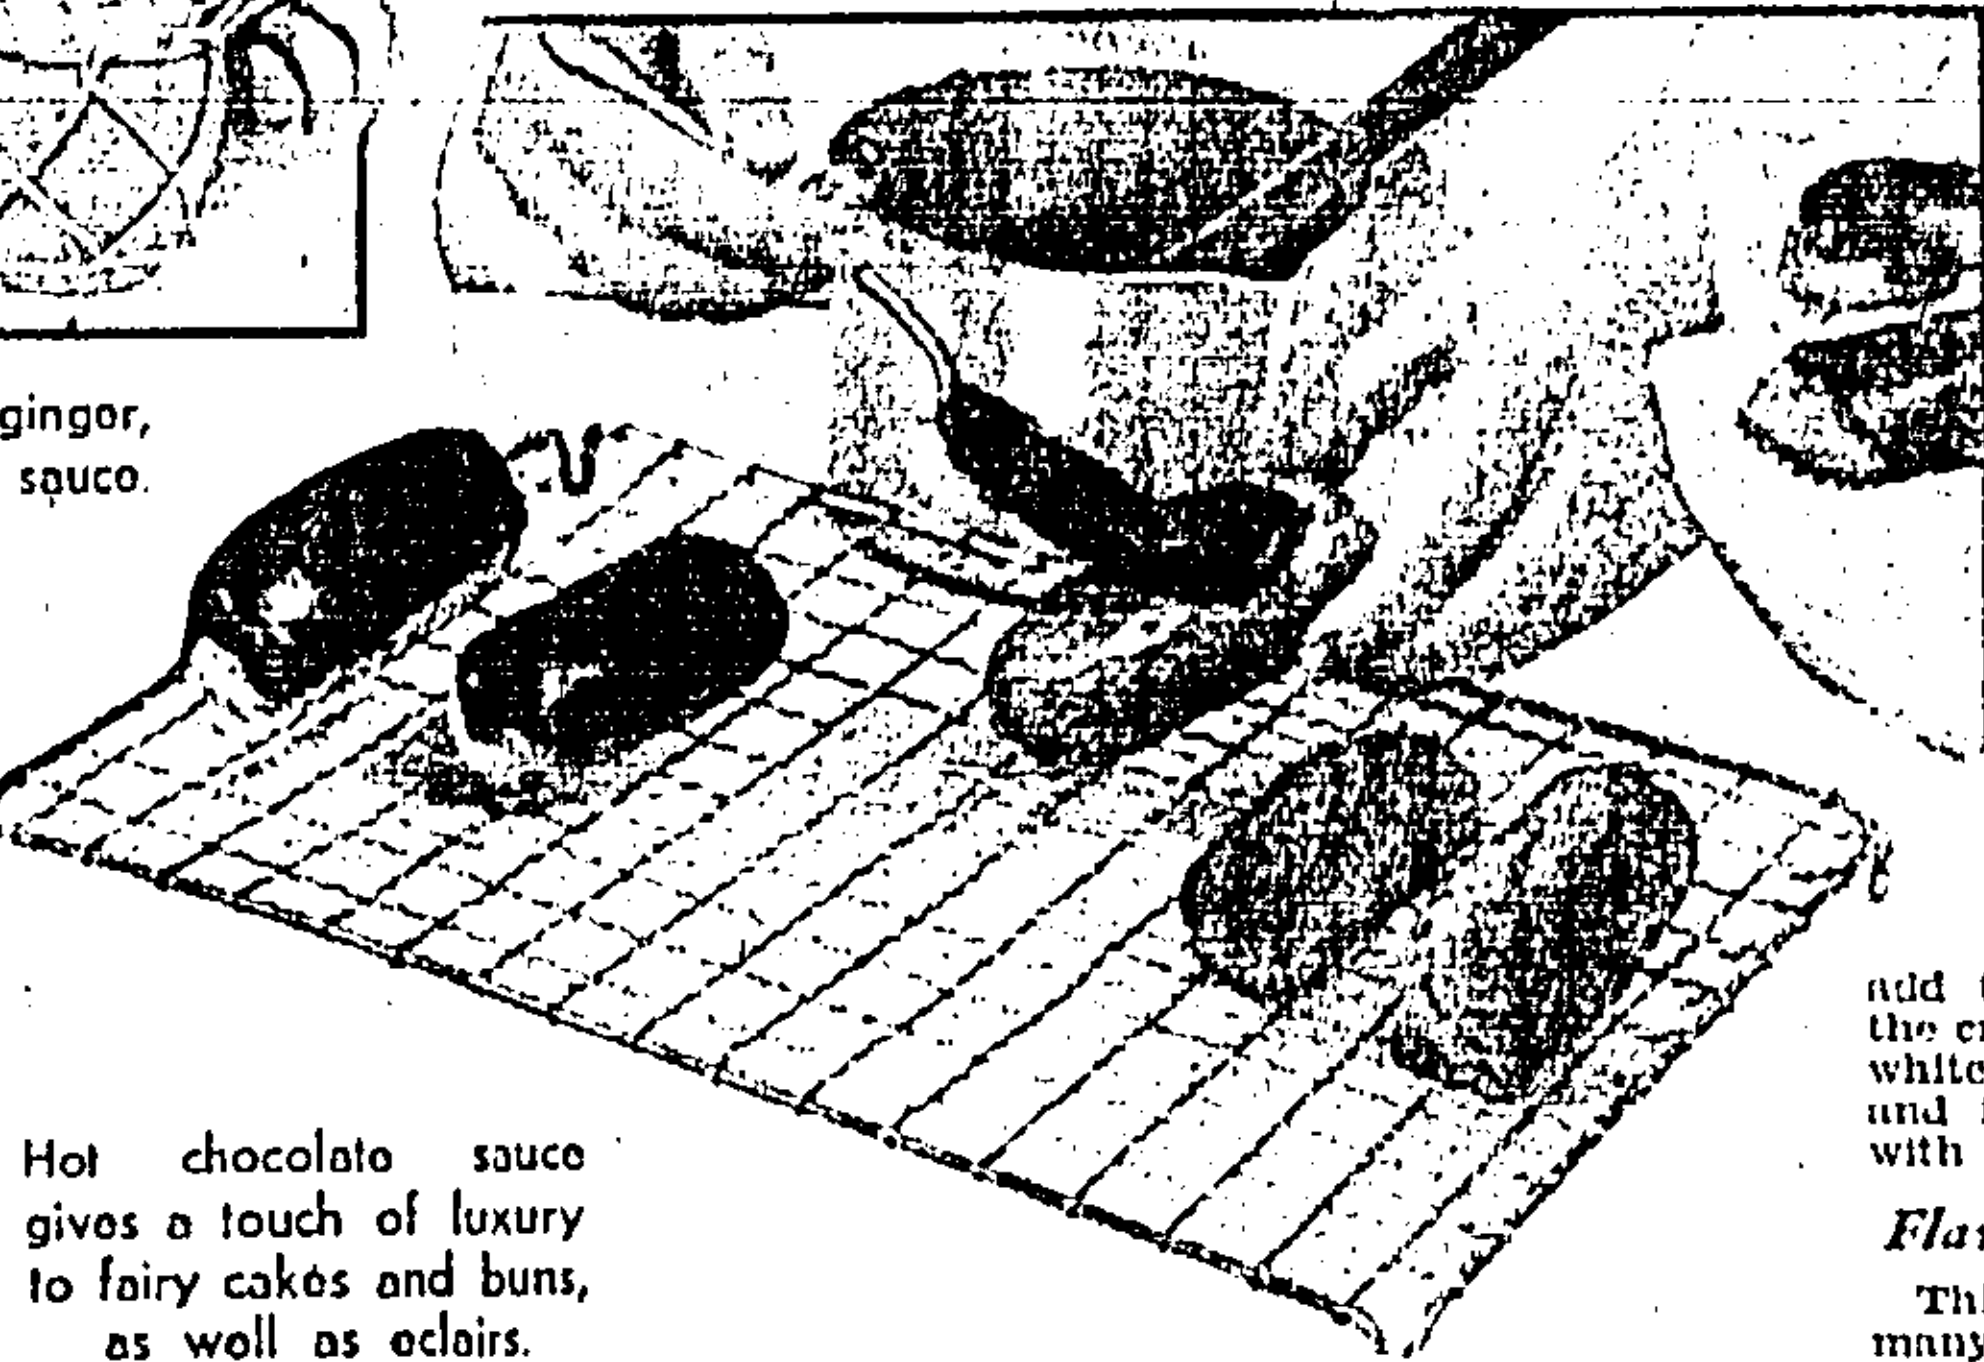

Ingredients: 1½oz. unsweetened chocolate, 1oz. butter, 1oz. cornflour, 1½ gills water, 1½ tsp. vanilla essence, 2½oz. sugar, a pinch of salt.
Break up the chocolate, add not quite half the water, and dissolve over a gentle heat. Blend the cornflour with a little of the water, add the salt, and add the rest of the water.

Four on to the cornflour, stir, and return to saucepan. Add butter, chocolate and sugar, and boil and stir for 6 minutes, then add vanilla.

Party Finish

The warm chocolate sauce used for icing cakes will make party affairs out of little fairy cakes if a spoonful is spread on the top and silver tins and thousands sprinkled over. The recipe is easy.

Dissolve a bar of chocolate in a basin over boiling water. Meanwhile, boil 2oz. loaf sugar and half a teaspoonful of water together for five minutes. Stir into the melted chocolate until this is a good coating consistency, then add two or three drops of vanilla essence. Use at once.

Hot chocolate sauce gives a touch of luxury to fairy cakes and buns, as well as oolies.

Coconut Surprise

For a change coconut sauce is sure to make a hit.

Ingredients: 1oz. butter, 1oz. flour, about 1 pint milk, 2oz. desiccated coconut, 1½ tsp. vanilla essence, 1 egg (optional), juice of 1 lemon, 1 dessertsp. cream or custard, 1oz. sugar.

Melt butter in a small pan, add flour and pinch of salt, and cook for a minute. Stir in milk gradually and bring to boil. Boil for 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Cool, stir in the egg yolk, coconut,

MIDGE: Not Flattering

"I'm drawing Daddy being a bear!"

sugar and lemon juice, reheat. Add the vanilla essence and cream or custard and, lastly, the stiffly beaten white of egg. Next time you make date pudding, serve some of this sauce. The two flavours combine well.

Brandy Sauce

We must not forget the brandy sauce for the Christmas pudding.

Ingredients: 1-pint milk, 1½ tsp. cornflour, 2½ tsp. castor sugar, 1 yolk of egg, half a small wineglass of brandy, a pinch of salt.

Mix cornflour with a little of the cold milk, add the salt, boil the rest of the milk, and pour on to cornflour. Add the sugar, bring to the boil, and boil for 5 minutes.

Allow to cool, add the egg yolk, reheat, stir in the brandy, and serve. The egg yolk may be omitted.

With Marmalade

Easy on A B C, and made with 1

tablesp. marmalade, 2 tablesp. brown sugar, 1 pint water.

Boil sugar and water together for 10 minutes, stir in the marmalade.

Apricot Flavour

Served with dried apricot pudding, to make this doubly tempting.

Ingredients: Three tablesp. apricot jam, 2oz. sugar, 1½ tsp. cornflour,

a pinch of salt, 1½ gills water.

Boil jam, sugar and water together;

blend the cornflour with a little cold water, add the salt, then mix with the jam, etc., and stir and boil for 5 minutes. Strain and serve.

Alpine Sauce

A deliciously flavoured sauce, thick and creamy.

Ingredients: 1oz. margarine, 4oz. icing sugar, 3 tablesp. milk, 1 pint milk and 1½. Stork unsalted margarine, 3 egg whites, pinch of salt, vanilla essence to taste.

To make the thick cream, warm the milk and unsalted margarine together in a saucepan until margarine is melted. Cool the mixture to bloodheat and beat with a fork to mix thoroughly.

Pour it into a cream machine and syringe it through steadily, with a quick, hard stroke, raising the handle as high as possible.

The cream should be thick and even as it comes through the machine. If it begins to run through too quickly, and is too thin, warm the mixture slightly, stir well again, and pump harder.

Cream the 1oz. margarine, add the icing sugar gradually, then the cream and mix well. Beat the egg white with a pinch of salt until stiff and fold into the mixture. Flavour with vanilla.

Flavour to Taste

This sweet sauce is the base of many sauces. The flavourings are added to taste.

Ingredients: 1oz. butter, 1oz. flour, about 1 pint milk, 1oz. sugar.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, stir in the flour gradually, then add the milk, and stir until smooth. Boil and stir for a few minutes until thickened. Add flavouring desired and serve.

When you have eaten up the ginger in the jar, use the syrup to flavour the above sauce and serve it with ginger pudding, with a piece of chopped up ginger in it, if there is any left.

When Children Dream

MANY mothers are disturbed by a child crying in his sleep, or waking up frightened after a bad dream.

Children's dreams are nearer the surface than those of the adult, because the child is nearer to nature. His dreams concern eating and drinking, his pleasures, his likes and dislikes, and his life is so full of make-believe that there is a very thin line between the dreams of his sleeping hours and his daily life.

A child who has terrifying dreams is often the victim of some person who is in the habit of describing some gruesome situation or telling a fearsome story. Adults should remember that a youngster magnifies any horror tenfold. Moreover, he may be worried about something comparatively insignificant, and so his sleep is troubled.

The best way to help such a child is to prevent his day-dreaming propensities by inducing him to work out his ideas. Ask him to draw something, or to paint something for you. When it is finished take an interest, and get him to explain what it is all about. He should be encouraged to make up stories and regale the nursery with them. This gives a great feeling of importance and helps to release the tension of his mind by giving expression to his ideas.

It is an excellent entertainment to tell a child a story and then get him to retell it in his own words. There is a school where children are allowed

Fine Feathers

Fine feathers make fine millinery, the feathered hat being in vogue. This one has an exaggerated height on a very small, flat hat which, please note, is worn over a mood.

USING UP COLD SUET PUDDING

THERE are several ways of using up cold suet pudding. If it is quite unsweetened it can be cut into slices and roasted with a joint of mutton or beef in the same way as potatoes. For this purpose the slices should be rather thick.

Another way is to slice the pudding thinly, stamp fancy shapes out of the slices, and fry them in butter. Sprinkled with sugar, and a little lemon juice if liked, and served very hot, they make a delicious and unusual sweet.

A simpler and plainer way is to crumble up the pudding as finely as possible, add a little milk, and press it into a buttered cup. Steam it for about half an hour, and serve with jam or golden syrup.

A suet pudding with fruit in can be treated in the same way, but served with custard or white sauce instead of jam. This method makes it much nicer than when it is reheated over a pan of water.

to produce their ideas of fairies and pixies in clay after a period of a day or so following the story. This school recognises the necessity of leading out the imagination into the active life of reality.

Children who suffer from crying in dreams or who wake up frightened should not be given soothing mixtures unless a doctor orders them. The remedy often lies in checking their fantastic imaginations by giving them energetic outlets.

Do You Say "Beg Pardon"?

Worse still is the woman who uses an adult brand of baby talk in public. She says "at" for thank you, and "by-by" when she leaves you. Or she embarrasses you with a loud reference to her "hubby," or maybe even "your hubby." I have seen men grow red with rage on hearing that sort of conversation.

The other day I sat beside a woman of middle-age. When she spoke at first her accent was good and her grammar faultless, but later when she was spoiled by a sprinkling of schoolboy and masculine slang. She spoke of money as "bobs" and "tanners," mentioned that her new evening frock cost "five quid," and that her husband had "kicked about stumping up."

"Murdering" the Language
I know that this modern adulteration of the language is only carelessness, but it is the kind of carelessness that threatens to grow and grow until it has distorted everything graceful in our speech. Already there are signs of it in "pardon." The friends who taught my son that this is politeness honestly believed that they were right.

Will the day come when "kiddies" and "hubby" take the same step out of the ranks of vulgarities into the courts of the knock-gentle? An unpleasant thought. But it seems it is the way the wind is blowing.

Yet hardly a day passes but somebody, generally of the type—that is, price for well-educated, kings up on

CHUNGKING, Jan. 25.
"CHINA WILL eventually emerge victor in the present Sino-Japanese conflict."

This dominating conviction, which forms the guiding force of the Chinese people in their supreme struggle against Japanese aggression, was once more forcefully expressed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his opening speech before the fifth plenary session of the Central Executive Committee to-day. General Chiang, in his capacity as Chief Executive of the Kuomintang, told the C.E.C. members that from purely factual grounds, he was able to foretell the eventual collapse of the Japanese aggression and the final prevalence of the Chinese cause. The Generalissimo pointed out that China's only course was to strengthen her resistance for a final and decisive struggle; any suggestion of halfway compromise or submission must never be countenanced.

JAPAN'S IMPOSSIBLE TASK

From a searching study of China's history, geography, and culture and her racial spirit and economic strength, the Generalissimo said, there is an unshakable basis for believing the utter impossibility of a Japanese victory. Where it is impossible for Japan to win, it will be equally impossible for China to lose.

The Generalissimo saw in Japan a nation which has run its military, political and diplomatic courses against the rock.

Entirely unaware of the mighty Chinese racial and historical background, and without any understanding of the characteristics of China's revolutionary growth under modern conditions, Japan had twice to deviate from the course of her pre-determined continental policy and is now floundering in a mire of desperate opportunism.

Militarily, General Chiang declared, the strategy of the Japanese army has been one failure after another. The Generalissimo believed that the Japanese military have never been able truthfully to gauge their own strength and the strength of the Chinese. The result is a hopeless game of gambling, driving an unwieldy and ineffective machinery deeper and deeper but more and more hopelessly into hostile territory.

MANIPULATIONS OF PUPPETS

The military failure of the Japanese was paired off by the founting of Japanese political agents' designs and machinations. Generalissimo Chiang pointed out. The manipulation of puppets and employment of traitors, far from achieving the desired object, tend merely to help the growth of cancer which is finding root in the Japanese military machinery and quicken its rot.

Adding to military and political failures are diplomatic difficulties which place Japan more and more in an isolated position in international politics, General Chiang said.

Generalissimo Chiang said he was convinced that the tendency of international relations is towards justice and peace with the Democracies daily strengthening their determination and resources for staging a final show-down against world brigandage.

UPHILL BATTLE

General Chiang emphasized that China has hitherto been loyal to the freedom and international justice and righteousness and will march unflinchingly on towards her goal. China, he promised, will stick to the last of her policy of resistance.

China, the Generalissimo declared, is fighting an uphill battle for her own preservation and Far East and world peace and justice. This cause for self-preservation and world victory.

dictum must prevail in the long run.

With every assurance of victory vouchsafed for, however, it behooves every member of the Party to strengthen his determination to fight and confidence to win. Generalissimo Chiang admonished. When every enemy understands himself, the enemy, and the absolute development of circumstances and state of affairs, the Generalissimo said, he would certainly clearly see the final outcome of the present war.

UNITY AND HARMONY

The Generalissimo said from now on China's efforts should be directed against the weaknesses of the enemy. Against the concrete evils, swiftness, swiftness and top-heavy Japanese. China will show unity and harmony; against the weakness of industrial Japan, China will develop her agricultural stability and spirit of thrift; into the dangers of Japan's impending social collapse China will add a catalyst by harnessing her own wartime reconstruction, utilizing her climate and geographical advantages; and as a contrast to the brutal militarism of Japan China will enforce faithfully the late Party Leader's Three People's Principles.

Concluding, the Generalissimo said every member should clearly realize the tremendous task of the Party as a whole and the members as individuals, and fight to the last for the achievement of the supreme and final goal of the revolution.—Central News.

AMERICA'S UNDECLARED WAR ON JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.

ANY DECISION by the United States to ship arms to the Government of Spain, might be met with seizures of the supplies by the insurgents, Germany, or Italy, and might involve the United States in war, said Senator Lewis in the Senate to-day.

He denounced "outside influence attempting to terrorize Congress into repealing the embargo law", and said far from being removed, it should be tightened.

BRITAIN BLAMED

Senator Reynolds, declaring that Senator Lewis expressed his own sentiments exactly, shouted: "This country is warring with Japan at the present time. There is an undeclared war on the part of the United States against Japan."

He said that the war began the day on which the export bank authorized the $25,000,000 loan to China, and he added: "I knew that somehow or other, Great Britain would get us involved in the war, and now they have not us started on the way." Senator Reynolds declared that the credits advanced to China were the result of an "agreement" with Britain, reached when Mr. Anthony Eden visited the United States.—Reuter.

Japan's Protest To Singapore

London, Jan. 25.

Domestic correspondent in London reports that the Japanese Ambassador to London, Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, acting on instructions from his home Government, on Wednesday afternoon lodged a protest with the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, regarding the detention of Japanese residents in Singapore.

Ambassador Shigemitsu, the correspondent further reports, pointed out in his protest that the residences of Japanese residents in Singapore were strictly searched and that a number of Japanese nationals were forcibly placed under detention.

The Japanese protest further asserted that great restrictions were imposed by the authorities of the Straits Settlements on the travel and residence of Japanese nationals on suspicion of alleged espionage.—De.

Jewish Problem Is Discussed

Berlin, Jan. 25.

Mr. George Rublee to-day resumed conversations with the German authorities on the Jewish problem in a two-hour meeting with Dr. Wohltat, specially appointed German Commissioner, who told Mr. Rublee that the Government's views were still represented by Dr. Schacht's plan.

Accordingly Mr. Rublee and his colleagues are putting the finishing touches to a written memorandum embodying the German views and intentions, and it is expected that he will go through them, clause by clause, with Dr. Wohltat.—Reuter.

Mr. John Henry Burkill Lee has been appointed to be Chief Assistant to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs as from January 18, 1939.

WAR IN EUROPE SOON, IS OPINION OF U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.
SCRIPPS-HOWARD'S foreign editor, William Philip Simms, in a signed article to-day, asserts that "confidential advices from London and Paris" express the conviction that Germany and Italy are now working to strike simultaneously, perhaps as early as March.

Germany may move in the direction of Rumania, on account of King Carol's reputed intransigence to Germany, while, "Paris is apparently convinced that Italy will ask as a minimum, autonomy for 95,000 Italians residing in Tunisia, Djibouti as a freed port, demilitarisation of Corsica, and a seat on the Board of Governors of the Suez Canal."

The article adds that "Berlin is reported to be endeavouring to arrange an understanding with Britain under which Germany would remain neutral in the event of an Italy-French war, if Britain does not interfere."—United Press.

LONDON AND PARIS LOSE CONFIDENCE
London, Jan. 25.
Some Diplomatic sources assert that opinion is growing in well-informed circles in London and Paris, that the next crisis will occur within a month.

If Herr Hitler speaks on January 30, he will possibly reveal when, and how, the next crisis will arise. Meanwhile confidence is apparently evaporating both in London and Paris that there will be any substantial withdrawal of Italian soldiers from Spain, and when the Loyalists are defeated.

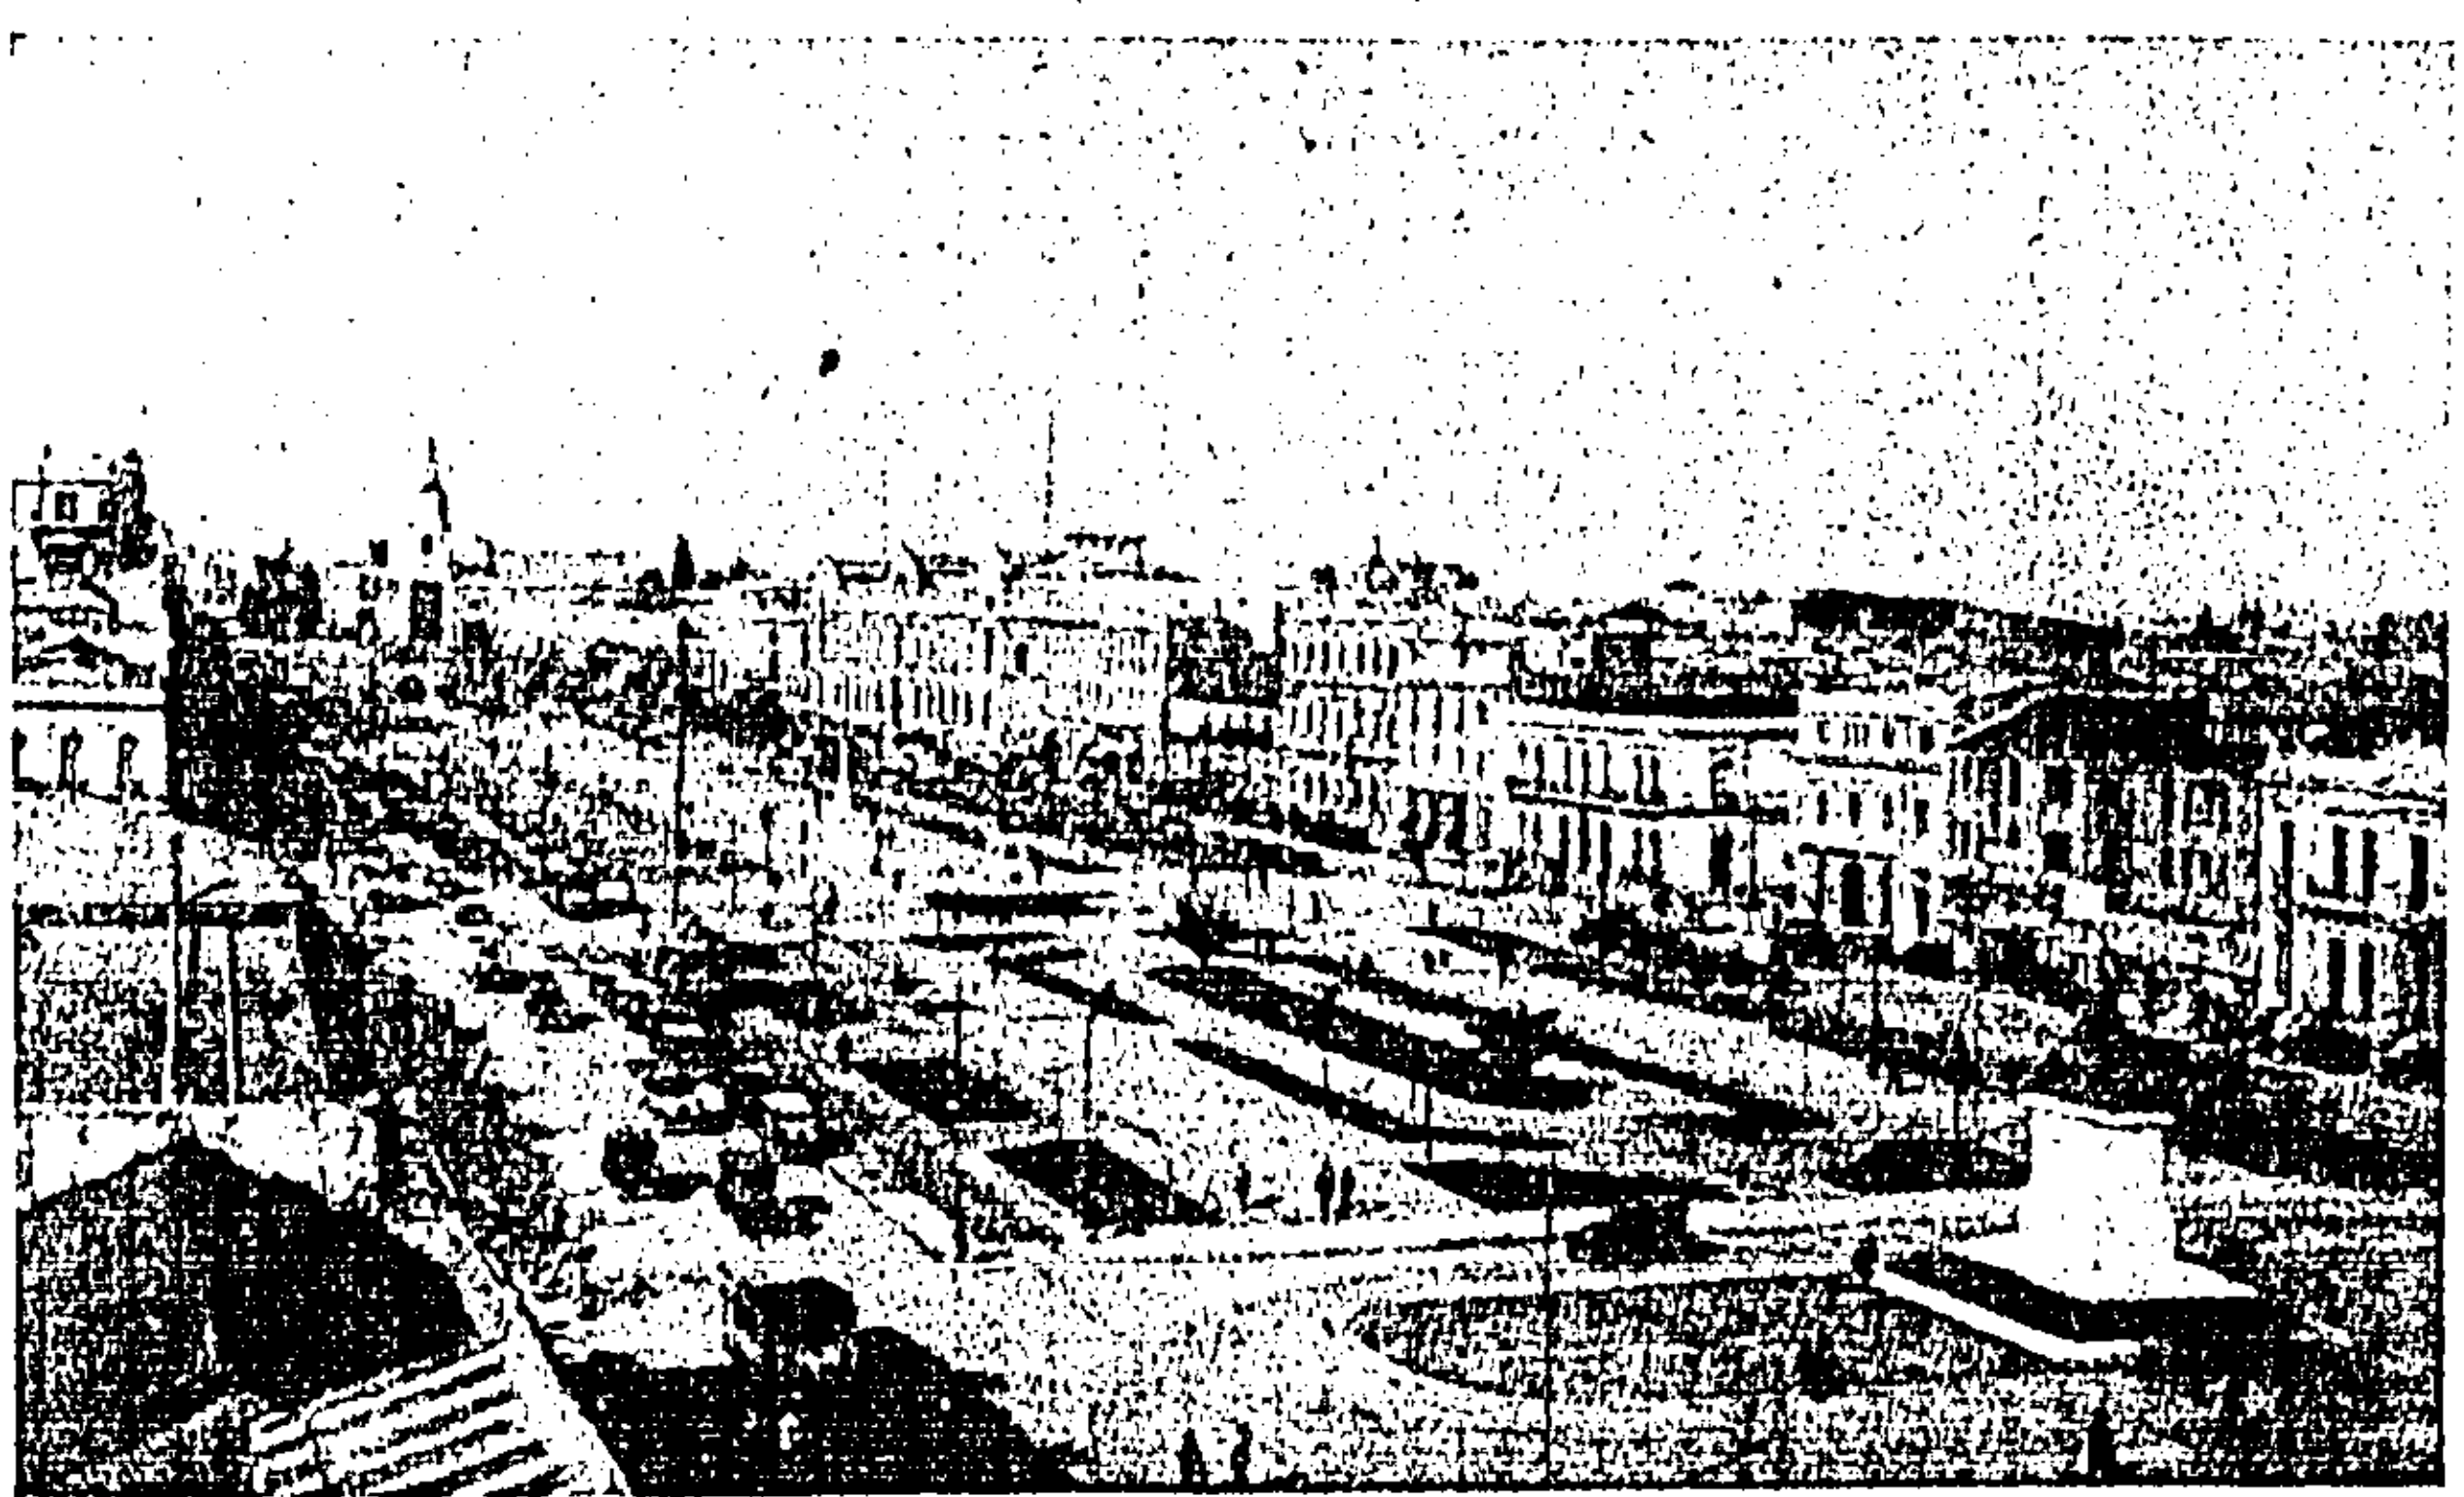

According to one report circulating in diplomatic quarters, a few thousand Italian troops would be withdrawn, but a few thousand Germans would replace them.

From the French provinces, as well as from Paris, reports make it clear that opinion is hardening against any concessions while Mussolini uses his present methods.—United Press.

TROOPS ON MOVE, REPORT
Rome, Jan. 25.
Unconfirmed reports circulating in Italian quarters state that the Government is concentrating "an important number" of troops at Genoa and Spezia, ready for transportation to Spain or the Italian frontier in the event that France should intervene in the Spanish war.

The reports appeared to coincide with the Italian charges that France has been aiding, or is about to aid the Loyalists, although these charges have been denied in Paris.

HONGKONG STEAMER FOUNDERS

Skipper And Crew Are Rescued

A HONGKONG ship, formerly owned by Williamson and Company, has foundered and sunk near the Chekiang coast, according to a "United Press" despatch.

The Norwegian Captain, Mr. Olsen, and a crew of about 30 Chinese have been rescued.

The owners of the freighter Kaiapoi confirm that the ship sank en route to Wenchow from Ningpo, after going aground.

The vessel, built in Sunderland in 1906, had a gross tonnage of 2,003 tons.

First intimation that the vessel had been sunk came from the Italian steamer Tomben, which last night, sent a radio message to Shanghai that two masts and a single funnel of a sunken steamship had been seen close to the Chekiang coast.

PANAMAN FLAG
The Italian ship reported that the funnel and emblem indicated that the vessel belonged to the Norwegian Willem Company, and that it was flying a Panamanian flag.

The Kaiapoi formerly belonged to Williamson of Hongkong. The ship figured in an accident in July last, when she went aground in the Hainan Straits during a heavy fog. By a curious coincidence the Kaiapoi went aground while going dead slow within a few miles of another Williamson steamer, the Aslan, which was also aground.

However, on that occasion the Kaiapoi was not badly damaged and was able to proceed to Hongkong after refloating with the tide.

NEW COLD WAVE HITS BRITAIN

Nation Snow-Bound: Floods In South

LONDON, Jan. 26.
ICY WINDS from Siberia again swept over Great Britain yesterday, threatening a recurrence of the cold spell that caused scores of deaths just before Christmas.

New heavy falls of snow have been reported throughout the country, aggravating the flood situation which has disrupted all communications in certain areas.

Air services with the continent were maintained only with the greatest difficulty.

The visibility at Croydon Airport was only 500 yards, and air-liners were unable to land.

PLANES DIVERTED
Incoming services were cancelled or diverted to other airports. Most of the outgoing planes, however, managed to get away.

Many parts of the South of England have been isolated by floods and snow, with drifts several feet deep in several places.

Road traffic has been entirely disrupted in some centres.

Trains to and from London are arriving late and Channel shipping is experiencing a severe buffeting. Snow continued to fall throughout the day, turning to rain last night.

SANTIAGO, CHILE, JAN. 25.
IT HAS BEEN CONFIRMED THAT NO LESS THAN 10,000 PEOPLE HAVE BEEN KILLED IN THE EARTHQUAKE WHICH ROCKED NEARLY THE WHOLE OF CHILE.—Reuter.

The Government reports that hundreds are known to be dead early this morning as a result of the earthquake disaster.

The intensity of the 'quake can be gathered from the reports pouring in from all over the country, indicating frightful material damage, and tragic loss of life.

By telephone reports have arrived that some small towns have been destroyed, while fires are burning in other cities.

BIG FIRE RAGING
A "United Press" correspondent at Concepcion, flashing a message by naval radio, reported that the central part of the city was nearly destroyed, and that a big fire was raging. However accurate checks of the effect were not yet possible.

Southern Chile was stricken by a violent earthquake, but the extent of the damage and the casualties were not officially calculated by midday to-day.

However, the authorities deprecated the report that there had been 2,000 deaths in Concepcion alone. It was stated to be nearer 60.

APPEAL FOR AID
Nevertheless, the Concepcion authorities have radioed that conditions are terrible and have appealed for sanitary supplies.

The Government has rushed aid to the devastated areas by aeroplane, special trains, and automobiles, which are carrying food and physicians.

Although it is impossible to compute the casualties in Concepcion, it is asserted that the central portion of the city has been destroyed. Concepcion is Chile's third largest city, with a population of 80,000.

Some towns are reported to have been almost destroyed, while fires are burning in many towns, including Concepcion.

Sino-British Air Service

London Interested In Reports

LONDON, Jan. 25.
AIR CIRCLES are very interested by the report from Chungking that a through-service between China and Europe has been arranged via Yunnan and Burma.

Dr. Chang Peng-chun, who arrived last week, took nine days from Chungking to England via Yunnan and Hanoi, and the more direct route from Chungking to Rangoon should reduce the time to a little over five days.

The news is also regarded as significant as further evidence of the Chinese Government's determination to develop West China.

Inquiries in London suggest that Chungking's announcement is slightly premature, though it is hoped that an official statement will be made in the not distant future.

Air circles point out that such arrangements generally imply a mutual concession, for example, in this case, freedom for British aeroplanes to fly into China, which had hitherto been refused to all foreign lines.—Reuter.

FRANCE TO PURCHASE 600 PLANES

Mission To America To Place Order

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.
M. RENE WEISER, Air Attache to the French Embassy to-day confirmed that the French air mission to the United States was negotiating for the largest order for fighting planes ever placed here by a foreign Power.

M. Weiser said that the mission came to buy "several hundred planes," adding that if the deal was completed it may involve as many as 600 machines.

M. Weiser did not disclose the cost of the transactions, but American experts estimate U.S.$60,000 per unit, making the deal total approximately U.S.$36,000,000.

It is understood that Britain have already placed an order here for 400 fighting planes.—United Press.

DARING ROBBERY ATTEMPT IN CITY

Frustrated by Courage of Intended Victim

GUERRILLAS SCORE SUCCESSES IN NORTH KIANGSU

HWAIYIN, Kiangsu, Jan. 26. JAPANESE forces attempting to drive away the Chinese guerrillas operating along the Lunghai Railway east of Hsuehchow in north Kiangsu have encountered a severe blow.

The different Japanese columns engaged in the "mopping up" campaign have all been badly beaten by the Chinese. The column at Tsoschiayu, east of Sutsien, suffered the most casualties.

Various villages in the vicinity including Tsoschiayu, King-shoehon and Yaowan, were recaptured by the Chinese between January 20 and 23.

The re-occupation of Yaowan, on the Grand Canal northwest of Sutsien, followed an overwhelming Chinese victory over the enemy.

The Chinese began an enveloping attack on the town on the night of January 22. They dislodged the enemy and drove them out of the town. Some 200 Japanese and Japanese-employed irregulars were taken prisoner, more than 170 killed and 200 rifles seized by the Chinese. —Central News.

JAPANESE FALL BACK TO KINSIAN

Changteh, Hunan, Jan. 26. The Japanese troops thrusting westward in central Hubei have fallen back to Kinsian, a strategic town about 90 miles northwest of Hankow, which they captured recently, after being ambushed by the Chinese at Sunshiao, about five miles west of the city, according to a telephone message from the front.

Defences around Kinsian city are being strengthened by the Japanese who number about 1,000 in preparation against a Chinese counter-drive.

Damaged highways in east Hubei are under repair by Chinese able-bodied men, who are forced to do the work by the Japanese.

The Japanese at Yingshan, about 75 miles north of Hankow and 12 miles to the west of the Beijing-Hankow Railway, are running short of provisions. Forage parties are sent out to the suburban villages everyday. —Central News.

Confidence Trick On Woman Prison For Theft Of Gold Ring

The well-known confidence trick, that of asking the victim to take charge of a parcel of banknotes temporarily, was related to Mr. R. A. D. Forrest at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Tsai Sang, unemployed, and Lau Mui, married woman, were charged with the larceny of a gold finger ring by means of a trick at Queen's Road East on January 23.

Both defendants pleaded guilty, and were sentenced to two months' hard labour each. The sum of $25 was ordered to be refunded to complainant from the $30 found on second defendant.

Detective Sergeant B. V. Hutchinson prosecuted, and said the complainant, Liu Sau-king, a married woman, was walking along Queen's Road East near Arsenal Street when defendants walked up to her and said they were refugees in Hongkong. The man produced a parcel and said it contained banknotes, and said he did not know where the money changers were.

Mr. Forrest: The same old trick again?

Serjt. Hutchinson: Yes, but this time they got away successfully.

He further said the ring was later sold to a goldsmith for $21.50 and had since been melted.

Defendant was recognised in the street by complainant on January 23 and was arrested. Second defendant was arrested on information received from first accused.

BRITISH SOLDIER FINED FOR COMMON ASSAULT

PRIVATE Lewis Brady of the 1st Battalion, Middlesex Regiment, was to-day fined $40 or one month's hard labour by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy on a charge of common assault.

Brady also faced a count of having behaved in a disorderly manner, and on this charge a conviction was registered against him. He was also told to pay $10 amends to the complainant, Yeung Hing, a mess boy. In default, another two weeks' hard labour was passed, the sentences to run concurrently.

Det.-Sergeant C. T. Byron said that after midnight on January 21, the defendant entered a house in Hau Chuen, Lo Wu, in which the complainant and six other men were gambling. Brady questioned complainant as to the possibility of procuring a woman for him. Yeung replied in the negative and Brady was said to have exposed himself to all present and to have made several indecent suggestions.

Yeung pushed the defendant away and was struck on the face with an earthenware jar. Brady ran away but was chased and detained. Det.-Sergeant Byron asked Mr. Macfadyen to consider the case as a serious one, as the assault was unprovoked. The injury that the complainant sustained, might have easily been a more serious one than it was.

"ALREADY IN DEBT"

Asked if he could pay the fines, Brady replied that he could not.

Capt. M. A. Jacob, 1st Battalion, Middlesex, was in Court and referring to a question of whether the defendant could settle the fines by advancing pay, he said: "He can't pay. He is in debt already to quite a large amount."

The defendant said that he had been drinking on the night of the incident and as a consequence he did not remember anything until he woke up in the guard room the next day.

Mr. Macfadyen: "In law, everybody is fully responsible for their actions and unless you want to bring in medical evidence to testify to a complete loss of memory, I am afraid I cannot accept your excuse."

STRUGGLE FOR REVOLVER

Escaped Cornered By Crowd

A single-handed attack on three gangsters, two armed with revolvers.

A chase by detectives and folk through one of the busiest thoroughfares on the island, in the course of which a shot was fired at the pursuers.

These are the highlights in a daring attempt at armed robbery which was frustrated this morning through the courage of the intended victim.

The incident occurred at 8.55 a.m., at the Au Cho-ye money-changing establishment at 347, Queen's Road West.

Little notice was taken by the owner of the establishment, Mr. Au Chi, and his four folk when the three entered the shop, as it was thought that they had come on business.

Two of the men, however, suddenly whipped out revolvers, and ordered the five startled occupants to put up their hands.

Mr. Au Chi unsuccessfully tried to shut himself inside the iron grill containing several thousand dollars worth of Hongkong and other banknotes.

He was prevented from doing so by one of the bandits, who jabbed the revolver into the pit of his stomach.

While the man's attention was momentarily diverted when his companions commenced to scoop banknotes into a brief case, Au seized the arm of his assailant.

FIGHT FOR GUN

As soon as the proprietor of the shop commenced to struggle with the man whose arm he had seized, the two other bandits decamped, leaving their unfortunate companion at the mercy of Au and the four folk.

Au forced the bandit's hand, holding the revolver, above his head. As he did so the bandit pulled the trigger. The shot flew wide, entering the ceiling of the shop and going through to the first floor, which, fortunately, was unoccupied.

The bandit then struggled to escape and immediately chased after his fleeing companion.

Au and the four folk, raising the alarm as they sped through the street, chased the fleeing men.

One of the bandits, hard pressed by the crowd which had gathered on his trail, stopped and brandished his revolver. According to one of the folk another shot was fired.

The man then threw away his revolver and was finally cornered in a lane off Queen's Road. The remaining two bandits made good their escape.

Alleged Armed Robbery

A formal remand of 48 hours in Police custody for further inquiries was granted to Detective Inspector W. N. Darkin at the Central Magistracy this morning, when an 18-year-old man, Tsang On alias Wong On, alias On Tsai, appeared before Mr. R. A. D. Forrest on a charge of armed robbery.

Defendant was charged, with others not in custody, of robbing Chun Lai-wan and Chan Lai-sun of $211 in money, and a quantity of clothing and jewellery at an unnumbered hut on the hillside above Holy Cross Path, Shaokwan, on January 21.

CHIEF JUSTICE UPHOLDS APPEAL "Jimmy" to Return Compensation Money CONVICTION ON RECEIVING CHARGE IS QUASHED

AN appeal brought before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Court of Appeal this morning, by Kwok Cheuk-him, master of the Cathay Dining Ware Company, of Des Voeux Road Central, against his conviction by Mr. T. J. Houston at the Central Magistracy on December 14 on a charge of receiving a quantity of knives, forks and spoons, knowing them to have been stolen, was upheld. Kwok was originally fined $300 with the alternative of three months' hard labour, and also ordered to pay $100 compensation to Mr. Anroon Landau, proprietor of Jimmy's Kitchen, who had ordered the goods in question.

The goods had apparently been stolen from a consignment for when the consignment arrived in the Colony in August last for Messrs. John D. Hutchison and Co., from whom Mr. Landau had ordered the goods, they were found to be incomplete. Samples of the goods were later found in Kwok's shop at Paddy's Market, where they had been brought by a man named Tsang, who asked Kwok to sell them for him. Kwok later took the goods to Mr. Landau at Jimmy's Kitchen, where Mr. Landau agreed to purchase the articles. Kwok was subsequently arrested and charged.

Mr. M. A. da Silva represented the appellant this morning, while Mr. J. B. Prentis, Assistant Crown Solicitor, appeared for the respondent. Detective Sub-Inspector W. R. Ritchie. Mr. Silva said his appeal was based on three grounds, firstly, against conviction, secondly, the theft of the goods forming the subject matter of the charge had not been proved, and thirdly, against the award of $100 compensation to Mr. Landau.

PROSECUTION GAPS
Dealing with the second ground first, Mr. Silva pointed out that there were certain gaps in the prosecution's evidence, which had been filled by inference on evidence which was not there. No evidence had been given by the witnesses for the prosecution that no authority had been given anyone to sell the goods. All that had been said was that certain goods had been lost on a certain date.

Regarding the first ground, Mr. Silva said that though the goods were stamped with the name of "Jimmy's," it was not challenged that no one in the appellant's shop had the slightest knowledge of English. It was true that the appellant had formerly dealt with Jimmy's Kitchen, and there was ample ground for the Magistrate to come to the finding he had, but the Magistrate also found, as recorded in his depositions, that the appellant might not have, and most probably did not know, that Mr. Landau ever had possession of the goods. If that was the case, then the appellant had presented a reasonable account of how he came by the goods in his evidence.

The appellant's attention was not drawn to the name "Jimmy's" until a certain customer came into the shop one day, and even then he had but the slightest suspicion. He had thought in his own mind that if the goods were stolen, he would return them to Tsang, but if they were not, then he would sell them to Jimmy's Kitchen. He had taken the goods to Mr. Landau, and as no indication was given him by Mr. Landau that the goods belonged to him, he proceeded with his negotiations for sale. Mr. Silva submitted that the Magistrate had misdirected himself in convicting the appellant.

Dealing with the award of compensation to Mr. Landau, Mr. Silva remarked that the Ordinance provided for compensation to a person who had no knowledge the goods were stolen, and had paid for them. Mr. Silva submitted it did not apply in the present case to Mr. Landau. His Lordship said that up to the present stage of the appeal, he could not see how Mr. Landau could be a person aggrieved.

Replying, Mr. Prentis referred to authorities in submitting that the Magistrate had ample grounds for coming to his findings on all three grounds of appeal.

His Lordship allowed the appeal, and quashed the conviction. He also ordered that the fine, if paid, and the money paid in compensation, should be returned to the appellant.

DICTATOR NATIONS WARNED

Trade Retaliation From Britain If Necessary

LONDON, Jan. 25.
APPROVAL OF the recent warning given by the Secretary for Overseas Trade to the totalitarian countries concerning their trading methods was voiced by the chairman of the Westminster Bank at the annual meeting to-day.

He said: "The Secretary for Overseas Trade struck the right note when he said that if the countries concerned continued to employ these unorthodox methods we should fight them at their own game, and if we fought, we should win. These words will have to be backed by deeds. As I see it, bulk-selling under the aegis of the State will have to be countered by bulk-selling on our part."

"However much it may offend against our characteristic individualism, and however great may be the difficulties of securing co-operation among trade rivals, we have voluntarily to forge a weapon capable of resisting this new form of attack."
Reference to the trading methods of the totalitarian countries was also made by the chairman at the annual meeting of Martins Bank, who urged the use of very appropriate means to expand our exports, even if it meant adjusting our procedure to meet the tactics of the totalitarian countries.—Reuter.

GUERRILLAS TEAR UP TRACK

Fiercely Active In Central Hopeh

SIAN, Jan. 25.
A WHOLE MILE of railway track north of Yuan-shih, twenty miles south of Shihchiao-chang on the Peiping-Hankow railway in central Hopeh, was torn by Chinese guerrillas recently, according to military reports received here.

The guerrillas after their sabotage work also carried away large quantities of electric wires, weighing half a ton.

Traffic on the north section of the Peiping-Hankow railway has been disrupted for many days, the reports say.

At the same time, the Chengting-Taiyuan railway east of Tsinghsing on the Hopeh-Shansi border was damaged at a number of points by the guerrillas who also carried away quantities of wires. In a chance encounter with a group of Japanese, the guerrillas killed a score of the invaders.

The Tientsin-Pukow railway was claimed to have been damaged at many places near Tientsin.—Central News.

His utterances which were given privately to the committee indicated that the Secretary to the Treasury was reluctant to set a "danger point" for the national debt, which the budget now raises to the statutory limit of $45,000,000,000.
Mr. Morgenthau is reported to have said that they can carry out the 1940 fiscal programme with perfect assurance.—United Press.

Fortifying Guam Is Advocated

Expert's Testimony To Committee

Washington, Jan. 25.

A fully-equipped naval base on the island of Guam would provide "valuable and needed assistance" to the United States fleet in protecting Hawaii, the United States continent, and the Panama Canal, testified Admiral William Leahy before the House of Representatives Naval Committee to-day, but he added that such a base was not proposed in the Navy's current programme for the establishment or expansion of naval air bases.

He declared that Guam would be very valuable in augmenting the Navy's defence power in the Pacific. No foreign Power could advance on American territory without first reducing such a base.

"If the United States is to maintain an Asiatic squadron, the maintenance of Guam as an auxiliary base is essential, and if the United States is to withdraw its Asiatic squadron, Guam would serve as a deterrent against an attack on Hawaii," declared Admiral Leahy.—Reuter.

LOUIS WINS FIGHT IN 149 SECONDS: REFEREE ENDS SLAUGHTER

LEWIS DOWN THRICE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.

JOE LOUIS remains the heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

At Madison Square Gardens to-night, in the first heavyweight title fight between two coloured boxers ever staged, he had no difficulty in retaining his title. He battered his opponent, John Henry Lewis, the lightweight champion, to a technical knockout in the first round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

Louis was a 7-1 odds on favourite to win.

Joe Louis started the fight with a murderous attack reminiscent of his historic fight with Schmeling.

He flashed out a right in the first few seconds and felled Lewis for a count of two.

Following up with a barrage of blows, he knocked Lewis through the ropes, though the light-heavyweight champion immediately clambered back into the ring.

However, Louis gave him no quarter and immediately floored him with a right to the head.

Lewis went down to the boards with a bleeding mouth, and Referee Donovan stopped the fight after Lewis had taken a count of five.

The scrap lasted only two minutes and 29 seconds.—United Press.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Harlem negroes arrived in full force. Many former champions were present, including Gene Tunney.

John Henry Lewis entered the ring first, and Joe Louis was loudly cheered as he slipped out wearing a red, white, and blue robe.

Both men sparred the start, and then Lewis jabbed Joe cautiously after which Louis sent in a left to the jaw and then a right hook terrifically hard.

With John Henry wobbling, Joe planted another right hook to the jaw, and the referee thought of intervening.

Joe continued the punishment, landing two right hooks to the chin, and Lewis went down for a count of three.

When he got up Joe put in four right hooks to the jaw and John Henry staggered down.

He rose reeling, with terror and helplessness in his eyes, and the referee sprang between them and literally held John Henry back as he struggled to continue.

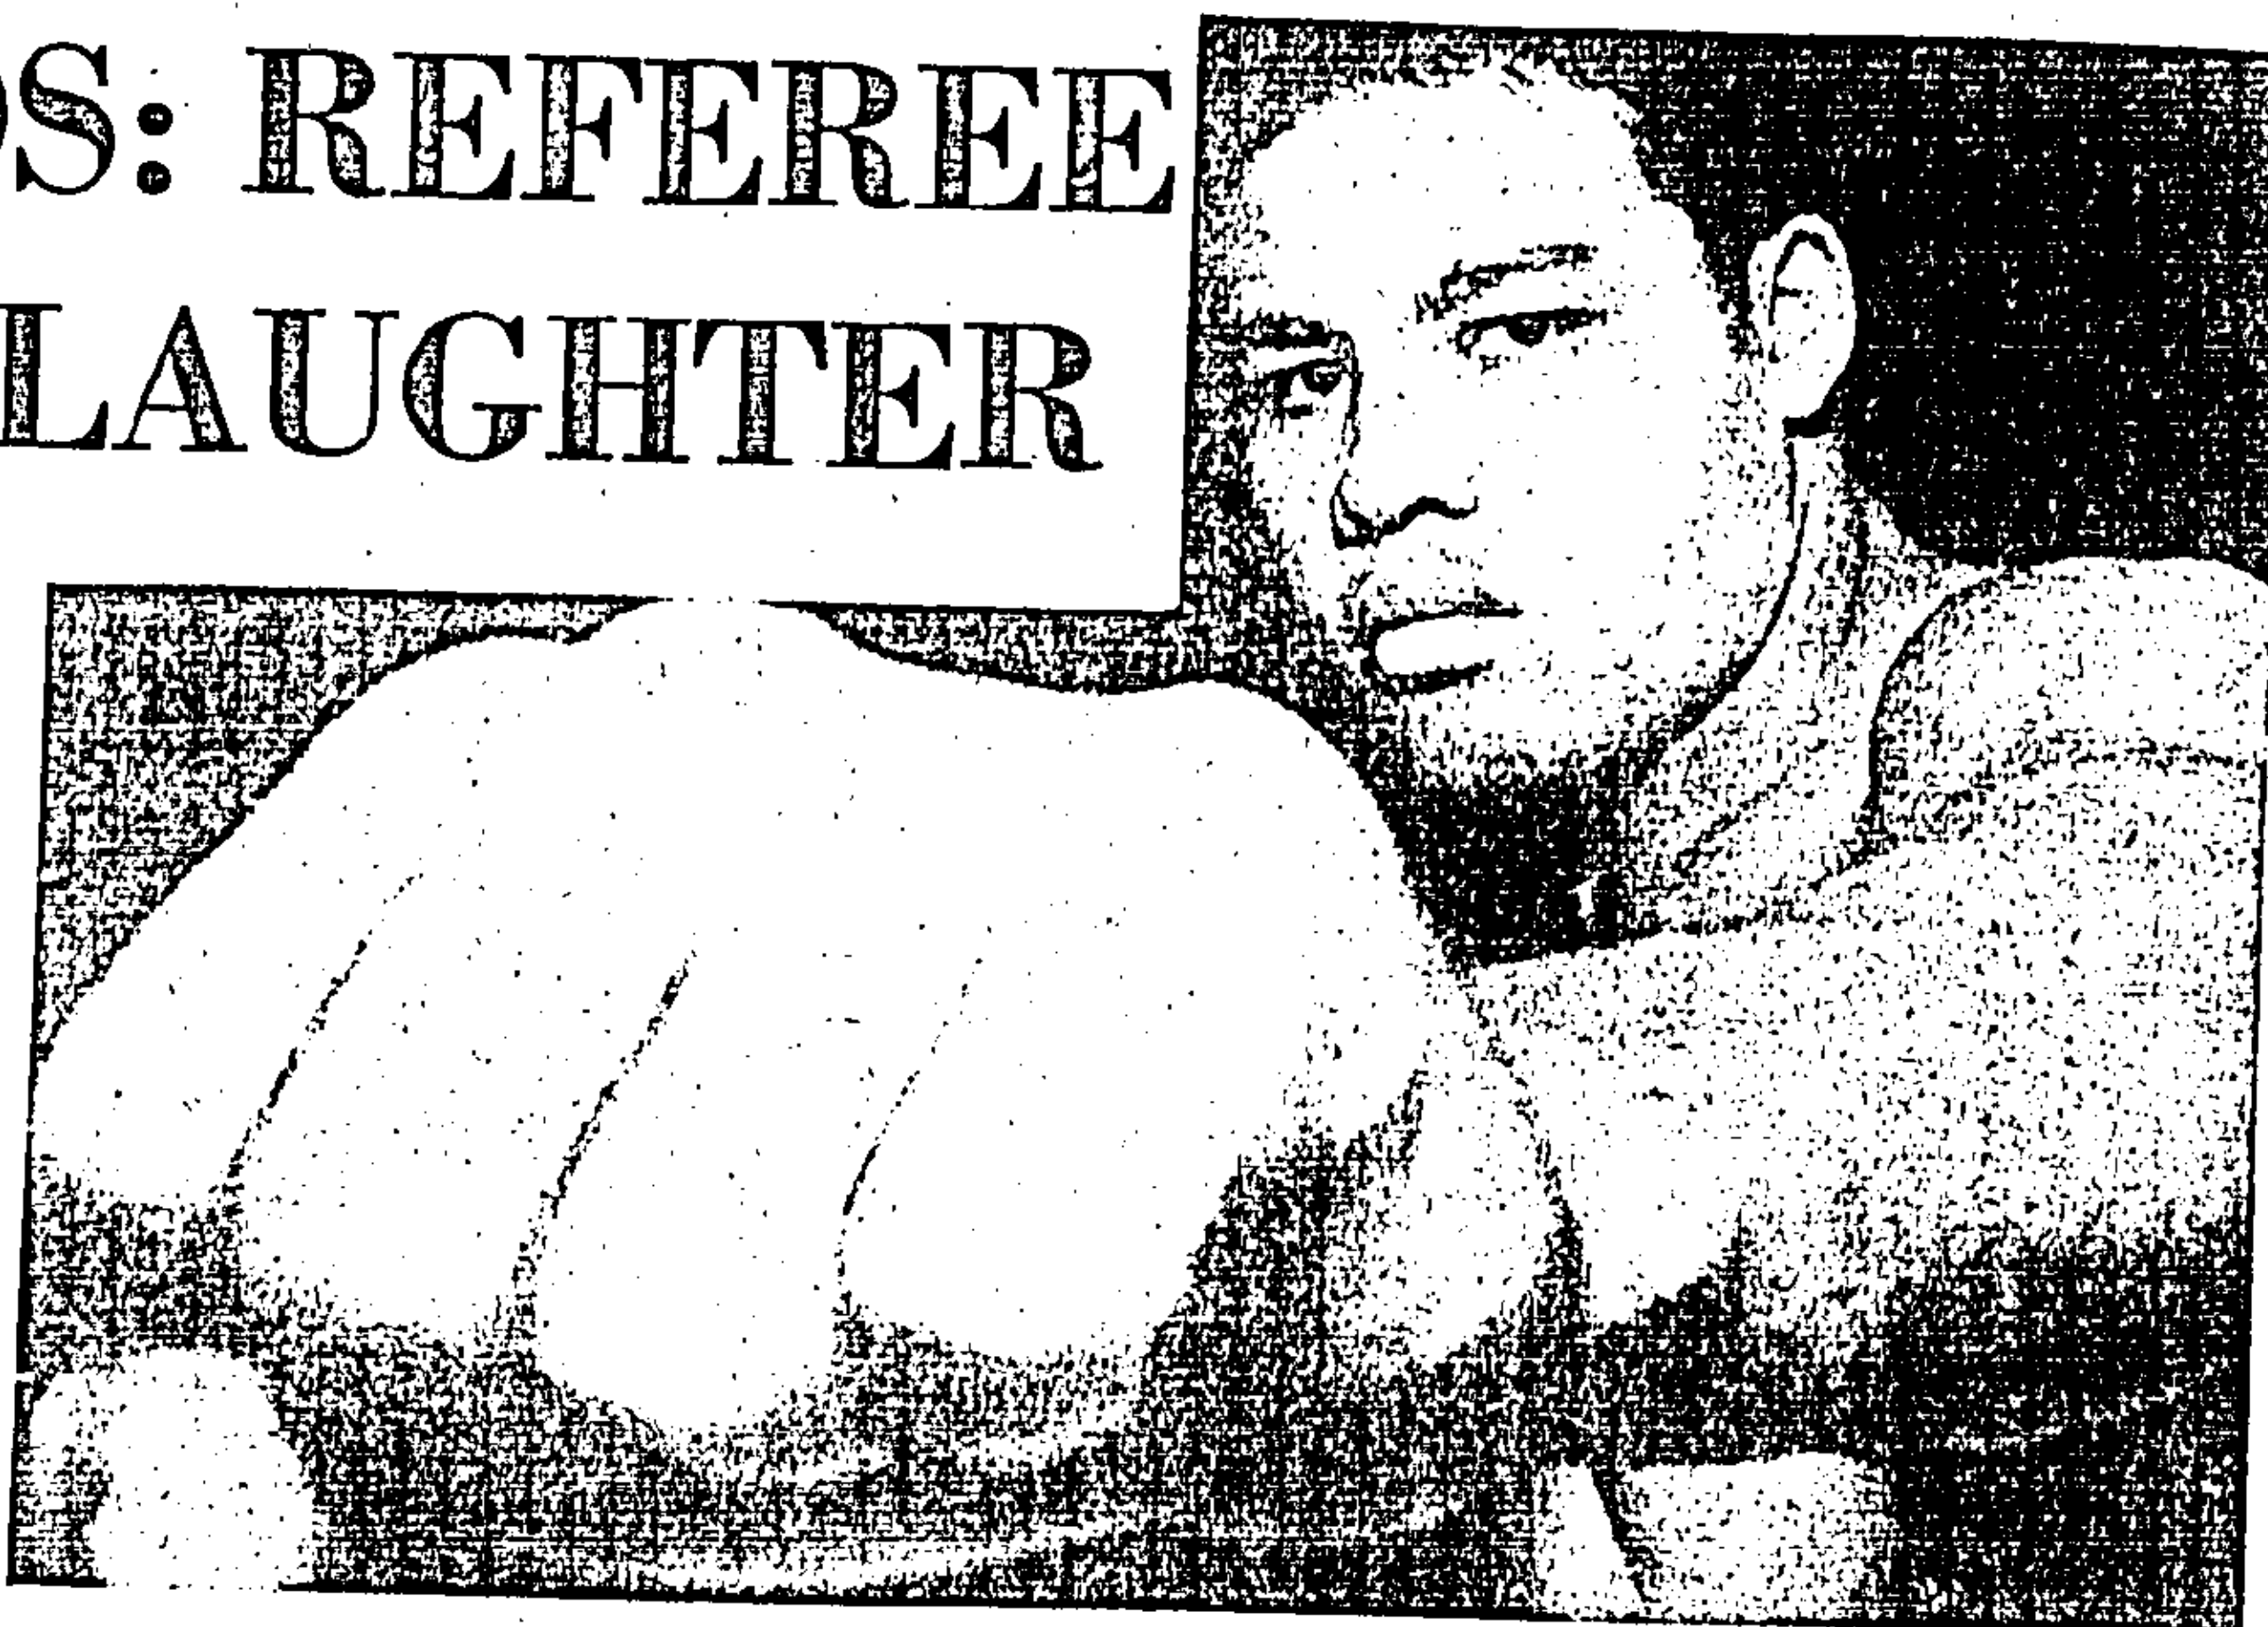

The fight lasted two minutes and 29 seconds, and though John Henry Lewis was unquestionably game, no man could have stood up against Louis, who unleashed one of the fiercest attacks seen since he became a headline sensation.—Reuter.

Japan's Protest To Singapore

London, Jan. 25.

Domei correspondent in London reports that the Japanese Ambassador to London, Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, acting on instructions from his home Government, on Wednesday afternoon lodged a protest with the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax, regarding the detention of Japanese residents in Singapore.

Ambassador Shigemitsu, the correspondent further reports, pointed out in his protest that the residences of Japanese residents in Singapore were strictly searched and that a number of Japanese nationals were forcibly placed under detention.

The Japanese protest further asserted that great restrictions were imposed by the authorities of the Straits Settlements on the travel and residence of Japanese nationals on suspicion of alleged espionage.—Domei.

Troops Guard New Lancashire Works

London, Jan. 25.

A detachment of troops arrived at Euxton, near Chorley in Lancashire to-day, to help factory police guard the £6,000,000 Government munitions factory which is now completed there.

An official denied that there was any truth in the rumours of trouble between the Irish employees. He said that now production was beginning it was necessary to patrol the numerous entrances.—Reuter.

New Member Of Industrial Panel

London, Jan. 25.

It was announced from No. 10 Downing Street to-day that Mr. R. J. Sinclair, director of the Imperial Tobacco Company, has accepted the invitation of the Prime Minister to join the panel of industrialists set up to advise on problems connected with the re-armament programme. Mr. Sinclair will fill the vacancy due to the recent resignation of Mr. Percy Cooper on account of ill health.—British Wireless.

Lady Clark Kerr Aids Relief Fund

Chungking, Jan. 20.

Lady Clark Kerr, wife of the British Ambassador to China, has donated $500 as a foundation fund for the establishment of a library for refugee children in Shanghai, according to a report from that city. The library is to be established under the auspices of the Refugee Education Committee formed by the Chinese Employees Association of the Shanghai Municipal Council.—Central News.

For my part I prefer aerial bombardment to shelling. Bombing does not last so long. The Madrid people hold a different view. If a Madrid person decides to visit Barcelona every effort will be made to stop him. "Barcelona is dangerous, you must not go there. It is bombarded from the air".

Madrid is badly damaged. The veteran survivor is the telephone building. That is nearing its second century of shell hits.

MADRID people take the shelling calmly. Once they used to watch the shelling from the streets and bet on which house the shells would hit. Now too many casualties have been suffered, so the majority take to their cellars.

One night I visited the trenches in the University City accompanied by a priest. A major who had been a metal worker before the war showed us round. The priest, to my surprise, was well received by both officers and men. Our visit was short, for the officer, while showing us the trenches, was reminded by telephone that the deadline he had set for the explosion of a mine under the enemy was but ten minutes hence.

The activity upon this sector is reduced to mining and counter-mining. The trench system in the University City is so strong that I believe it to be nearly impregnable.

This also applies to the Ebro front. The original advance, in July, across the river was made by the Government to relieve pressure on Valencia. Now, according to plan, the Government forces are withdrawing to their well-prepared line behind the river.

The only weakness in Madrid's defences is the shortage of food. While the military are well fed the civilians have been existing on a daily ration of bread and dried codfish by the name of bakelou. Beans are also produced.

DOCTORS say that the codfish has reduced the number of cases of indigestion. For my part indigestion is way ahead of bakelou. While I was in Madrid I could not

No Japanese Envoy For France

Tokyo, Jan. 25.

In connection with the return of the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Sugimura from Paris, the "Kokumin Shinbun" claims to know that the appointment of a new Ambassador to France is not at present under consideration.

The paper adds that owing to the continuous support of China, which by France, and to the anti-Japanese attitude of the French Government, Franco-Japanese relations cannot be described as normal.—Trans-Ocean.

A.D.C. Producing Another Play

The Hongkong A.D.C. announce that they have decided to present "The Shining Hour" at the China Fleet Club on March 22, 23, 24 and 25. The cast has not yet been decided.

The "Telegraph" understands that casting difficulties, coupled with the sudden illness of one of the players, already chosen, was responsible for the decision not to proceed with the intention to produce "I Killed the Count," which was to have been shown early next month.

Trans-Jordan Affairs Discussed

London, Jan. 25.

Toufik Pasha Abou El Houda, chief Minister of Trans-Jordan, and Trans-Jordanian representative for the Palestine discussions, paid a further visit to Mr. Malcolm MacDonald at the Colonial Office this afternoon. The conversation turned on the internal affairs of Trans-Jordan and its relation with the British Government.—British Wireless.

stomach the bakelou, so I used to trade my portion of bakelou for more bread. My lunch and dinner diet for five days was a hunk of bread and half a bottle of the remaining supply of the Ritz Hotel champagne.

There are also complaints by the Madrid women that they lack both lipstick and powder. Much resentment is felt against the Barcelona women, who have plenty of these commodities. Back by airplane to Barcelona was the method of my return. The woman in charge of the censor's office saw me off, with these words: "Please when you get back to England do not vote for Mr. Chamberlain, because his policy of non-intervention means that my four-year-old child is under-nourished in Madrid."

25 YEARS AGO

The intense cold, which has already lasted for a fortnight, is increasing the hardships of the coal strike among the poor. Strange scenes are being witnessed. Grenadier Guards and medical students carting coal from the depots for the barracks and hospitals.
The industrial outlook is gloomy. A "builders' lock-out" began in the afternoon, but the number idle will not be known till Monday. Probably 150,000 will be out on strike in the course of the week.
The military and police have protected the coal vans for the hospitals, while Rugby football teams, in jerseys and "shorts" are shifting coal for the hospitals, for which the strikers have refused to grant permits.
Mr. Lee Temple, the first English aviator to fly upside down, was killed while doing a spiral flight at Hendon.
The Daily Chronicle says that after the most rigorous pruning the preliminary figure for the naval estimates will be £53,000,000, and new taxation is inevitable.
Members of the Cabinet think that after 1914 the naval expenditure will tend to decline, but the journal named says there is no very hopeful prospect thereof, and meanwhile some other Department will be striving for the sake of the Navy.

Barcelona's Death

FRANCO'S Italian vanguard enters Barcelona and another Loyalist city is about to fall prey to foreign mercenaries.

To-day, the Insurgent holds all but Madrid of the great cities of Spain.

Granada, Seville, Cadiz, Salamanca, Burgos, Saragossa, Toledo, Malaga, Valladolid, Bilbao, San Sebastian and Oviedo have successively fallen to superior weight.

It has been superabundance of Italian and German war materials against a shortage rendered almost criminal by a one-sided non-intervention policy; a superiority of Italian mercenaries and Moorish troops, with a minority of Spaniards, against a spatter of International mercenaries, now withdrawn, and a superiority of Spaniards.

Barcelona has been truly Loyalist since the outbreak of the Civil War. The Insurrection there on July 19, 1936, lasted only ten minutes and was crushed by overwhelming odds loyal to the Government.

Barcelona became Spain's capital in October, 1936, when Madrid seemed likely to fall. Since then, the Insurgents have bombed it with grim regularity. On most days, the city's two million people have calmly sought shelter in the 1,600 bomb-proof shelters that have been built to save them from death from the sky.

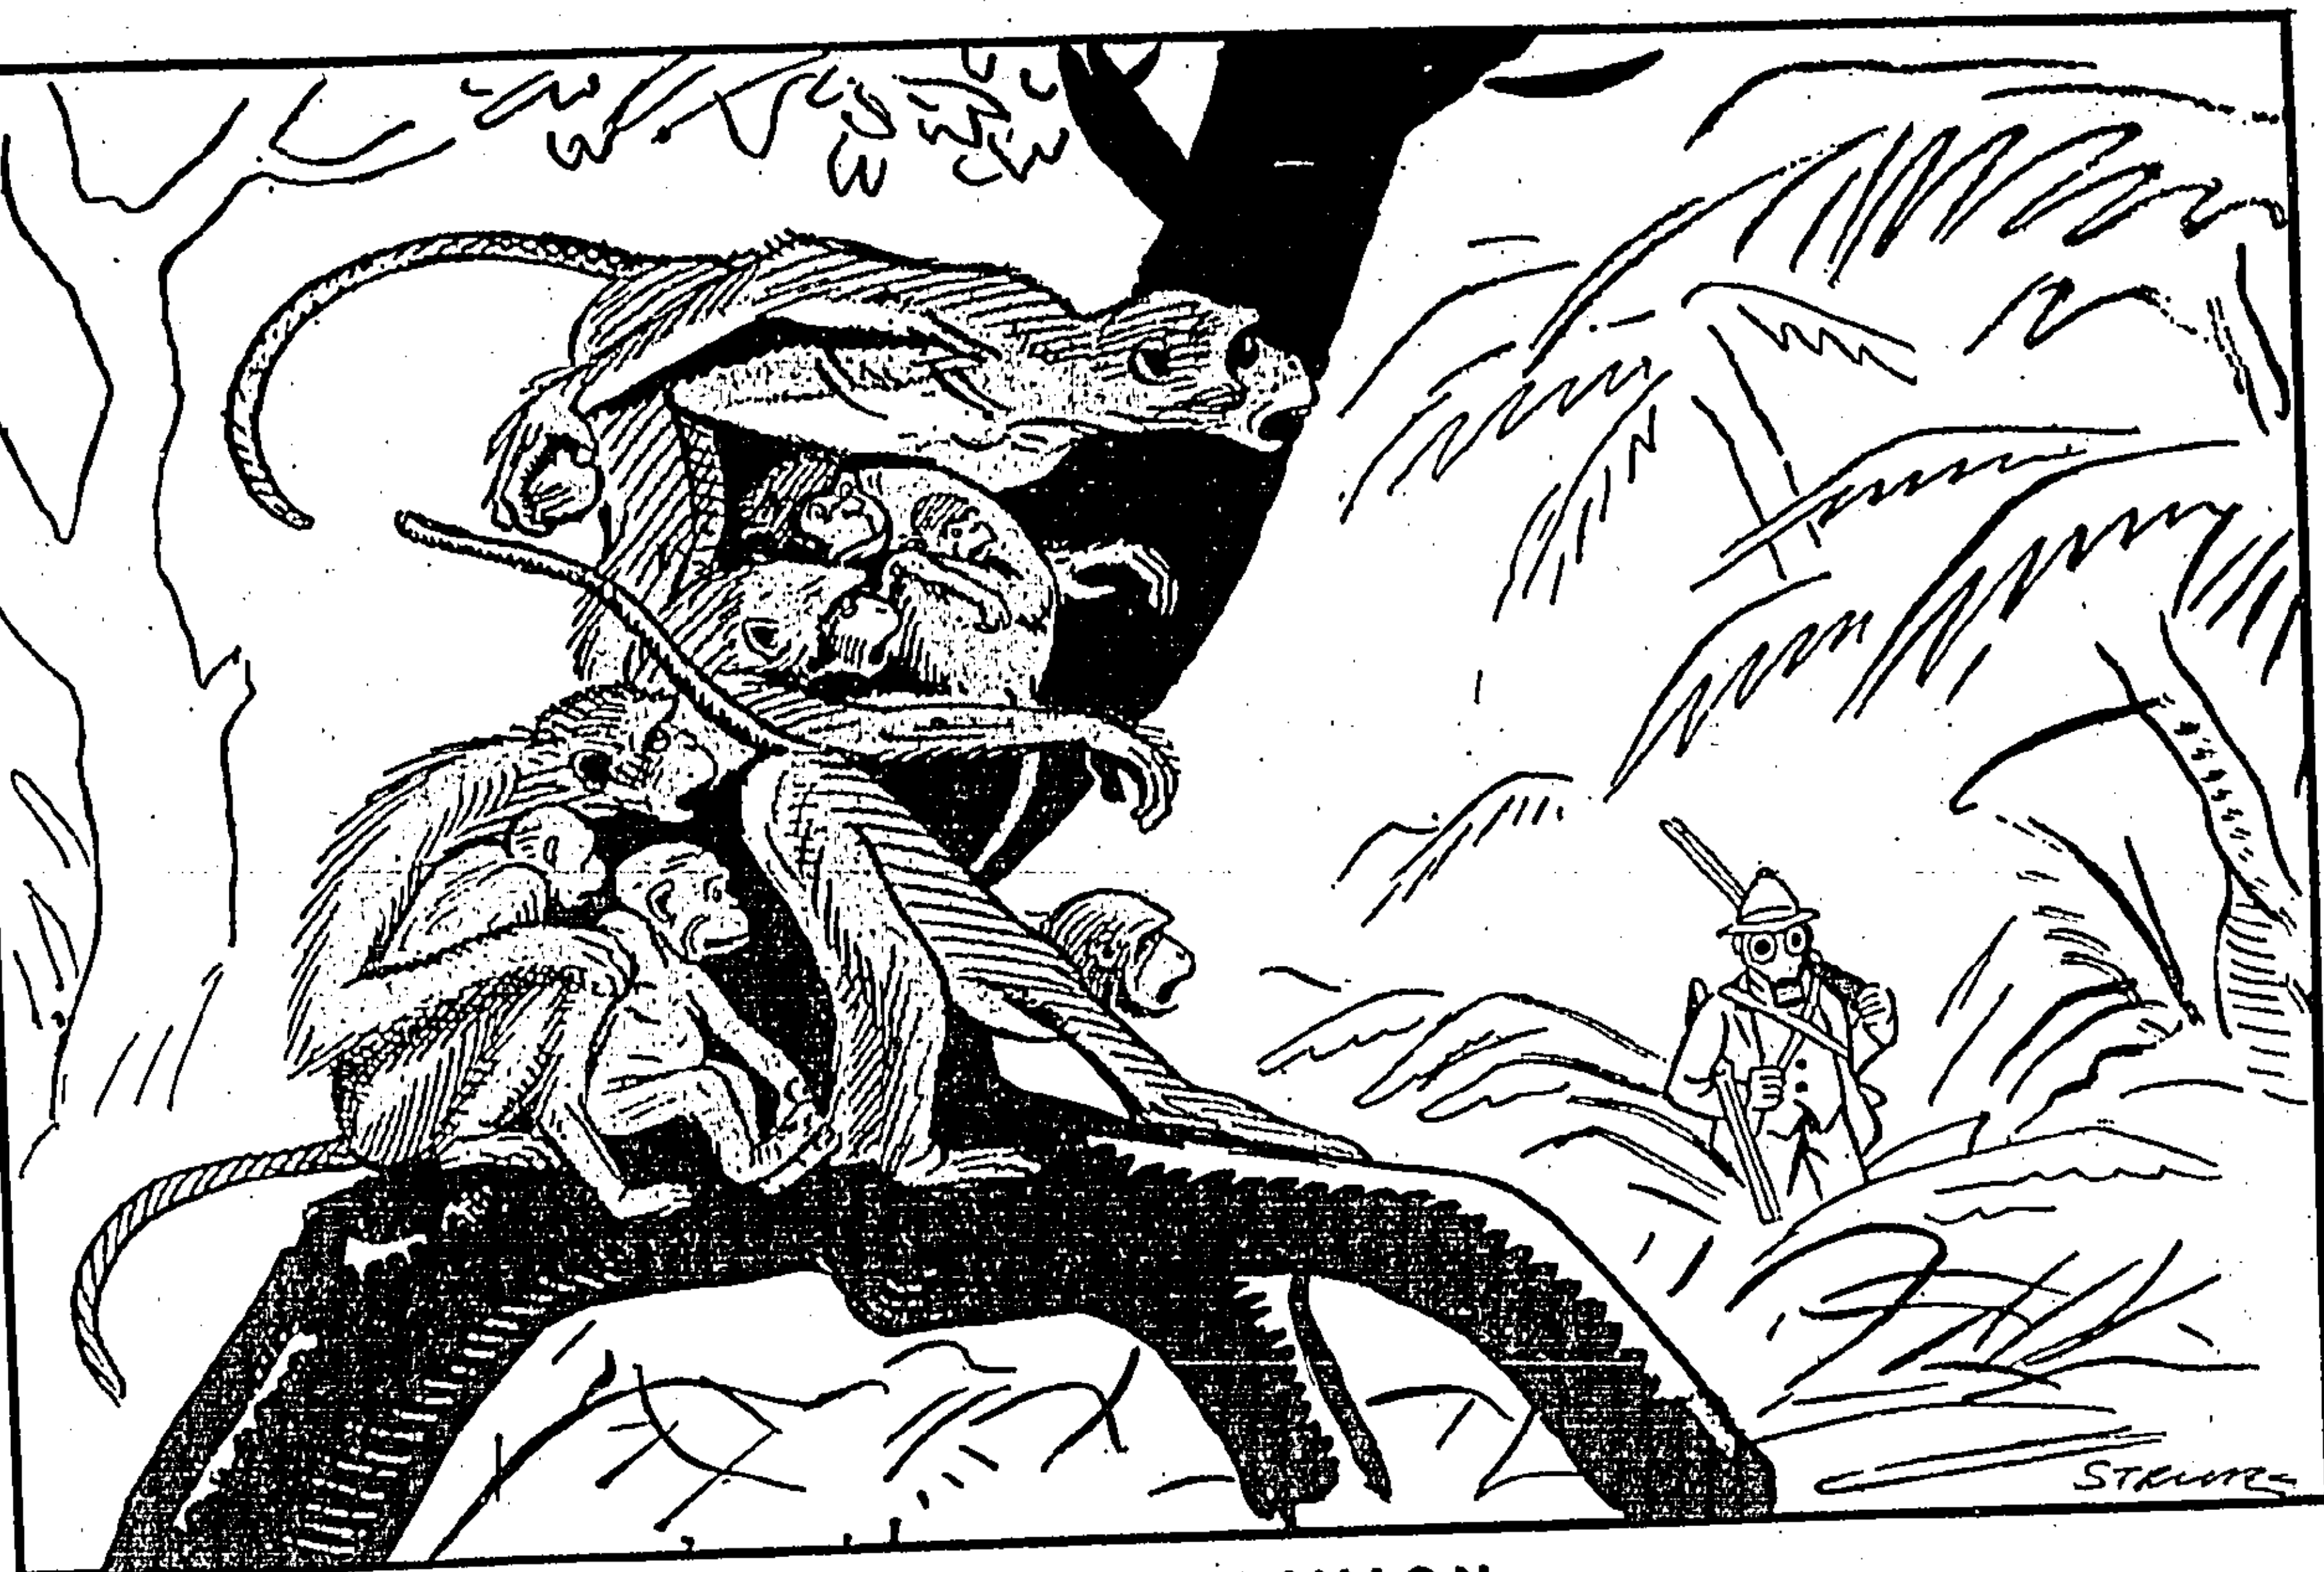

Fall Spells Danger

BARCELONA'S fall will spell danger to Europe. France may end the non-intervention farce and pour materials and men to aid Loyalist defences starved by that policy. What justification would there be for such action. None—no more justification than there is for Italian and German interference.

But proponents of intervention argue, with justice, that the criminal danger to the peace of Europe caused by intervention in the Spanish civil war has been brought about, not by threats of French intervention, but by the actuality of Italian and German interference.

Had the totalitarians let Spain fight her own battles, or had they honoured their pledge of non-intervention, the question of intervention on the side of the Loyalists would certainly not have arisen now.

JUNGLE OPINION

LORD FORBES

AS the wheels of the Air France liner touched down on Barcelona's airport I wondered what kind of four days I was to spend in Government Spain.

If it is anything like insurgent propaganda would have us believe, then a visit of four days will be all too long. Well, your correspondent stayed fourteen days with no complaints.

He searched for the disorder, the murders, and the vandalism that the insurgents accuse the Spanish Government of. He found none. In Barcelona life appeared to be going on more or less undisturbed by the war. In the streets both men and women looked well dressed.

Law and order was everywhere enforced. Even at night, when there are no street lights for fear of air raids, there are no hold-ups. In the dark I walked from one end of Barcelona to the other. Not once was I molested.

The chief discomfort in Barcelona life is the lack of food. Lunch and dinner in the best hotel consist of beans, a piece of fish, or a very morsel of meat if you are very lucky, some figs, and a small ration of bread.

Fish is generally served after the bombardment of the port by the insurgents. The bombs exploding in the water kill the fish. These, at once float to the top, and the local fishermen have an easy catch.

In Barcelona there is plenty of money, but nothing to buy with it. The Government maintain a rate of 100 pesetas to the pound, while in France 1,000 pesetas can be purchased for a pound. Workmen and Government officials are well paid.

THE Government of Dr. Negrin is of a Radical-Socialist character. It is certainly not Red. An English National Government in time of war would differ little from Negrin's Administration.

His Government has the support of the more extreme elements. They realise that now it is no longer the moment for politics, but to get together and win

the war. This represents the spirit of Government Spain.

The Englishman in Spain is constantly asked one question in the politest way: "Will you please explain to us the English policy of non-intervention?" The Spaniards bitterly resent this law. They are puzzled by the apparent injustice of the policy.

There is no answer to be given. At once if an attempt at justification is made—"Look at the Italian planes that bombed us this morning. Yesterday we captured a German sergeant pilot. He told us that he had been ordered to come here by his Government. We are not allowed even to buy arms, although we are willing to pay. If we lose the war, it will be on England's head."

AFTER a week spent in Barcelona I flew to Madrid. I found Madrid reminiscing. The people were remembering the grim days of two years ago, when it seemed certain that Franco and his Moors would enter the city. Mothers recollected their fears that the Moors would kill their children.

Comparisons are heard of the militia army of yesterday and the Republican army of to-day. In the early days of the war, two years ago, the defence of the city was in the hands of the trade unions and the ill-trained militia. Disorder was rife. It was as likely as not that your own side would shoot you by mistake.

Murders which in fact were based on personal hate were made in the name of the Republic. It was a hardy man who ventured into the streets in the early days of the war, especially after dark.

The trenches on the Madrid front were amateurish affairs. They were not deep enough to provide adequate cover. The army had no officers.

To-day in Madrid there is law and order. The Government are strong. The offender against the law is punished. The streets are clean. Life goes on as normally as possible under siege conditions. The shops are open, the tramways run. Wherever it has been possible the Government have attempted to restore the results of vandalism done in the early days of the war.

They are also taking steps to preserve the statues of the city against shelling and bombardment. Even the statue of the ex-King's father has been provided with an air raid shelter. There is no wanton wreckage going on now in this city. This war is too severe for anything but a constructive regime.

While in Madrid I stayed at the Ritz Hotel. This was once a hospital, but has now been returned to its former owners. My room possessed all Ritz Hotel dignity except glass in the windows and hot water in the bathroom. An inspection of the facade outside my window indicated the reason for the lack of glass.

THE night of my arrival in the nation's capital the insurgents presented us with a two-hour shell session. Shells fell over a large area of the city. Most of them were directed at Madrid's Oxford-street, the Gran Via, now known as the Street of Death. The shelling of Madrid has no military significance. It is directed purely at civil population.

BRITISH CRUISER'S DRAMATIC RADIO TO LONDON—'BARCELONA FALL NEAR'

DESTROYER TAKES BRITISH REFUGEES TO MARSEILLES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Copyright by United Press Association Telecommunications Ordinance, 1929. Received 7.45 a.m. Published 12.15 p.m.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
WITH THE INSURGENT VANGUARD ALREADY ENGAGED IN STREET FIGHTING AMIDST THE RUINS OF THE FIRST HOUSES IN BARCELONA PROPER, WHICH THEY REACHED AT 10.20 P.M. ON TUESDAY NIGHT (6.20 A.M. YESTERDAY H.K.T.) THE IMMINENT FALL OF THE ENTIRE CITY NOW APPEARS CERTAIN.

Confirmation for this was given early this morning by the British cruiser Devonshire, which has wirelessed the Admiralty in London that "the fall of Barcelona is imminent."

The laconic message from the Devonshire, which is at Caudet, contains nothing additional, except that the British Minister, Mr. R. C. S. Stevenson, still refuses to leave Barcelona, despite repeated urgings.

The British Consul-General, Mr. D. J. Rogers is also remaining at Barcelona for the present.

COMMUNICATIONS SEVERED

Meanwhile Barcelona's communications with the outside world, except for Government and military messages, were virtually cut off this morning.

The wireless and cable facilities have been taken over by the Barcelona military authorities, after which commercial and press communications were suspended.

The sole telephone line from Barcelona to France is theoretically still functioning, but with indefinite delays, indicating that it is being used almost exclusively for Government business.—United Press.

DESTROYER HAD NARROW ESCAPE

MARSEILLES, Jan. 25.
THE BRITISH destroyer Greyhound, arriving from Barcelona landed in Marseilles to-day with ten employees and their families of the British Embassy staff.

The Embassy staff has remained in Spain, and is at present in Gerona.

Regarding the situation in Barcelona, the refugees stated that the thunder of guns had been getting nearer, and conditions had become, from day to day, more critical.

Insurgent air raids had caused great damage, and several ships in the harbour had been sunk. Even the Greyhound had had a narrow escape from bombs.

Barcelona's air defences are described as being not particularly efficient, apparently owing to lack of material and munition. Opinion was expressed that the city would only be able to hold out for a brief period.

The destroyer also brought part of the archives of the British Embassy from Spain, which were immediately forwarded to London.—Trans-Ocean.

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
The Spanish Loyalist Ministers, with leading members of their staffs have left Barcelona, and arrived this morning at Gerona, which is the only Catalan provincial capital not occupied by the insurgents, or within range of their guns.

According to despatches received here, President Azana, the deputy ministers for foreign affairs are not among the refugees in Gerona.

The Foreign Minister, Senor Alvarez Del Vayo, who was accompanied by his wife, left Paris on Tuesday night, and is expected to reach Gerona some time to-day.—Trans-Ocean.

FRANC'S LORRIES LOADED WITH FOOD
Thousands of lorries loaded with food are waiting near Barcelona to follow General Franco's troops into the city, says a Burgos message.

Severe control is being exercised to prevent a large influx of refugees from other provinces, and only those with special passes will be allowed to enter the city. Only those with to prevent a large influx of refugees relatives there will be allowed to stay.

As soon as possible, refugees will be sent to the provinces from where they have fled. Civil guards will patrol the city, and the people will be ordered to resume their jobs. The banks will open immediately, and the hospitals will receive fresh equipment.

The personnel of the Town Council has already been appointed on paper, which will take to work immediately.—Reuter.

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
Supplies of gas, water and electric current have ceased in various parts of Barcelona, according to refugees arriving here from the Catalan capital.

The roads from Barcelona to the French frontier are reported to be blocked by an incessant stream of motor cars, as well as all other kinds of vehicles.

The railway service has been completely suspended.—Trans-Ocean.

INSURGENT BOMBER'S CRASH IN FRANCE

Three German Pilots Were Aboard

PARIS, Jan. 25.
DURING A snowstorm this morning, a Spanish insurgent bomber crashed on French territory, near Arrens in the Pyrenees.

The crew of two officers and three men were killed. Three of them had tried to land with parachutes, which failed to open in the storm.

The machine was a German made three-engined Heinkel plane, armed with two machine guns.—Trans-Ocean.

Paris, Jan. 25.
A coded notebook, with a complete plan of the Pyrenees, marked in German was found among the wreckage of the insurgent bomber which crashed at Arrens.

Papers found on four of the five victims suggested that they were three Germans and one Spaniard. They were wearing insurgent uniforms.

The plane was a German Heinkel, and it is thought to be one which was engaged in a fight last night with a Loyalist plane near the French village of Formigueras, 15 miles north of the Spanish frontier.—Reuter Special.

LAST TRAIN ARRIVES

Perpignan, Jan. 25.
The last train from Barcelona reached the frontier to-day carrying over 200 women and children, who had eaten nothing for two days.

Another train tried to leave Barcelona this morning, but the line was so heavily bombed that it had to return.

While the refugee train was waiting at the frontier station, four Savola planes flew over. The refugees, their nerves shattered by days of starvation and strain, fled for the shelter of the darkened subway.

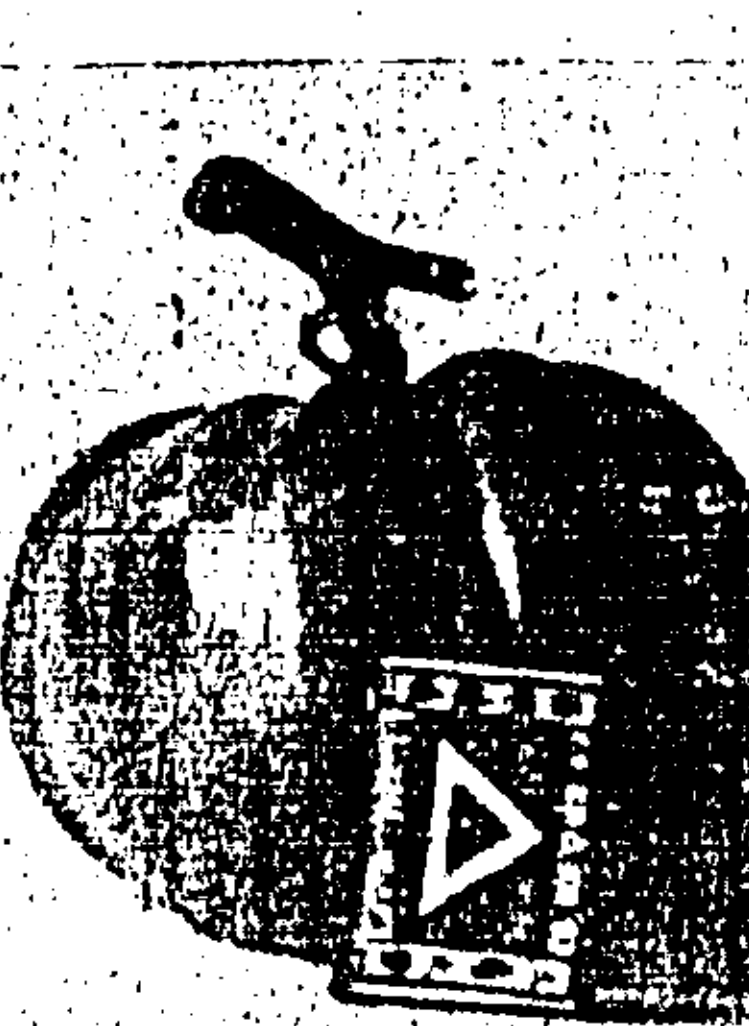

Insurgent aircraft was very active to-day flying all over the roads and railways, bombing and machine-gunning the congestions of traffic.

Travelers with fleeing militiamen are reported to be arriving at different points on the French coast, and being captured by the gendarmerie.—Reuter.

VICTORY ASSURED IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, Jan. 25.
"CHINA WILL eventually emerge victor in the present Sino-Japanese conflict."

This dominating conviction, which forms the guiding force of the Chinese people in their supreme struggle against Japanese aggression, was once more forcefully expressed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in his opening speech before the fifth plenary session of the Central Executive Committee to-day. General Chiang, in his capacity as Chief Executive of the Kuomintang, told the C.E.C. members that from purely factual grounds, he was able to foretell the eventual collapse of Japanese aggrandizement and the final prevalence of the Chinese cause. The Generalissimo pointed out that China's only course was to strengthen her resistance for a final and decisive struggle; any suggestion of halfway compromise or submission must never be countenanced.

JAPAN'S IMPOSSIBLE TASK

From a searching study of China's history, geography, and culture and her racial spirit and economic strength, the Generalissimo said, there is unshakable basis for believing the impossibility of a Japanese victory. Where it is impossible for Japan to win, it will be equally impossible for China to lose.

The Generalissimo saw in Japan a nation which has run its military, political and diplomatic courses against the rock. Entirely unaware of the mighty Chinese racial and historical background, without any understanding of the characteristics of China's revolutionary growth under modern conditions, Japan had twice to deviate from the course of her pre-determined continental policy and is now foundering in a mire of deplorable opportunism.

Militarily General Chiang declared, the strategy of the Japanese army has been one failure after another. The Generalissimo believed that the Japanese military have never been able truthfully to gauge their own strength and the strength of the Chinese. The result is a hopeless game of gambling, driving an unwieldy and ineffective machinery deeper and deeper but more and more hopelessly into hostile territory.

MANIPULATIONS OF PUPPETS

The military failure of the Japanese was paired off by the founting of Japanese political agents' designs and machinations. Generalissimo Chiang pointed out. The manipulation of puppets and employment of traitors, far from achieving the desired object, tend merely to help the growth of canker which is finding root in the Japanese military machinery and quicken its rot.

Adding to military and political failures are diplomatic difficulties which place Japan more and more in an isolated position in international politics, General Chiang said.

Generalissimo Chiang said he was convinced that the tendency of international relations is towards justice and peace with the Democracies justly strengthening their determination and resources for staging a final show-down against world brigandage.

UPHILL BATTLE

General Chiang emphasized that China has hitherto her wagon to the beckoning star of international justice and righteousness and will march unflinchingly on towards her goal. China, he promised, will stick to the last of her policy of resistance. China, the Generalissimo declared, is fighting an uphill battle for her own preservation and for East and World peace and justice. This cause for self-preservation and world vindication must prevail in the long run. With every assurance of victory, vouchsafed for, however, it behoves every member of the Party to

Socialist Appeal To Democracy

LONDON, Jan. 25.

OFFICIALS OF the Labour and Socialist International, and the International Federation of Trade Unions, including the Secretary of the French Trade Union Congress, M. Jouhaux, and the Belgian Secretary, M. Debrouckers, held a secret conference at Transport House, Westminster on Tuesday night, to consider the situation in Spain.

They sat for four hours, and then unanimously passed a resolution appealing to the Democracies of the world, even at the last moment, to rally to save the Spanish Government.

It is understood that the resolution is the strongest yet issued by the International Labour movement.

NEW YORK PARADE
Simultaneously a New York message reports that 5,000 paraded Times Square chanting "Lift the Spanish Embargo". There were no disorders, but extra police were required to control traffic, as the demonstration was held at the same time people were pouring out of the theatres.—United Press.

BRITAIN SEEKS ASSURANCES

LONDON, Jan. 25.
The British Government has instructed the acting agent in Burgos, Mr. Cecil Jerram, to convey to the insurgent Government the hope that General Franco's troops will abstain from committing acts of vengeance in the Catalan regions occupied by them, as such acts would create a most unfavourable impression in Great Britain.

It is stated that the British acting agent received the assurance that "acts of violence and reprisals would be incompatible with the character of General Franco and with the aims pursued by him."

The British Minister in Barcelona, Mr. Ralph Stevenson, has made a similar demarche and called the attention of the Loyalist authorities to the question of the maintenance of public order in the event of an evacuation of Barcelona by the Loyalist troops and officials, with special reference to the position of the political prisoners in that city who are estimated to number about 2,000. Mr. Stevenson was given the assurance that every possible measure would be taken to ensure the maintenance of order and the safety of the prisoners.

The personnel of the British Minister's staff who is remaining in Barcelona for the time being has been reduced to a minimum.—Trans-Ocean.

"SPEND MORE" PLEA

Washington, Jan. 25.
Mr. Marriner S. E. Board, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, made a strong defence on the question of public spending. He reiterated that the United States could not be impoverished by borrowing from itself.—United Press.

strengthen his determination to fight and confidence to win, Generalissimo Chiang admonished. When every member understands himself, the enemy, and the absolute development of circumstances and state of affairs, the Generalissimo said, he would certainly clearly see the final outcome of the present war.

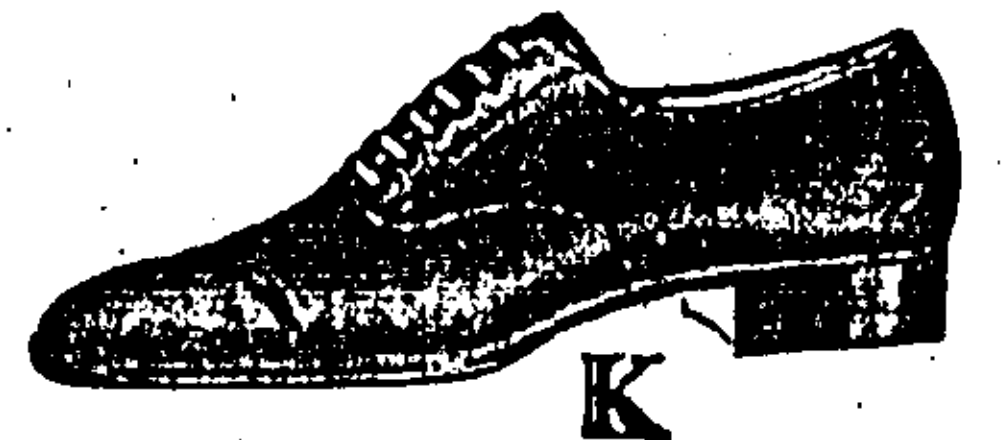

UNITY AND HARMONY

The Generalissimo said from now on China's efforts should be directed against the weaknesses of the enemy. Against the concealed, swashbuckling, disunited and top-heavy Japanese, China will show unity and harmony against the weakness of industrial Japan. China will develop her agricultural stability and spirit of thrift; into the dangers of Japan's impending social collapse China will add a catalyst by hastening her own wartime reconstruction, utilizing her climatic and geographical advantages; and as a contrast to the brutal militarism of Japan China will enforce faithfully the late Party Leader's Three Principles. Concluding, the Generalissimo said every member should clearly realize the tremendous task of the Party as a whole and the members as individuals, and fight to the last for the achievement of the supreme and final goal of the revolution.—Central News.

OBSTRUCTION LAWOBSTRUCTION LAW IS TOO OFTEN

Triangular Tournay

(By "The Pilgrim").

The Royal Navy are still unable to touch the vein of success and again suffered defeat yesterday in the Triangular Hockey Tournament, losing to the Club at King's Park by 4-3. They provided the civilians with their second win in the Tournament.

It was a hard and fast game, and though the Navy made a fight of it, the finer phases of combination always came from the Club attack where S. Fowler, T. Whitley and B. I. Bickford were in the limelight.

Ten minutes after the start, Withworth sent Woods through to score for an early lead for the Navy, but eleven minutes later, during an inspired Club attack, Bickford equalized with a grand goal.

The Club attack maintained the pressure and though the Navy halved were in fine fettle, especially with the pivot, further goals were added through S. Fowler and Pontius. Club did most of the attacking at this stage and kept their 3-1 lead up to the interval.

In the second half, Navy started with a rush, and within three minutes, Medd reduced the deficit. The Navy forwards still continued their virile play and Miller a few minutes later brought the teams on level terms when he evaded Lowe and Schnabel by sheer speed down the left wing.

WINNING GOAL

The Club in turn made several vigorous attacks and from a territorial point of view seemed to be enjoying the best of the exchanges. W. A. Reed, at centre-half, well supported by N. Whitley on his left, displayed tireless energy in assisting the attack, and with only ten minutes to go, Bickford found the net with a first-timer off a pass from T. Whitley.

Medd, Woods and Miller, during the closing stages, made praiseworthy efforts to equalise, but E. V. Reed and Schnabel responded with sound defensive control. With a right half, with Steele-Perkins behind him, did the bulk of the Navy's defensive work, but the forwards were never able to get the better of the home defence.

On investigation I was surprised to learn last Sunday that there is no Civilian Representative on the Selection Committee.

Mr. G. T. Palmer was originally chosen by the Association, but resigned on transfer to Canton. A civilian should have been nominated to take his place at the last meeting, which was held on January 5, but for some reason unknown to me, this was not done.

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Hockey Association is a civilian, but he acts ex-officio and therefore a civilian representative is necessary under the rules.

I hope the Secretary will on Sunday co-opt a second civilian to assist him on the Selection Committee. Players will be more satisfied if this is done.

More Attention Should
Be Paid To The Matter

The Obstruction Rule is one of the most important Rules governing the game of hockey and is often abused by players. The laxity of umpires in dealing with it has, to a certain extent, contributed towards the failure of local players to play the best type of game.

The Rule reads:—
"A player shall not obstruct by running in between an opponent and the ball... nor shall he interpose himself, or his stick, in any way as an obstruction to an opponent... nor attack from an opponent's left unless he touches the ball before he touches the stick or person of his opponent. There shall be no charging, kicking, shoving, tripping, or striking at, or holding an opponent by any means whatsoever."

The rule is perfectly clear, and if you think it over, you will find that it can be summarised as follows:—
"Obstruction means depriving your opponent, by the unfair use of your person, of an equal chance of hitting the ball."

That is the essence and spirit of the whole rule. It can be put in another way:—
"A player must not gain an advantage by the unfair use of his body, foot, hand or stick."

If players would only read the rule or seriously reflect on the summaries I have provided, their hockey would improve and they would not be liable to commit this great fault of obstruction.

NEVER ELIMINATED
It has been said that "obstruction" will never be completely eliminated from our game because of the "human element," but much can be done to obviate it. Players often accuse an umpire because he is strict and blame him for spoiling the play, but isn't it the other way round? Aren't the players themselves to blame?

By their ignorance or wilfulness, they create breaches of the rules which the dutiful umpire must penalise. Those umpires who have had a good deal of experience will tell you that rough games develop from obstruction.

READ THE RULE
Read this rule through carefully once again and do not try to look innocent next time you are penalised. Watch other teams playing and you will find that obstruction is often caused by:—

1. Over-eagerness to get the ball.
2. Going for it unnecessarily hard.
3. Doing anything to get the ball.
4. Doing anything to prevent an opponent getting to it.

GOAL-KEEPERS' FAULTS
The goal-keeper can be just as guilty of obstruction as any other player, and he must be penalised like the rest of the players. However, he often "gets away" with the following:—

1. Charging roughly into an attacking forward.

2. Running out between an attacker and the ball and so preventing the attacker from reaching it before it crosses the goal-line.

3. Running out to meet an attacker and then opening his legs and letting the ball go through.

4. Pretending to kick the ball, but really standing in the way of the attacker so that the only way the attacker can get to the ball is to "run through him."

REVERSE STICK PLAY

Dribbling the ball on the left side with the reverse stick often leads to obstruction. This is a common fault with left wingers. It is very difficult to tackle a player of this type from the right side because he is often guilty of obstruction, i.e. placing his body between his opponent and the ball.

Players running towards the side-line with the ball should watch out that they do not place their bodies between the ball and the opponent who is tackling. In a roll-in, if players find themselves facing the goal they are defending then there is every likelihood of their obstructing an opponent.

1. Must not run in between his opponent and the ball.
2. Must touch the ball before he makes contact or touches the other player in any way at all (Note: This form of tackling can only be done satisfactorily by using the left hand; using the right hand nearly always causes obstruction.)

3. Must not charge into his dispossessed opponent. I would like to remind readers that "obstruction" does not necessarily depend on the distance of the players from the ball, and "turning on the ball" does not constitute a breach unless an opponent has thereby been obstructed in an attempt to play the ball.

All the above players are requested to be on the ground by that time with one coloured and one white shirt.

What Last Sunday's
Hockey Trial Taught
Selection Committee
"Pilgrim" Picks A Team To
Meet Macao Next Month

The first Interport hockey trial, which took place last Sunday, proved to be fast, well-played and of great help to the Selection Committee. Amongst those who had the opportunity of showing what they could do were Ribeiro, Kempton, D. Smith, Taylor and R. Marques.

Though these players did not, on this one trial, justify their inclusion in the Hongkong team, they did well enough to satisfy most critics that their chances will come later on. In the second half, the Colours were naturally supposed to be the stronger XI, but it was really the fine opportunist play of W. A. Reed, at centre-half, and Lieut. Hook, at right half, which gave them the victory.

Malik, who seems destined to fill the left-half position in the Colony team once again, was far from outstanding; he is not showing the same form and does not seem to possess the same stamina as he did last year. I don't condemn his play for a moment, but there is another player as good as, if not better than, Malik. His name is Norman Whitley, the Club and C.B.A. left-half.

This young player has shown consistently good form since his return from Home leave, and I would like to see him given a trial next Sunday.

THE FULL BACKS

V. Bond and G. Sommer formed a fine pair of backs for the Whites in the first half, but the latter was rather slow with his recovery and had the inclination to use his hand when stopping the ball—a very dangerous practice against a fast-moving attack.

I would suggest that J. Gonsalves, who also gave a sound display for the Colours, partner Bond in the next trial. Bond would probably be better at left back, with Gonsalves at right. They are both young, fast and untiring in their play.

A TICKLISH PROBLEM

In the first half, what seemed the Interport attack was opposed to the Interport defence. They were S. Fowler, Pritam Nath, Kennedy, Nerain Singh and Partab. The result was a goalless draw. I am of the opinion that the attack could be better equipped and more penetrative in its power. This does not apply to the flanks where abundant speed, dash and resource was revealed, but to the centre position, which was not very satisfactory. Kennedy, as leader, did well only in the second period and the reason was that he had the probable defence behind him. He was too often tackled when in possession. Neither did Pritam Nath shine at inside right. Kennedy did quite well, but he was inclined

INTERPORT SIDE FOR GAME AGAINST
MALAYA TEAM*Ship Movements Deprive

(By "Fly-Half").

In trial games, it is always difficult to write a detailed word for word story of play and in my opinion these games serve only as a try-out for a probable team, giving the players a chance to play together. Hence I will not criticise yesterday's play but rather the players.

D. H. Taylor of the Police proved to be yesterday's big surprise. He has not played rugby for the last two seasons and yet was always capable of beating his man. A pleasing thing about his play was the fact that he was very seldom tackled in possession.

Stewart, the other wing three, performed creditably and certainly went hard for the corner flag. Grieve was not so active as usual. Askwith displayed his usual nippiness and generally instigated attacking movements. Talbot and Henderson both played well at scrum-half although Elliot was not nearly so happy playing with Henderson as with Talbot. MacGrath was the better of the full-backs. His tackling was very effective.

Anderson played a good all-round game amongst the forwards and it is a pity that he will be out of port during the Colony v. Malaya match. Talbot and Darling will also be away and the Colony side will be the poorer.

Cuthbertson, Crawford, Watson, Redman and Griffiths were other forwards to show up well.

SIDE CHOSEN
The Colony side has now been picked and is as follows:

Stevens (Navy); Bldwell (Club), Grieve (Club), Askwith (Navy), Stewart (Club); Elliot (Navy) and Henderson (Club); Cuthbertson (Army), Salter (Club), Watson (Club), Feers (Club), Walkden (Club), Griffiths (Navy), Taylor (Club) and Crawford (Army).

Very little criticism can be made of this team under the circumstances. It is to be regretted that movements of I.M. Ships have deprived the side of some very strong players.

IT'S SWEET AND SAUCY

—but it adds extra flavour to puddings & cakes

When you've eaten the ginger, use the syrup to flavour the sauce.

YOU can add a luxury touch to a plain steamed pudding by serving it with a simple sweet sauce, such as banana or chocolate, two favourite flavours with the younger members of the family.

Father, who's very partial to marmalade pudding, will like it with a sauce of that name, while Mother and the grown-up daughter will find the flavour of vanilla in hard Alpine sauce very tempting.

To-day, as this is the season of warm puddings, I am giving recipes for sweet sauces. Just two rules first. To be successful, sauce must be smooth and creamy (no hard lumps, please), and—be sparing with the flavouring. An over-flavoured sauce is worse than a tasteless one, you will agree.

Chocolate Favourite

Now to start with something everyone likes—chocolate sauce. It's delicious with a plain, steamed pudding, as with a chocolate one.

Ingredients: 1/2oz. unsweetened chocolate, 1oz. butter, 1oz. cornflour, 1/2 gills water, 1/2 teasp. vanilla essence, 2/3oz. sugar, a pinch of salt.

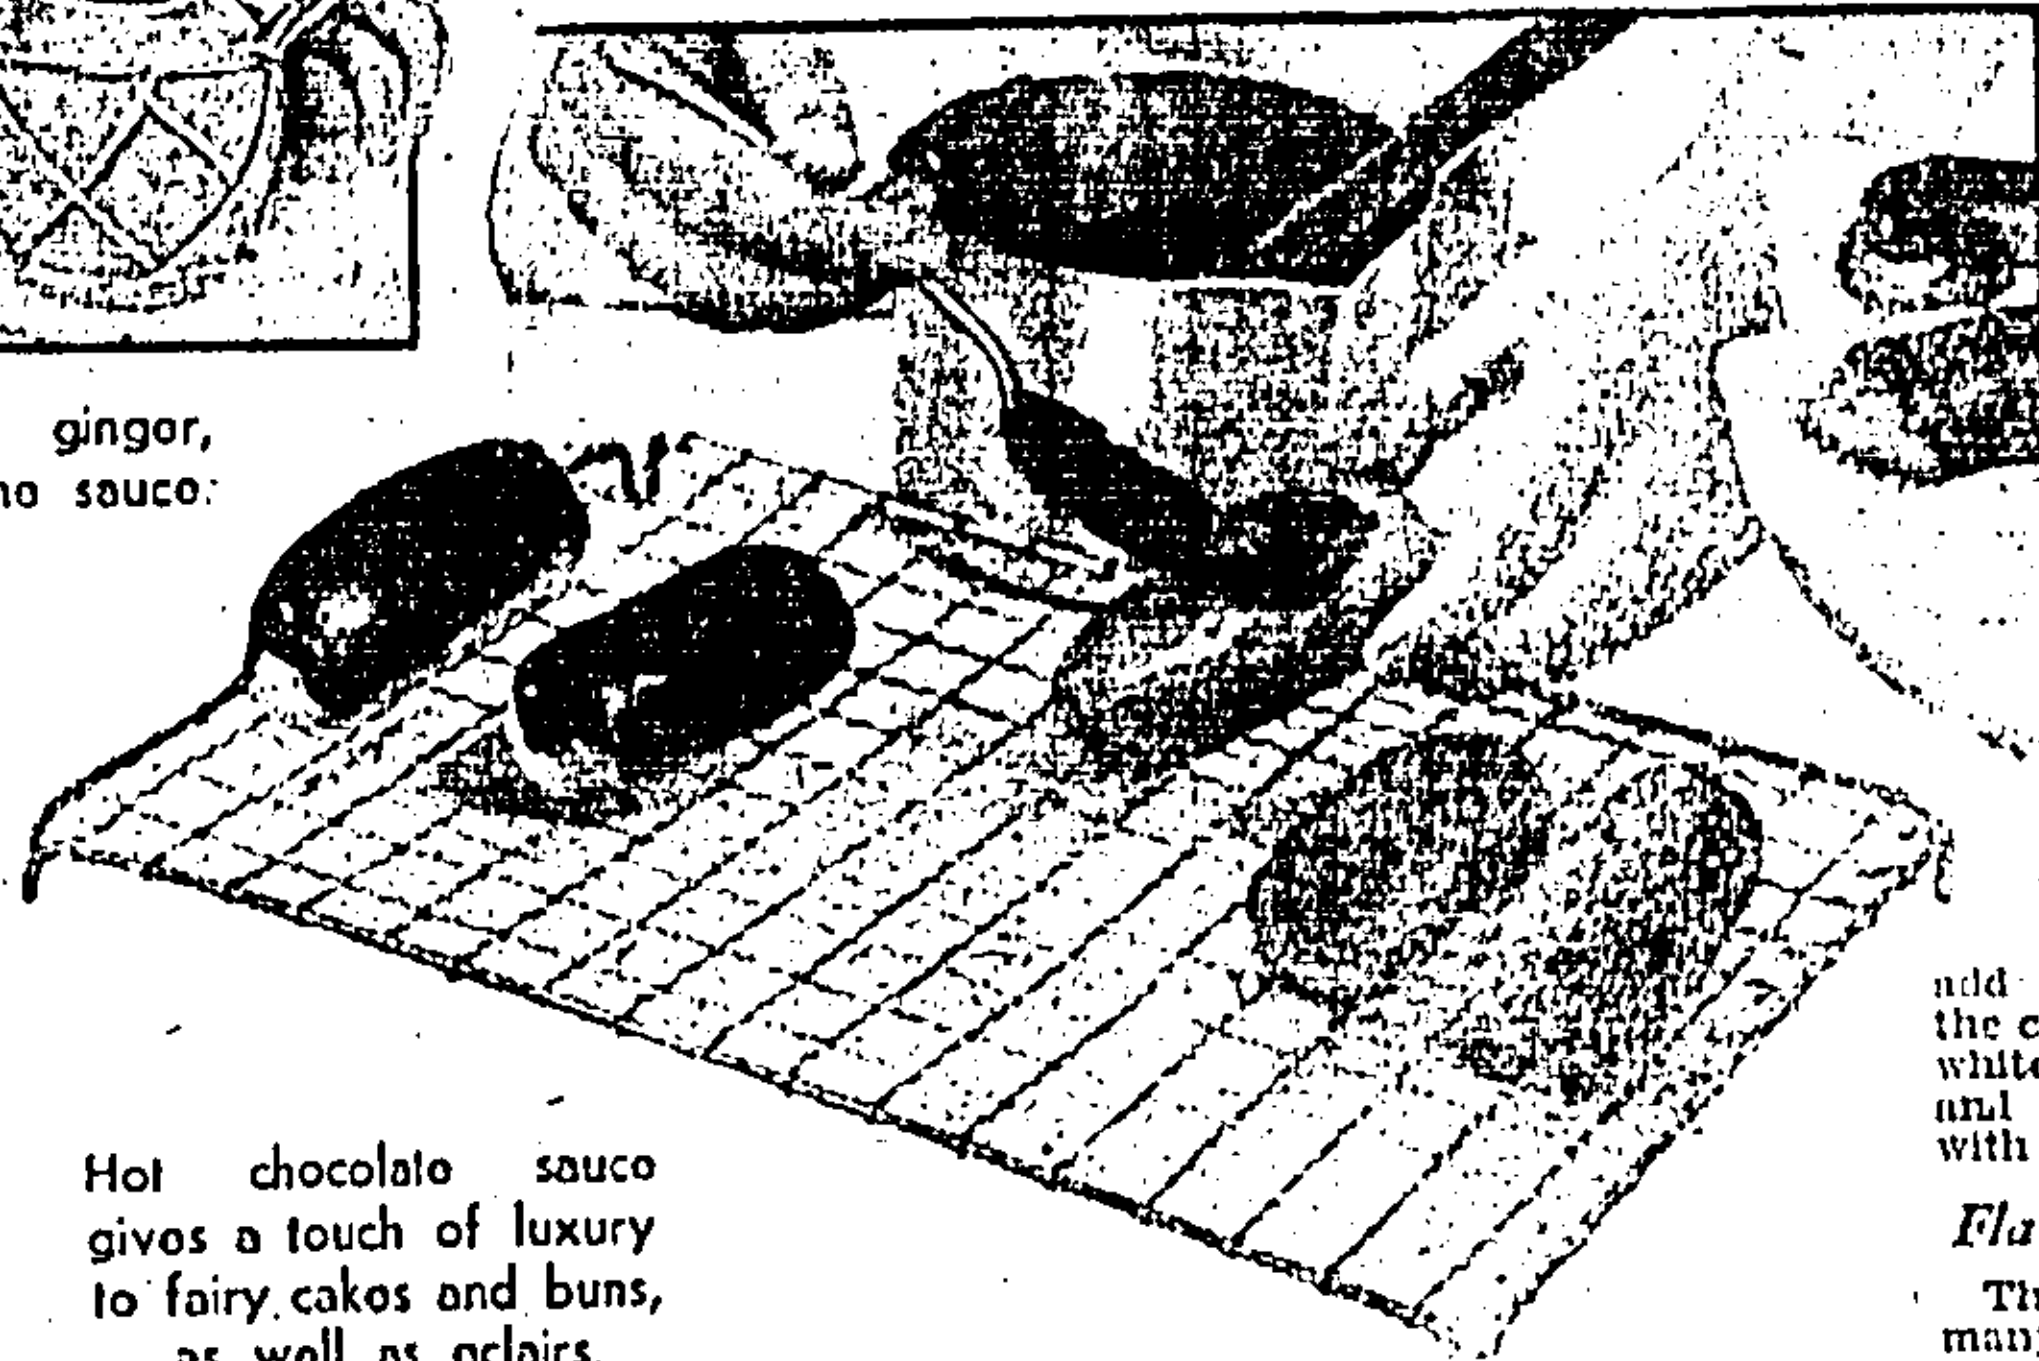

Break up the chocolate, add not quite half the water, and dissolve over a gentle heat. Blend the cornflour with a little of the water, add the salt, and boil the rest of the water.

Pour on to the cornflour, stir, and return to saucepan. Add butter, chocolate and sugar, and boil and stir for 6 minutes, then add vanilla.

Party Finish
The warm chocolate sauce used for icing cakes will make party affairs out of little fairy cakes if a spoonful is spread on the top, and silver hundreds and thousands sprinkled over. The recipe is easy.

Dissolve a bar of chocolate in a basin over boiling water. Meanwhile, boil 2oz. loaf sugar and half a teacupful of water together for five minutes.

Stir into the melted chocolate until this is a good coating consistency, then add two or three drops of vanilla essence. Use at once.

Hot chocolate sauce gives a touch of luxury to fairy cakes and buns, as well as oclairs.

Coconut Surprise

For a change coconut sauce is sure to make a hit. Ingredients: 1oz. butter, 1oz. flour, about 1 pint milk, 2oz. desiccated coconut, 1/2 teasp. vanilla essence, 1 egg (optional), juice of 1/2 lemon, 1 dessertsp. cream or custard, 1oz. sugar.

Melt butter in a small pan, add flour and pinch of salt, and cook for a minute. Stir in milk gradually and bring to boil. Boil for 5 minutes, stirring constantly.

Cool, stir in the egg yolk, coconut, sugar and lemon juice, reheat. Add the vanilla essence and cream or custard and, lastly, the desiccated coconut. Mix the flour gradually, then add the milk, and stir until it smokes. Boil and stir for a few minutes until thickened.

Brandy Sauce

We must not forget the brandy sauce for the Christmas pudding.

Ingredients: 1/2 pint milk, 1 teasp. cornflour, 2 teasp. brandy, 1 yolk of egg, half a small wineglass of brandy, a pinch of salt.

Mix cornflour with a little of the cold milk, add the salt, boil the rest of the milk, and pour on to cornflour. Add the sugar, bring to the boil, and boil for 5 minutes.

Allow to cool, add the egg yolk, reheat, stir in the brandy, and serve. The egg yolk may be omitted.

With Marmalade

Easy as A B C, and made with 1 teasp. marmalade, 2 tablesp. brown sugar, 1 pint water.

Boil sugar and water together for 10 minutes, stir in the marmalade.

Apricot Flavour

Served with dried apricot pudding, to make this doubly tempting.

Ingredients: Three tablesp. apricot jam, 2oz. sugar, 1 teasp. cornflour, a pinch of salt, 1/2 gills water.

Boil jam, sugar and water together; blend the cornflour with a little cold water, add the salt, then mix with the jam, etc., and stir and boil for 5 minutes. Strain and serve.

Alpine Sauce

A deliciously flavoured sauce, thick and creamy. Ingredients: 1oz. margarine, 1/2oz. icing sugar, 3 tablesp. thick cream (made from 1 pint milk and 1/2lb. Stork unflavoured margarine), 3 egg whites, pinch of salt, vanilla essence to taste.

To make the thick cream, warm the milk and unflavoured margarine together in a saucepan until the margarine is melted. Cool the mixture to bloodheat and beat with a fork to mix thoroughly.

Pour it into a cream machine and spritz it through steadily, with a quick hand stroke, raising the handle as high as possible.

The cream should be thick and even as it comes through the machine. It begins to run through too quickly, and is too thin, warm the mixture slightly, stir well again and pump harder.

Cream the 1oz. margarine, add the icing sugar gradually, then the cream and mix well. Beat the egg white with a pinch of salt until stiff and fold into the mixture. Flavour with vanilla.

Flavour to Taste

This sweet sauce is the base of many sauces. The flavourings are added to taste.

Ingredients: 1oz. butter, 1oz. flour, about 1 pint milk, 1oz. sugar.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, stir in the flour gradually, then add the milk, and stir until it smokes. Boil and stir for a few minutes until thickened.

Add flavouring desired and serve.

When you have eaten up the ginger in the jar, use the syrup to flavour the above sauce and serve it with ginger pudding, with a pinch of chopped up ginger in it, if there is any left.

When Children Dream

MANY mothers are disturbed by a child crying in his sleep, or waking up frightened after a bad dream.

Children's dreams are nearer the surface than those of the adult, because the child is nearer to nature. His dreams concern eating and drinking, his pleasures, his likes and dislikes, and his life is so full of make-believe that there is a very thin line between the dreams of his sleeping hours and his daily life.

A child who has terrifying dreams is often the victim of a person who is in the habit of describing some gruesome situation or telling a fearsome story. Adults should remember that a youngster magnifies any horror tenfold. Moreover, he may be worried about something comparatively insignificant, and so his sleep is troubled.

The best way to help such a child is to prevent his day-dreaming propensities by inducing him to work out his ideas. Ask him to draw something, or to paint something for you. When it is finished take an interest, and get him to explain what it is all about. He should be encouraged to make up stories and regale the nursery with them. This gives a great feeling of importance and helps to release the tension of his mind by giving expression to his ideas.

It is an excellent entertainment to tell a child a story and then get him to retell it in his own words. There is a school where children are allowed

Fine Feathers

Fine feathers make fine millinery, the feathered hat being in vogue. This one has an exaggerated height on a very small, flat hat which, please note, is worn over a smooth.

USING UP COLD SUET PUDDING

THERE are several ways of using up cold suet pudding. If it is quite unsweetened it can be cut into slices and roasted with a joint of mutton or beef in the same way as potatoes. For this purpose the slices should be rather thick.

Another way is to slice the pudding thinly, stamp fancy shapes out of the slices, and fry them in butter. Sprinkled with sugar, and a little lemon juice if liked, and served very hot, they make a delicious and unusual sweet.

A simpler and plainer way is to crumble up the pudding as finely as possible, add a little milk, and press it into a buttered cup. Steam it for about half an hour and serve with jam or golden syrup.

A suet pudding with fruit in can be treated in the same way, but served with custard or white sauce instead of jam. This method makes it much nicer than when it is reheated over a pan of water.

to produce their ideas of fairies and pixies in clay after a period of a day or so following the story. This school recognises the necessity of leading out the imagination into the active life of reality.

Children who suffer from crying in dreams or who wake up frightened should not be given soothing mixtures unless a doctor orders them. The remedy often lies in checking their fantastic imaginations by giving this energy outlets.

Do You Say "Beg Pardon"?

Worse still is the woman who uses an adult brand of baby talk in public. She says "I" for thank you, and "by-by" when she leaves you. Or she embarrasses you with a loud reference to her "hubby," or maybe even "your hubby." I have seen men grow red with rage on hearing that sort of conversation.

The other day I sat beside a "Pardon!" and looks a little mystified spoke at first her accent was good when he sees the look of pain on my face and my husband's teeth on edge.

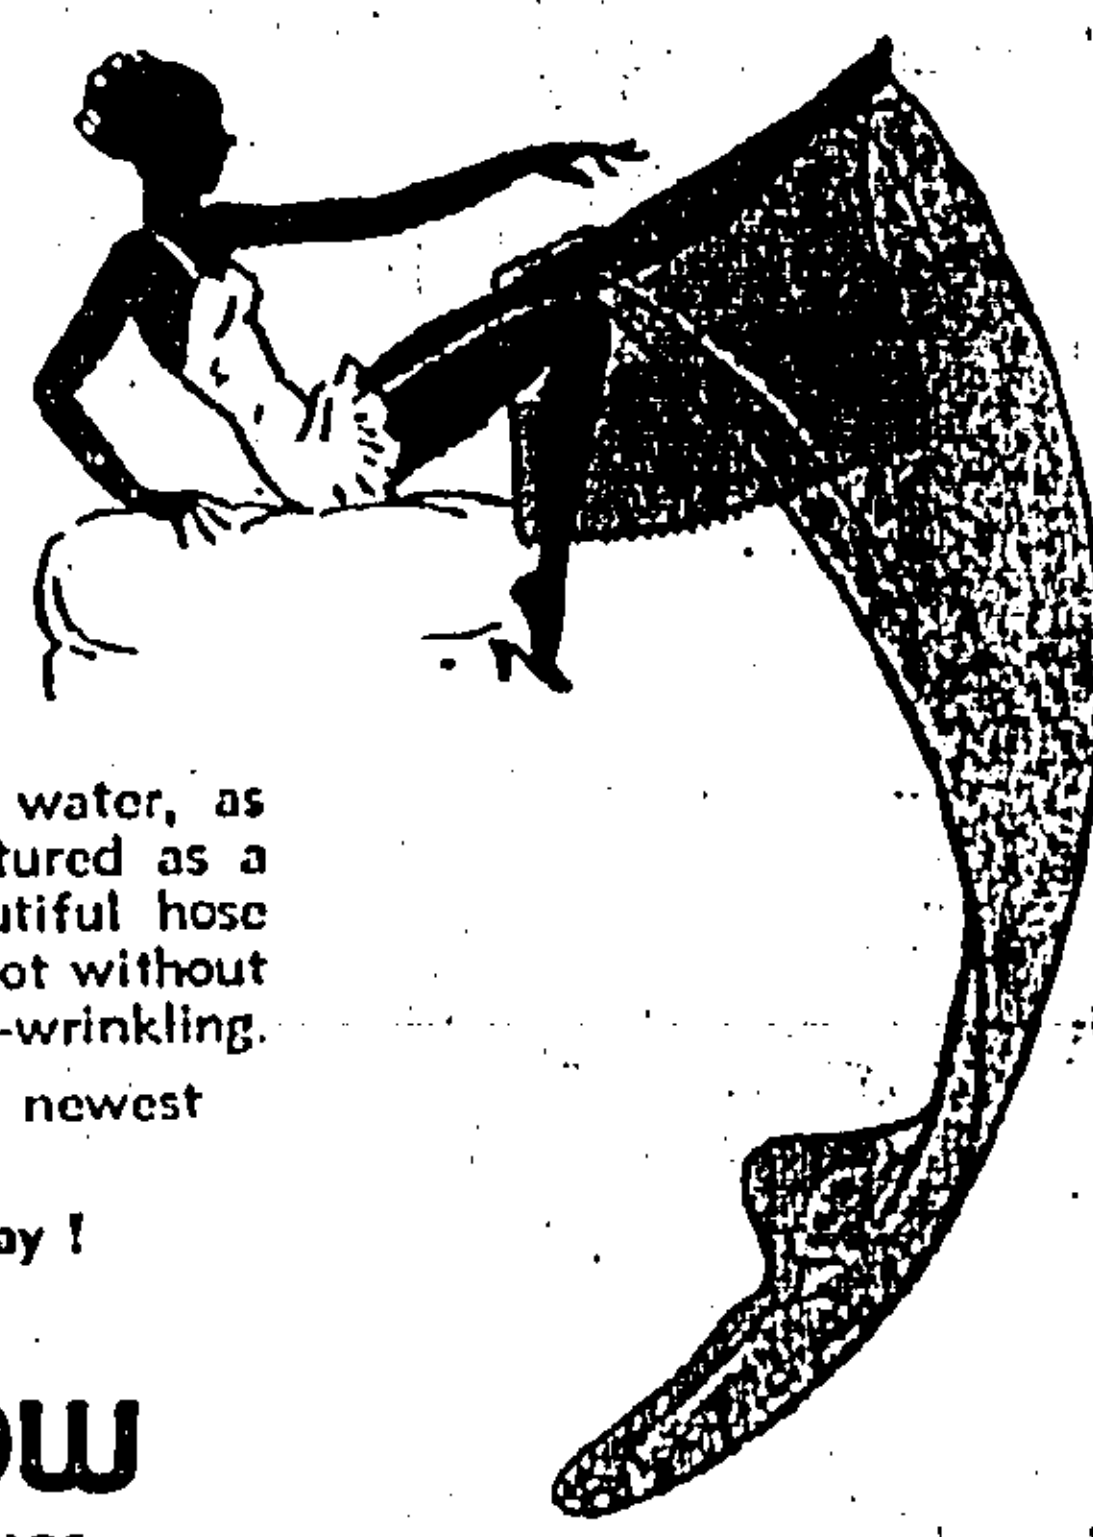

He is a very small boy, but I have tried hard to explain to him that "Pardon!" is a rude and careless way that when half the adult world has the opposite idea?

"Gentle" Vulgarities
I am not normally a purist. I use slang occasionally, but there is a whole lot of modern rowdiness in the language that makes me feel positively ill. "Kiddies" is a sample. It is not a friendly way of saying "children"; it is just an ugly, useless word, and a gross insult to children anyway.

Yet hardly a day passes but some-

"Murdering" the Language
I know that this modern adulteration of the language is only carelessness, but it is the kind of carelessness that threatens to grow and grow until it has distorted everything graceful in our speech. Already there are signs of it in "pardon." The friends who taught my son that this is politeness honestly believed that they were right.

Will the day come when "kiddies" and "hubby" take the same step out of the ranks of vulgarity into the court of the mock genteel? An unpleasant thought. But it seems it

New Styles In Spectacles

THE newest spectacles, either rimless or framed in the new natural tones, are aids to beauty as well as aids to sight. Already they are enjoying a well-deserved popularity, for they impart a youthful air to the wearer.

The new natural tone frames can be obtained in a variety of shades to match any type of skin, and are particularly delightful on a brunette. Frames of crystal material or the new white gold are charming when worn by a fair girl, and give added beauty to the white-haired woman.

Rimless spectacles in shapes to suit everyone have returned to popularity, and are most becoming when made with side-pieces of crystal material. Tortoiseshell and horn-rimmed frames are still very fashionable, and they can be obtained in either light or dark shades.

The great secret in buying spectacles lies in trying on as many styles as possible. You will then be able to find out exactly which style suits you best.

Large circular lenses are inclined to make your face look more plump than it really is, so if you have a round face, choose the contour shape spectacles which are so fashionable. If your nose is short or tipped, make sure that your glasses have a high bridge, as this will make your nose look longer, but if your nose is long, you can make it appear shorter by wearing glasses fitted with a low bridge.

If you only require to wear glasses occasionally, you can now obtain most attractive folding spectacles, which fold up into very small compass. They are useful for carrying in your handbag.

For evening wear you may choose your spectacles to match your frocks, as frames are now made in almost every colour. Both red and green rims are popular, and the new blue and pale heliotrope rims are in great request.

The latest fashion is to have a lorgnette fashioned like a diamond clip to wear in your evening frock. These ornamental oval or octagonal clips may be had in a variety of lovely designs, which completely hide the folded lenses of the lorgnette. When you require to use your lorgnette you simply undo the clip, unfold the lenses, and use the

Jews To Hold Special Synagogue Service

THE TIDE OF Jewish immigration to the Far East will rise to-morrow with the arrival in Hongkong of a further large batch of refugees from Austria. Only a few of the refugees will disembark in Hongkong. The majority will proceed on to Shanghai, where they hope to find some means of employment.

Included in the refugees arriving to-morrow are many women and children forced to flee from the homes by Nazi persecution. Jewish residents of Hongkong will attend a Special Service at the 'Ohel Lehi' Synagogue at 11 a.m. on Sunday, when prayers will be offered on behalf of stranded Jewish refugees on the German-Polish frontier.

Similar services are being held on Sunday throughout the British Empire, on the German-Polish frontier were expelled from Germany, but were not allowed to enter Poland.

They are now in a sort of "No Man's Land"—unwanted by either country. They are camped in the open, in bitter winter weather, with no means of obtaining adequate food or shelter.

A "Trans-Ocean" message this morning stated that an exchange of notes has taken place between Germany and Poland concerning these unfortunate refugees.

The German Government has informed Poland that it does not see its way clear to rescinding the decree of expulsion, but is prepared to allow those Jews already expelled to return to Germany for a short period, in order to wind up their affairs.

They will be authorised to take only their movable property with them when they return to Poland. Money at their credit in German banks and real estate must remain in Germany.

The arrangement will not remain valid after July 31.

MASS EXPULSIONS

Prague, Jan. 25. Further mass expulsions from the district of Teschen, which formerly belonged to Czechoslovakia, but is now Polish, took place to-day, according to reports in the "Ceske Slovo".

This time, however, the expulsions included people who had resided permanently in the district, and even those who formerly attended the Polish university and schools.

The notice given for leaving the country, which hitherto had always been 24 hours, was this time reduced to five hours, and in a few cases only one hour was allowed for the people to get out.

The Moravian authorities at Ostrava have built 16 shelters for the expelled, which number altogether 3,000.

The Polish authorities explain this new expatriation by reference to the new frontiers incident near Michal-kovice, but the Czechoslovak police authorities assert that the reason why this frontier incident occurred was because Polish terrorists crossed the border and fired on the Czechs.—Trans-Ocean.

LATE NEWS

Refugee Zone For 150,000 Catalans

Paris, Jan. 25. Confirmation was forthcoming this evening of the report that Senor Alvarez Del Vayo, the Spanish Loyalist Foreign Minister, during his visit to Paris at the beginning of this week, had discussed with M. Georges Bonnet the suggestion of establishing on the French side of the Pyrenees frontier a refugee camp for 150,000 Catalan refugees.

It is learned that the French Government will insist that only women, children and the infirm will be allowed to cross the frontier as refugees.

The newspaper "Temps" demands that strict control be exercised over all persons fleeing from Catalonia. The fall of Barcelona, it adds, will be the turning point in the Spanish civil war, and it is bound to have far-reaching effects upon the European situation.—Trans-Ocean.

Refugees Mass On French Frontier

Paris, Jan. 25. Plans to reinforce border surveillance were rushed to completion as the first group of 2,000 Spanish refugees waited at La Jonquera for permission to cross the border.

Twenty-two platoons of French border guards are ready at the frontier, as well as at between-towns, to deal with the fleeing Spanish refugees.

There is no question of turning the refugees back once they reach France, but the authorities are anxious to avoid congestion at border points, and plan to scatter the refugees as quickly as possible.

When they cross the frontier they will be questioned, disarmed and sent to concentration camps pending settlement in semi-permanent places of refuge.—United Press.

U.S. Won't Lift Arms Embargo

Washington, Jan. 25. The State Department to-day indicated that there was little likelihood of President Roosevelt lifting the Spanish embargo.

It was revealed that increasing pressure had been brought to bear on the State Department as General Franco had advanced towards Barcelona.

President Roosevelt at a press conference said that he believed the Attorney-General's office had investigated Presidential authority to lift the embargo, but had referred the question to the State Department.—United Press.

N.Y.K. BID FOR BIG FLEET

N.Y.K. announced to-day that keels of two new 27,600-ton liners for Hongkong-San Francisco service will be laid in March and October this year.

In addition, the N.Y.K. has authorised construction of eleven new 10,000-ton liners, four of which will be laid down this year.

AMERICA'S UNDECLARED WAR ON JAPAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.

ANY DECISION by the United States to ship arms to the Government of Spain, might be met with seizures of the supplies by the Insurgents, Germany, or Italy, and might involve the United States in war, said Senator Lewis in the Senate to-day.

He denounced "outside influence attempting to terrorise Congress into repealing the embargo law", and said far from being removed, it should be lightened.

BRITAIN BLAMED

Senator Reynolds, declaring that Senator Lewis expressed his own sentiments exactly, shouted: "This country is warring with Japan at the present time. There is an undeclared war on the part of the United States against Japan."

He said that the war began the day on which the export bank authorised the $25,000,000 loan to China, and he added: "I know that somehow or other, Great Britain would get us involved in the Orient, and now they have got us started on the way." Senator Reynolds declared that the credits advanced to China were the result of an "agreement" with Britain, reached when Mr. Anthony Eden visited the United States.—Reuter.

Brutal Attack On Woman

A BRUTAL ATTACK on a 58-year-old woman in Tai Wan Road by three men will have a sequel in Court to-day when a man, alleged to be one of the participants in the attack, will appear in Court.

The victim of the outrage was Mrs. Fang Yiu, residing at Tai Wai Street.

The attack occurred in broad daylight yesterday afternoon, as Mrs. Fang was returning to her home from the Kowloon office of the China Light and Power Company.

As she was walking down the street, a man ran up suddenly behind her and knocked her over.

When she fell, the man sat on her to prevent her from rising again.

As she struggled two other men came up and systematically but quickly robbed her of all her valuables, which included a purse containing $58 in banknotes.

The three men then decamped. Struggling to her feet, Mrs. Fang ran after the men. A large crowd of Chinese, attracted by the cries, also took up the chase and a man was captured near the Green Island cement works by a lorry driver.

Mrs. Fang subsequently identified the man, who has been arrested, as one of her assailants.
